U. S., Saying Atom Arms Race Is On, Charges Russian Plan Of Control Would Be "Fraud"

Council Embarks On Police Report Study

LAKE SUCCESS, June 4 (AP) — The United States warned today that an atomic arms race is on and charged that a system of atomic control advocated by Soviet Russia would be a "fraud on the peoples of the world."

The United States said, furthermore, that such a system would breed antagonism, distrust and suspicion and increase the danger of atomic war.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, made it clear that his country would exert every effort to maintain its ranking position on atomic armaments until satisfactory international controls were agreed upon by the countries of the world.

Stinging Language

He said large atomic operations were going on in Canada, England and Russia as well as the United States.

Osborn spoke at a closed meeting of the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Commission after conferring yesterday in Washington with State Department officials. His language was some of the sharpest so far heard in the year-long deliberations of the atomic commission.

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council embarked on detailed study of a long report from its Big Five military staff committee on formation of a global police force. This contained wide differences between Russia and the other four military committee members—Britain, China, France and the United States.

The fundamental Soviet point rejected by Osborn was a suggestion for creation of an international agency to inspect the operations of all national atomic agencies and to give these national atomic agencies orders as to what to do.

U. S. Proposes World Agency

The United States has proposed creation of an international agency with full control over atomic matters in every country.

Osborn said that if the international agency is to be an effective instrument to eliminate the danger of atomic war it would have to give orders to national agencies as to location of atomic plants and to the amount of nuclear fuel which national agencies would be allowed to have on hand.

"It is the very fixed opinion of the United States government that such a system (the Russian plan) would be a fraud on the peoples of the world," Osborn said emphatically.

He declared that if the international agency gave orders to the national agencies this would provoke constant conflict between the international organ and the national groups. He declared he could see nothing but trouble if this plan were adopted.

PICKET IS REFUSED ASSAULT COMPLAINT AGAINST FDR'S SON

LOS ANGELES, June 4 (AP)—Picket George Hardy was refused an assault and battery complaint today against John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late President.

Hardy, testifying briefly before Assistant City Attorney Don M. Redwine, declared Roosevelt took a punch at him in front of a women's wear store during picketing operations.

Roosevelt, an executive of the store (Grayson's) giving his version, said: "I have my hands in my pocket as I walked in front of the store. I have a peculiar habit of walking with my hands in my pocket.

"Hardy threatened without provocation to smash me in the face. Later, when police came, he pleaded with me to have him arrested. I declined to accommodate him."

Senate Group OKs Measure To Unify Armed Services

Debate Is Expected To Start Next Month

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—By a vote of 12 to 0, the Senate Armed Services Committee today approved legislation to put the Army, Navy and a new, separate Air Force under the "unified direction" of a Secretary of National Security.

The Republican leadership has put the measure on the calendar for Senate action this session. Debate is expected to start next month. The House Expenditures Committee has held hearings but has not yet approved a bill.

The committee deferred until next week a decision on whether to hold hearings on a universal training program urged by a presidential study commission as vital to national safety.

Gurney Backs Training Program

Chairman Gurney (R-ND) declined to state his views on whether there should be hearings, but he told reporters with respect to the proposed training program:

"I'm for it—stronger than horseradish."

The unification bill specifies that there shall be no merger of the armed services.

To meet long-argued objections that the Army might swallow up the Marines, the committee wrote in a section saying the legislation does not authorfize "the alteration or diminution of the relative status of the Marine Corps."

"Ike" Supports Legislation

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, told Gurney in a letter that despite some modification of the original draft of the bill, "I believe that the legislation in its present form represents a thoroughly practicable organization of the armed services which will permit us with increased economy and efficiency to do our part in the preservation of peace and, if need be, the prosecution of war."

The Navy, opposed to the merger program first proposed by President Truman but willing to go along on the compromise unification bill, had no immediate comment.

Two Policemen Charged With Statutory Rape

OAKLAND, Calif., June 4 (AP)—Two Oakland police officers were charged with statutory rape of a 16-year-old high school girl in complaints signed by the girl's mother today.

The complaints named Patrolmen Robert G. Bell, 27, and Edward E. Bauer, 34. Both were identified by the girl as her attackers Saturday night in the Sequoia Park hills, Assistant District Attorney Robert McCreary said.

The charges said the officers found the girl and a boy friend in an embrace in a car parked in the lover's lane section of the park and promised not to "arrest" the young people on condition the girl submit to them.

Braden's Resignation As Assistant Secretary Is Accepted By Truman

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—President Truman accepted the resignation of Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden today, just 24 hours after the United States acted to re-establish good relations with Argentina.

Braden, outspoken critic of Argentina's policy in the past, leaves the State Department June 30. This vacancy in Secretary Marshall's official family may be filled in either one of two ways, according to present informed speculation.

Marshall may name someone with long experience in foreign affairs to head up not only Latin American policy, which Braden handled exclusively, but also all political divisions.

Or, Marshall may continue to handle directly with the Under-secretary political affairs outside this hemisphere and get a new assistant secretary for Latin American matters only.

The White House made public Braden's letter of resignation submitted to the President under date of May 29 and the President's reply thanking Braden for his service of more than a dozen years in the diplomatic field.

SPRUILLE BRADEN

Neither letter referred to the Argentine affair.

12 Perish In Great Lakes Ship Sinking

Three Women Die; 21 Crewmen Saved

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 4. (AP)—Twelve crew members, including three women, perished before dawn today when the fog-beset Canadian freighter Emperor rammed into Lake Superior rocks and sank in the worst Great Lakes shipping disaster in five years.

Twenty-one survivors were plucked from overturned and sinking lifeboats or from the cold rocks off linely Isle Royale, a United States national park jutting up in bleak Lake Superior 48 miles from the tip of northern Michigan.

The vessel, one of about 75 operated by Canada Steamship Lines, normally carried a crew of 35, but two men remained behind when she left Port Arthur, Ont., Tuesday night.

Woman Cook's Body Found

The body of a woman cook, Mrs. Edna Schultz, Owen Sound, Ont., was recovered before Coast Guard surface ships and planes launched a search for the other 11 victims.

Capt. Eldon Walkinshaw, Collingwood, Ont., 61-year-old veteran of 38 years on the lakes, was among those drowned. His first mate and second engineer went down with him.

An unestimated number of the victims were sucked down into the raging vortex of the sinking 7,000-ton Emperor, which overturned one of two lifeboats attempting to clear the stricken vessel.

An 18-year-old coal passed, Ernest Albrecht, youngest of the survivors, described the scene as he waited to board a lifeboat.

Lifeboat Tossed Against Bulkhead

"The ship gave a lunge and water gushing over like a waterfall," he said from his hospital bed. "The port lifeboat was thrown against a bulkhead, with several persons in it.

"I thought my time had come xxx. "The next thing I knew I was in the water, floating with the (life) jacket. I couldn't swim in that water, it was so cold, so I drifted to an overturned life boat and hung on until I saw the American Coast Guard cutter coming."

Not since 1942, when 25 persons drowned in the sinking of a launch in Georgian Bay, 14 in a tug disaster and 18 in a Lake Erie barge, had the Great Lakes exacted such a toll.

Chief Executive Prods Congress

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—President Truman today prodded Congress for (1) "early consideration" of universal training and (2) swift renewal of a batch of war powers slated to end June 30.

At the same time, the White House put a damper on speculation that Mr. Truman will act immediately on the $4,000,000-a-year income tax cut voted yesterday. Secretary Charles G. Ross said action at least won't come before Mr. Truman leaves Friday morning for Kansas City.

The bill reached the White House this afternoon. The President has 10 days to approve or veto. Sundays don't count.

Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House leader, told reporters today that a veto will spell the death of the bill, because its advocates don't have enough votes to override.

A meeting of the Cabinet was called for tomorrow and it was indicated that the tax cut may be a prime topic.

Mr. Truman sent Congress today a report of his advisory commission which recommended unanimously a system of mandatory military training for boys beginning at age 18. He pointed out that the nine-man civilian group called it "an essential element" in a program of national security.

Search Is Under Way For Missing Professor

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 4. (AP)—A widespread search was under way today for Dr. Vernon R. Haber, 55-year-old associate professor of zoology at Pennsylvania State College who has been missing from his home more than 24 hours.

State police were asked to hunt for the missing professor by his wife after he failed to return home for lunch yesterday. When he did not appear to conduct a final examination at the college, the student body joined in the search.

Bloodhounds from the Rockview State Penitentiary were taken to his home in hope they could pick up the trail that may lead into the mountains adjacent to the town where he made a habit of hiking into the woodlands to study bird and animal life. Three airplanes joined the hunt.

Railroads To Merge

CLEVELAND, June 4 (AP)—Robert J. Bowman, president of the Pere Marquette Railroad and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, said tonight that merger of the two roads would be effected Friday morning at Richmond, Va.

Bowman made the announcement after a three-judge federal court in Alexandria, Va., late today refused to issue a temporary injunction against the proposed merger.

Flood Paralyzes Vermont's Second City; No Lives Lost

$2,000,000 Damage; 500 Are Homeless

RUTLAND, Vt., June 4 (AP)—A Flash flood roaring out of a broken power dam paralyzed this second largest Vermont city today causing damage estimated at $2,000,000, but the only feared casualty—a 13 year-old boy—was safe.

Rutland's 78,000 inhabitants were still without drinking water or gas and upwards of 500 persons were homeless, but at 9:25 p. m. (EDT) tonight the city regained its power and light service.

Auxiliary feeder lines began operating just 20 minutes short of 24 hours from the time the flood waters raced down East Creek from the East Pittsford Dam, four miles north of Rutland.

Richard Lavictorie, who police feared may have been swept to his death, was reported safe late this afternoon. Police said only that the body "wandered home okay."

The Army and Red Cross rushed supplies here, the area hardest hit when a half-dozen New England rivers overflowed after yesterday's torrential downpour when almost four inches of rain fell.

Paradoxically, lack of water handcuffed efforts to begin clearing away muck deposited by the flood, which destroyed pipelines to the city reservoir.

Rail service to Canada through picturesque Central Vermont had to be re-routed as lines were washed out and at least one bridge near Rutland toppled—a twisted wreck.

In adjoining New Hampshire, a landslide south of Littleton blocked the Boston and Maine's line between Woodsville and Berlin.

With warm, clear weather tonight, the worst appeared over after one of the steadiest rainfalls that New England has experienced in 20 years. Fair, dry weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Anderson Hints Sugar Rationing May End Soon

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson held out today the possibility of a fairly early end to the rationing of sugar to housewives.

Citing a large Cuban subar crop, Anderson told a Senate Banking Subcommittee that "we are getting very close to the point" where rationing might safely be ended.

There are also some arguments against it, he added, and "I think it is a pretty close question."

Under the law sugar rationing will end October 31, but the Secretary can end it sooner if he deems it wise.

AWOL GI, Who Lived Five Years In Cave, Captured

SIGN CARRIER STAGES HAIR-RAISING SHOW ON LEDGES OF HOTEL

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Usually the crowds in Times Square pay scant attention to a man carrying a sandwich sign—but today a more enterprising one attracted a throng of several thousand by clambering from ledge to ledge along the front of the Hotel Astor.

He put on a 15-minute hair-raising show, inching his way from the fifth floor to the marquee and back up again, while crowds tangled traffic.

Finally he climbed back into the hotel, to be met by an unappreciative police emergency squad.

Arraigned later in Midmanhattan court on charge of endangering the peace and health of others, the sign carrier, John Ciampa, 26, was granted a week's adjournment.

Let Hair Grow Long And Posed As Woman

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 4. (AP)—An AWOL soldier who preferred a barren cave to Army life was in the custody tonight of MPs who had been looking for him for nearly five years.

The strange story of Jesse W. Starr, 30, of Mount Clare, came to light today after he had abandoned his Spartan caveman role and was apprehended at the home of a friend.

Harrison County Deputy Sheriff Andy Casto, who reported the arrest, said military authorities had lodged Starr in the county jail here to await transfer to Charleston.

Drafted In February, 1942

The Provost Marshal's Office in Charleston said Starr was drafted in February, 1942, went AWOL the following September from Camp Reynolds, Pa., and had been the object of an unrelenting search ever since.

Casto said the story he was able to piece together indicated that Starr came immediately back to his little home town of Mount Clare, about five miles from Clarksburg, and took refuge in a cave near the community.

It was a small cave of natural rock formations, but by dint of hard work he enlarged it to about one and a half-times the size of an average bedroom.

Starr's bad was a pallet of rags and straw, Casto related. He let his hair grow out long, although he shaved regularly, and when he came to Clarksburg to buy groceries he was dressed in women's shoes and clothing.

Passed Deputy On Street

"Starr told me," said the deputy, "that he had passed me numbers of times on the street 'close enough to rub shoulders while posing as a woman."

"Where he got the money to buy the supplies," Casto continued, "I do not know."

About three days ago, Casto said, Starr decided to revert to his normal self. He got a hair cut and manicure and donned men's clothes, but for the next two nights continued to occupy his cave.

Then he went to the home of a friend, and his arrest followed, Casto stated.

Senate Will Vote On Treaties Today

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb), told the Senate today that an official Italian message urging revision of the Italian peace treaty apparently had never been officially presented to the Senate for its consideration.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), presiding officer of the Senate, to whom the communication was addressed, told Wherry he had thought the message was included in the transcript of Foreign Relations Committee hearings on the treaty.

Vandenberg said when he discovered today that it was not in the hearings, he handed it to an official reporter with instructions to print it in the Congressional Record.

Wherry said the message was signed by "the honorable Terracini, president of the Italian Constituent Assembly." He read a copy of it to the Senate.

Vandenberg told the Senate the message was "made available to the press" on March 2, "the day it came in." He also said the communication was written after Italy had signed the treaty, now up for ratification in the Senate.

The flurry came late in the second day of debate on treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria, which are to be voted upon at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. Earlier Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and Eastland (D-Miss) had criticized the treaty sharply, while its terms were defended by Minority Leader Barkley (Ky).

Soviets May Be Training Hungarians

U. S. Retaliates For Lack Of Air Rights

BUDAPEST, June 4 (AP) — Soviet Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov has refused permission for a high-ranking American officer to inspect military installations of Hungary, a former enemy country, American spokesmen disclosed today. The Soviet action raised speculation that the Russians may already be taking a hand in training the Hungarian army.

At the same time, the American legation, retaliating for lack of American civil aviation rights over Hungary, formally notified the Communist-dominated government that planes of the Russian-Hungarian Transport Company no longer would be permitted to fly over United States zones in Germany and Austria.

The new policy went into effect yesterday when a planeload of prominent Hungarian Social Democrats, including the Ministry of Industry, was denied clearance to fly to a Socialist conference in Switzerland. The party left today by train.

Meanwhile, best available sources reported these other developments in a rumor-ridden capital:

A sudden boom in the demand for radios which would receive foreign news broadcasts.

An increased demand for automobiles capable of getting at least as far as the Austrian border.

The border patrol has been almost doubled.

Foreign currency, especially American dollars, was much in demand.

There was little stock exchange activity.

Minister Accuses Russians

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — The Hungarian minister to the United States and three associates, accusing the Russians of trying to destroy "all non-Communist democratic forces" in Hungary, announced in a statement tonight that they will not recognize "the legality of the new Hungarian government formed under force."

Minister Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, 44, had previously informed the State Department of his decision to defy the government's orders to return to Budapest.

Those who signed the 400-word statement in addition to the minister were Francis Nagy, 23-year-old attache and son of the Russian-deposed premier of Hungary who is now in Switzerland; Stephen Borsody, 36, counselor, aond Alexander Szasz, financial counselor.

Committee Okays Vets' Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Legislation to increase living allowances for veterans attending college under the GI Bill of Rights was approved today by a Senate Public Welfare Subcommittee.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) told newsmen the group he heads also voted to increase the amount of pay veterans taking on-the-job training may earn and still qualify for federal aid.

In addition, it tentatively approved a bill to fix next September 1 as the final date on which veterans may qualify for education and on-the-job training.

Following a session of the subcommittee behind closed doors, Morse said it agreed on measures to:

1. Raise the subsistence allowance of veterans attending college from $65 a month to $75 for single veterans; from $90 to $105 a month for married veterans with no children; and from $90 to $120 a month to those who are married and have children.

2. Enable a single veteran making less than $200 a month to get-on-job training pay from the government. The present ceiling for single veterans is $175 monthly.

Under the bill the subcommittee approved, the ceiling for married veterans would be $250, instead of $200. Subsistence allowances would still be $65 a month for single veterans and $90 for married ones.

3. Allow the government to furnish automobiles, not only to veterans who have lost a leg, but to those who have lost the use of one or more legs or arms, or who were blinded.

Frank Hague To Retire As Jersey City's Mayor

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 4 (AP) —Frank Hague, one of the last of the great American political bosses of a bygone era, summoned the press into his deeply carpeted inner office at City Hall today and announced his retirement as mayor.

But he made it clear he intends to keep his power as city, county and state Democratic party chieftain, as well as vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Hague said he would leave office on June 17, anniversary of his election as mayor for the first of his eight four-year terms.

16 Men Injured Fighting Fire At Columbus Airfield

COLUMBUS, O., June 4 (AP) — Sixteen enlisted men were injured in fighting a flash fire which today destroyed a Grumman Hellcat fighter plane and damaged a naval air station hangar at Port Columbus airfield.

The fire, brought under control in 19 minutes, served as graduation exercises for the enlisted men, who had just completed a course in fire fighting under the instruction of a mobile fire-fighting training unit from the naval air technical training command at Memphis, Tenn.

Twelve of the enlisted men were hospitalized.

Legislation Is Due To Clear Senate Today

Pressure Building Up On White House

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — A compromise bill to clamp restraints on strikes and unions won final approval of the House today by the terrific margin of 320 to 79, far more than enough to override a presidential veto.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where backers predict it also will pass tomorrow, also by a lop-sided vote. The Senate passed its original labor bill, 68 to 24, or considerably more than the two-thirds necessary to nullify a veto.

The final tally in the House today showed 217 Republicans and 103 Democrats for, 66 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one American-Laborite against.

Although the bill's backers are sure it will become law whatever President Truman does, he is facing one of the most momentous decisions of his career because of its possible effects on the 1948 elections.

Truman Remains Silent

Advocates and opponents of a veto are building up pressure on the White House, but the President remains silent on his intentions.

In today's hot debate, House supporters of the measure said it is a means of meeting John L. Lewis "face to face" and of avoiding "economic chaos."

Opponents denounced it as "an evil thing" turned out by "labor haters." And they went down battling.

Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) made a last minute try to bottle the bill up again in a Senate-House committee that put it in compromise form. He admitted he was whipped before he started—and his motion lost on a 246 to 55 standing vote.

Some major provisions of the bill, subject of weeks of hot controversy between backers and opponents, would:

1. Give the government an injunction weapon to stop "national calamity" strikes during an 80-day period of efforts to settle the disputes by mediation.

Would Ban Closed Shop

2. Forbid various kinds of lesser strikes and boycotts, and ban the closed shop which requires a boss to hire only union members.

3. Make it an unfair labor practice for unions to keep non-strikers from jobs by mass picketing or violence.

4. Permit law suits against unions for unfair labor practices.

5. Create a new agency to mediate disputes, outside the Labor Department.

Chairman Hartley (R-NJ), of the House Labor Committee, said in a statement:

"If the President so disregards the wishes of the American people—including labor's rank and file—and the Congress by vetoing this measure, no doubt will exist that the CIO is again the major political power at the White House."

Marylanders Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Congressmen from Maryland and West Virginia voted this way today when the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to restrict labor unions and strikes:

Republicans for: Beall and Miller, of Maryland; Ellis, Love, Rohrbough and Snyder, of West Virginia.

Pilot Killed When P-80 Plane Plunges Into Bay

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Navy Lt. Donald Eugene Umphfres, 25, Phillips, Tex., veteran night fighter pilot in the Pacific war theater, was killed today when his P-80 plane crashed in Chesapeake Bay during a review before Marine Corps officers from Quantico, Va.

The Navy said Umphfres' plane suddenly nosed into the water 500 yards off the beach at the Patuxent, Md., Naval Air Station as he was doing a low altitude "fly by" at high speed.

No cause for the accident was given.

Fast Track Predicted For Running Of Hopkins "Tartle Darby" Today

BALTIMORE, June 4—(AP)—Eighty sleek shellbacks will go postward at 3 p. m. Daylight Time tomorrow for the 11th running of the annual Johns Hopkins Hospital "Tartle Darby."

Dr. Philip Tumulty, racing secretary of the Hopkins Turf and Turtle Club, says there will be three elimination heats before the final classic.

Approximately 2,000 spectators are expected to crowd the gate, and the race—accompanied by a three-piece band—will be broadcast over a loudspeaker system. It will be run on the hospital tennis courts. Tumulty predicted a fast track.

He said track officials are cracking down this season on the usual questionable pre-derby activities.

Already two entries have been disqualified—one a wharf rat in a mocked-up turtle shell and an entry from the surgical staff which had its tortoise shell replaced with a lighter, aluminum one.

Turtle doping will be strictly dealt with, Tumulty said.

All entries were bred and trained on Frisby Farms at the rear of the Old Clubhouse, which the hospital rents during the off season.

The winner has its name inscribed on the famous Colostomy Cup and takes all the cup's contents—1,000 nickels shelled out by the hospital staff.

Hopkins University has scratched its entry—Terrapin by Station Wagon out of College Park. Too slow, Tumulty said.

Prominent stable colors to be seen at the race will include entries by Screen Stars Jimmy Stewart and Zazu Pitts.

U. S., Saying Atom Arms Race Is On, Charges Russian Plan Of Control Would Be "Fraud"

Council Embarks On Police Report Study

LAKE SUCCESS, June 4 (AP) — The United States warned today that an atomic arms race is on and charged that a system of atomic control advocated by Soviet Russia would be a "fraud on the peoples of the world."

The United States said, furthermore, that such a system would breed antagonism, distrust and suspicion and increase the danger of atomic war.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, made it clear that his country would exert every effort to maintain its ranking position on atomic armaments until satisfactory international controls were agreed upon by the countries of the world.

Stinging Language

He said large atomic operations were going on in Canada, England and Russia as well as the United States.

Osborn spoke at a closed meeting of the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Commission after conferring yesterday in Washington with State Department officials. His language was some of the sharpest so far heard in the year-long deliberations of the atomic commission.

Meanwhile, the United Nations Security Council embarked on detailed study of a long report from its Big Five military staff committee on formation of a global police force. This contained wide differences between Russia and the other four military committee members—Britain, China, France and the United States.

The fundamental Soviet point rejected by Osborn was a suggestion for creation of an international agency to inspect the operations of all national atomic agencies and to give these national atomic agencies orders as to what to do.

U. S. Proposes World Agency

The United States has proposed creation of an international agency with full control over atomic matters in every country.

Osborn said that if the international agency is to be an effective instrument to eliminate the danger of atomic war it would have to give orders to national agencies as to location of atomic plants and to the amount of nuclear fuel which national agencies would be allowed to have on hand.

"It is the very fixed opinion of the United States government that such a system (the Russian plan) would be a fraud on the peoples of the world," Osborn said emphatically.

He declared that if the international agency gave orders to the national agencies this would provoke constant conflict between the international organ and the national groups. He declared he could see nothing but trouble if this plan were adopted.

PICKET IS REFUSED ASSAULT COMPLAINT AGAINST FDR'S SON

LOS ANGELES, June 4 (AP)—Picket George Hardy was refused an assault and battery complaint today against John Roosevelt, youngest son of the late President.

Hardy, testifying briefly before Assistant City Attorney Don M. Redwine, declared Roosevelt took a punch at him in front of a women's wear store during picketing operations.

Roosevelt, an executive of the store (Grayson's) giving his version, said: "I have my hands in my pocket as I walked in front of the store. I have a peculiar habit of walking with my hands in my pocket.

"Hardy threatened without provocation to smash me in the face. Later, when police came, he pleaded with me to have him arrested. I declined to accommodate him."

Senate Group OKs Measure To Unify Armed Services

Debate Is Expected To Start Next Month

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—By a vote of 12 to 0, the Senate Armed Services Committee today approved legislation to put the Army, Navy and a new, separate Air Force under the "unified direction" of a Secretary of National Security.

The Republican leadership has put the measure on the calendar for Senate action this session. Debate is expected to start next month. The House Expenditures Committee has held hearings but has not yet approved a bill.

The committee deferred until next week a decision on whether to hold hearings on a universal training program urged by a presidential study commission as vital to national safety.

Gurney Backs Training Program

Chairman Gurney (R-ND) declined to state his views on whether there should be hearings, but he told reporters with respect to the proposed training program:

"I'm for it—stronger than horseradish."

The unification bill specifies that there shall be no merger of the armed services.

To meet long-argued objections that the Army might swallow up the Marines, the committee wrote in a section saying the legislation does not authorfize "the alteration or diminution of the relative status of the Marine Corps."

"Ike" Supports Legislation

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, told Gurney in a letter that despite some modification of the original draft of the bill, "I believe that the legislation in its present form represents a thoroughly practicable organization of the armed services which will permit us with increased economy and efficiency to do our part in the preservation of peace and, if need be, the prosecution of war."

The Navy, opposed to the merger program first proposed by President Truman but willing to go along on the compromise unification bill, had no immediate comment.

Two Policemen Charged With Statutory Rape

OAKLAND, Calif., June 4 (AP)—Two Oakland police officers were charged with statutory rape of a 16-year-old high school girl in complaints signed by the girl's mother today.

The complaints named Patrolmen Robert G. Bell, 27, and Edward E. Bauer, 34. Both were identified by the girl as her attackers Saturday night in the Sequoia Park hills, Assistant District Attorney Robert McCreary said.

The charges said the officers found the girl and a boy friend in an embrace in a car parked in the lover's lane section of the park and promised not to "arrest" the young people on condition the girl submit to them.

Braden's Resignation As Assistant Secretary Is Accepted By Truman

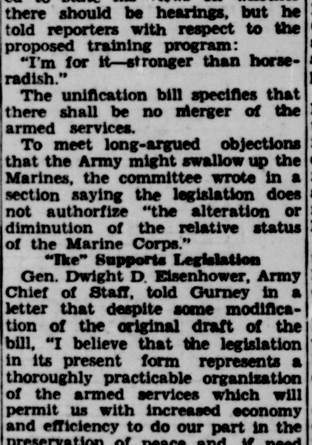
WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—President Truman accepted the resignation of Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden today, just 24 hours after the United States acted to re-establish good relations with Argentina.

Braden, outspoken critic of Argentina's policy in the past, leaves the State Department June 30. This vacancy in Secretary Marshall's official family may be filled in either one of two ways, according to present informed speculation.

Marshall may name someone with long experience in foreign affairs to head up not only Latin American policy, which Braden handled exclusively, but also all political divisions.

Or, Marshall may continue to handle directly with the Under-secretary political affairs outside this hemisphere and get a new assistant secretary for Latin American matters only.

The White House made public Braden's letter of resignation submitted to the President under date of May 29 and the President's reply thanking Braden for his service of more than a dozen years in the diplomatic field.



SPRUILLE BRADEN

Neither letter referred to the Argentine affair.

Three Women Die; 21 Crewmen Saved

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 4. (AP)—Twelve crew members, including three women, perished before dawn today when the fog-beset Canadian freighter Emperor rammed into Lake Superior rocks and sank in the worst Great Lakes shipping disaster in five years.

Twenty-one survivors were plucked from overturned and sinking lifeboats or from the cold rocks off linely Isle Royale, a United States national park jutting up in bleak Lake Superior 48 miles from the tip of northern Michigan.

The vessel, one of about 75 operated by Canada Steamship Lines, normally carried a crew of 35, but two men remained behind when she left Port Arthur, Ont., Tuesday night.

Woman Cook's Body Found

The body of a woman cook, Mrs. Edna Schultz, Owen Sound, Ont., was recovered before Coast Guard surface ships and planes launched a search for the other 11 victims.

Capt. Eldon Walkinshaw, Collingwood, Ont., 61-year-old veteran of 38 years on the lakes, was among those drowned. His first mate and second engineer went down with him.

An unestimated number of the victims were sucked down into the raging vortex of the sinking 7,000-ton Emperor, which overturned one of two lifeboats attempting to clear the stricken vessel.

An 18-year-old coal passed, Ernest Albrecht, youngest of the survivors, described the scene as he waited to board a lifeboat.

Lifeboat Tossed Against Bulkhead

"The ship gave a lunge and water gushing over like a waterfall," he said from his hospital bed. "The port lifeboat was thrown against a bulkhead, with several persons in it.

"I thought my time had come xxx.

"The next thing I knew I was in the water, floating with the (life) jacket. I couldn't swim in that water, it was so cold, so I drifted to an overturned life boat and hung on until I saw the American Coast Guard cutter coming."

Not since 1942, when 25 persons drowned in the sinking of a launch in Georgian Bay, 14 in a tug disaster and 18 in a Lake Erie barge, had the Great Lakes exacted such a toll.

Chief Executive Prods Congress

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—President Truman today prodded Congress for (1) "early consideration" of universal training and (2) swift renewal of a batch of war powers slated to end June 30.

At the same time, the White House put a damper on speculation that Mr. Truman will act immediately on the $4,000,000-a-year income tax cut voted yesterday. Secretary Charles G. Ross said action at least won't come before Mr. Truman leaves Friday morning for Kansas City.

The bill reached the White House this afternoon. The President has 10 days to approve or veto. Sundays don't count.

Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House leader, told reporters today that a veto will spell the death of the bill, because its advocates don't have enough votes to override.

A meeting of the Cabinet was called for tomorrow and it was indicated that the tax cut may be a prime topic.

Mr. Truman sent Congress today a report of his advisory commission which recommended unanimously a system of mandatory military training for boys beginning at age 18. He pointed out that the nine-man civilian group called it "an essential element" in a program of national security.

Search Is Under Way For Missing Professor

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 4. (AP)—A widespread search was under way today for Dr. Vernon R. Haber, 55-year-old associate professor of zoology at Pennsylvania State College who has been missing from his home more than 24 hours.

State police were asked to hunt for the missing professor by his wife after he failed to return home for lunch yesterday. When he did not appear to conduct a final examination at the college, the student body joined in the search.

Bloodhounds from the Rockview State Penitentiary were taken to his home in hope they could pick up the trail that may lead into the mountains adjacent to the town where he made a habit of hiking into the woodlands to study bird and animal life. Three airplanes joined the hunt.

Railroads To Merge

CLEVELAND, June 4 (AP)—Robert J. Bowman, president of the Pere Marquette Railroad and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, said tonight that merger of the two roads would be effected Friday morning at Richmond, Va.

Bowman made the announcement after a three-judge federal court in Alexandria, Va., late today refused to issue a temporary injunction against the proposed merger.

Flood Paralyzes Vermont's Second City; No Lives Lost

$2,000,000 Damage; 500 Are Homeless

RUTLAND, Vt., June 4 (AP)—A Flash flood roaring out of a broken power dam paralyzed this second largest Vermont city today causing damage estimated at $2,000,000, but the only feared casualty—a 13 year-old boy—was safe.

Rutland's 78,000 inhabitants were still without drinking water or gas and upwards of 500 persons were homeless, but at 9:25 p. m. (EDT) tonight the city regained its power and light service.

Auxiliary feeder lines began operating just 20 minutes short of 24 hours from the time the flood waters raced down East Creek from the East Pittsford Dam, four miles north of Rutland.

Richard Lavictorie, who police feared may have been swept to his death, was reported safe late this afternoon. Police said only that the body "wandered home okay."

The Army and Red Cross rushed supplies here, the area hardest hit when a half-dozen New England rivers overflowed after yesterday's torrential downpour when almost four inches of rain fell.

Paradoxically, lack of water handcuffed efforts to begin clearing away muck deposited by the flood, which destroyed pipelines to the city reservoir.

Rail service to Canada through picturesque Central Vermont had to be re-routed as lines were washed out and at least one bridge near Rutland toppled—a twisted wreck.

In adjoining New Hampshire, a landslide south of Littleton blocked the Boston and Maine's line between Woodsville and Berlin.

With warm, clear weather tonight, the worst appeared over after one of the steadiest rainfalls that New England has experienced in 20 years. Fair, dry weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Anderson Hints Sugar Rationing May End Soon

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson held out today the possibility of a fairly early end to the rationing of sugar to housewives.

Citing a large Cuban subar crop, Anderson told a Senate Banking Subcommittee that "we are getting very close to the point" where rationing might safely be ended.

There are also some arguments against it, he added, and "I think it is a pretty close question."

Under the law sugar rationing will end October 31, but the Secretary can end it sooner if he deems it wise.

AWOL GI, Who Lived Five Years In Cave, Captured

SIGN CARRIER STAGES HAIR-RAISING SHOW ON LEDGES OF HOTEL

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Usually the crowds in Times Square pay scant attention to a man carrying a sandwich sign—but today a more enterprising one attracted a throng of several thousand by clambering from ledge to ledge along the front of the Hotel Astor.

He put on a 15-minute hair-raising show, inching his way from the fifth floor to the marquee and back up again, while crowds tangled traffic.

Finally he climbed back into the hotel, to be met by an unappreciative police emergency squad.

Arraigned later in Midmanhattan court on charge of endangering the peace and health of others, the sign carrier, John Ciampa, 26, was granted a week's adjournment.

Let Hair Grow Long And Posed As Woman

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 4. (AP)—An AWOL soldier who preferred a barren cave to Army life was in the custody tonight of MPs who had been looking for him for nearly five years.

The strange story of Jesse W. Starr, 30, of Mount Clare, came to light today after he had abandoned his Spartan caveman role and was apprehended at the home of a friend.

Harrison County Deputy Sheriff Andy Casto, who reported the arrest, said military authorities had lodged Starr in the county jail here to await transfer to Charleston.

Drafted In February, 1942

The Provost Marshal's Office in Charleston said Starr was drafted in February, 1942, went AWOL the following September from Camp Reynolds, Pa., and had been the object of an unrelenting search ever since.

Casto said the story he was able to piece together indicated that Starr came immediately back to his little home town of Mount Clare, about five miles from Clarksburg, and took refuge in a cave near the community.

It was a small cave of natural rock formations, but by dint of hard work he enlarged it to about one and a half-times the size of an average bedroom.

Starr's bad was a pallet of rags and straw, Casto related. He let his hair grow out long, although he shaved regularly, and when he came to Clarksburg to buy groceries he was dressed in women's shoes and clothing.

Passed Deputy On Street

"Starr told me," said the deputy, "that he had passed me numbers of times on the street 'close enough to rub shoulders while posing as a woman."

"Where he got the money to buy the supplies," Casto continued, "I do not know."

About three days ago, Casto said, Starr decided to revert to his normal self. He got a hair cut and manicure and donned men's clothes, but for the next two nights continued to occupy his cave.

Then he went to the home of a friend, and his arrest followed, Casto stated.

Senate Will Vote On Treaties Today

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—Sen. Wherry (R-Neb), told the Senate today that an official Italian message urging revision of the Italian peace treaty apparently had never been officially presented to the Senate for its consideration.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), presiding officer of the Senate, to whom the communication was addressed, told Wherry he had thought the message was included in the transcript of Foreign Relations Committee hearings on the treaty.

Vandenberg said when he discovered today that it was not in the hearings, he handed it to an official reporter with instructions to print it in the Congressional Record.

Wherry said the message was signed by "the honorable Terracini, president of the Italian Constituent Assembly." He read a copy of it to the Senate.

Vandenberg told the Senate the message was "made available to the press" on March 2, "the day it came in." He also said the communication was written after Italy had signed the treaty, now up for ratification in the Senate.

The flurry came late in the second day of debate on treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria, which are to be voted upon at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. Earlier Sen. Bridges (R-NH) and Eastland (D-Miss) had criticized the treaty sharply, while its terms were defended by Minority Leader Barkley (Ky).

Soviets May Be Training Hungarians

U. S. Retaliates For Lack Of Air Rights

BUDAPEST, June 4 (AP) — Soviet Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov has refused permission for a high-ranking American officer to inspect military installations of Hungary, a former enemy country, American spokesmen disclosed today. The Soviet action raised speculation that the Russians may already be taking a hand in training the Hungarian army.

At the same time, the American legation, retaliating for lack of American civil aviation rights over Hungary, formally notified the Communist-dominated government that planes of the Russian-Hungarian Transport Company no longer would be permitted to fly over United States zones in Germany and Austria.

The new policy went into effect yesterday when a planeload of prominent Hungarian Social Democrats, including the Ministry of Industry, was denied clearance to fly to a Socialist conference in Switzerland. The party left today by train.

Meanwhile, best available sources reported these other developments in a rumor-ridden capital:

A sudden boom in the demand for radios which would receive foreign news broadcasts.

An increased demand for automobiles capable of getting at least as far as the Austrian border.

The border patrol has been almost doubled.

Foreign currency, especially American dollars, was much in demand.

There was little stock exchange activity.

Minister Accuses Russians

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — The Hungarian minister to the United States and three associates, accusing the Russians of trying to destroy "all non-Communist democratic forces" in Hungary, announced in a statement tonight that they will not recognize "the legality of the new Hungarian government formed under force."

Minister Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, 44, had previously informed the State Department of his decision to defy the government's orders to return to Budapest.

Those who signed the 400-word statement in addition to the minister were Francis Nagy, 23-year-old attache and son of the Russian-deposed premier of Hungary who is now in Switzerland; Stephen Borsody, 36, counselor, aond Alexander Szasz, financial counselor.

Committee Okays Vets' Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Legislation to increase living allowances for veterans attending college under the GI Bill of Rights was approved today by a Senate Public Welfare Subcommittee.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) told newsmen the group he heads also voted to increase the amount of pay veterans taking on-the-job training may earn and still qualify for federal aid.

In addition, it tentatively approved a bill to fix next September 1 as the final date on which veterans may qualify for education and on-the-job training.

Following a session of the subcommittee behind closed doors, Morse said it agreed on measures to:

1. Raise the subsistence allowance of veterans attending college from $65 a month to $75 for single veterans; from $90 to $105 a month for married veterans with no children; and from $90 to $120 a month to those who are married and have children.

2. Enable a single veteran making less than $200 a month to get-on-job training pay from the government. The present ceiling for single veterans is $175 monthly.

Under the bill the subcommittee approved, the ceiling for married veterans would be $250, instead of $200. Subsistence allowances would still be $65 a month for single veterans and $90 for married ones.

3. Allow the government to furnish automobiles, not only to veterans who have lost a leg, but to those who have lost the use of one or more legs or arms, or who were blinded.

Frank Hague To Retire As Jersey City's Mayor

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 4 (AP) —Frank Hague, one of the last of the great American political bosses of a bygone era, summoned the press into his deeply carpeted inner office at City Hall today and announced his retirement as mayor.

But he made it clear he intends to keep his power as city, county and state Democratic party chieftain, as well as vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Hague said he would leave office on June 17, anniversary of his election as mayor for the first of his eight four-year terms.

16 Men Injured Fighting Fire At Columbus Airfield

COLUMBUS, O., June 4 (AP) — Sixteen enlisted men were injured in fighting a flash fire which today destroyed a Grumman Hellcat fighter plane and damaged a naval air station hangar at Port Columbus airfield.

The fire, brought under control in 19 minutes, served as graduation exercises for the enlisted men, who had just completed a course in fire fighting under the instruction of a mobile fire-fighting training unit from the naval air technical training command at Memphis, Tenn.

Twelve of the enlisted men were hospitalized.

Legislation Is Due To Clear Senate Today

Pressure Building Up On White House

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — A compromise bill to clamp restraints on strikes and unions won final approval of the House today by the terrific margin of 320 to 79, far more than enough to override a presidential veto.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where backers predict it also will pass tomorrow, also by a lop-sided vote. The Senate passed its original labor bill, 68 to 24, or considerably more than the two-thirds necessary to nullify a veto.

The final tally in the House today showed 217 Republicans and 103 Democrats for, 66 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one American-Laborite against.

Although the bill's backers are sure it will become law whatever President Truman does, he is facing one of the most momentous decisions of his career because of its possible effects on the 1948 elections.

Truman Remains Silent

Advocates and opponents of a veto are building up pressure on the White House, but the President remains silent on his intentions.

In today's hot debate, House supporters of the measure said it is a means of meeting John L. Lewis "face to face" and of avoiding "economic chaos."

Opponents denounced it as "an evil thing" turned out by "labor haters." And they went down battling.

Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) made a last minute try to bottle the bill up again in a Senate-House committee that put it in compromise form. He admitted he was whipped before he started—and his motion lost on a 246 to 55 standing vote.

Some major provisions of the bill, subject of weeks of hot controversy between backers and opponents, would:

1. Give the government an injunction weapon to stop "national calamity" strikes during an 80-day period of efforts to settle the disputes by mediation.

Would Ban Closed Shop

2. Forbid various kinds of lossey strikes and boycotts, and ban the closed shop which requires a boss to hire only union members.

3. Make it an unfair labor practice for unions to keep non-strikers from jobs by mass picketing or violence.

4. Permit law suits against unions for unfair labor pracitces.

5. Create a new agency to mediate disputes, outside the Labor Department.

Chairman Hartley (R-NJ), of the House Labor Committee, said in a statement:

"If the President so disregards the wishes of the American people—including labor's rank and file—and the Congress by vetoing this measure, no doubt will exist that the CIO is again the major political power at the White House."

Marylanders Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Congressmen from Maryland and West Virginia voted this way today when the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to restrict labor unions and strikes:

Republicans for: Beall and Miller, of Maryland; Ellis, Love, Rohrbough and Snyder, of West Virginia.

Democrats for: Fallon, Meade and Sasscer, of Maryland.

Democrats against: Hedrick and Kee, of West Virginia.

Pilot Killed When P-80 Plane Plunges Into Bay

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—Navy Lt. Donald Eugene Umphfres, 25, Phillips, Tex., veteran night fighter pilot in the Pacific war theater, was killed today when his P-80 plane crashed in Chesapeake Bay during a review before Marine Corps officers from Quantico, Va.

The Navy said Umphfres' plane suddenly nosed into the water 500 yards off the beach at the Patuxent, Md., Naval Air Station as he was doing a low altitude "fly by" at high speed.

No cause for the accident was given.

Fast Track Predicted For Running Of Hopkins "Tartle Darby" Today

BALTIMORE, June 4—(AP)—Eighty sleek shellbacks will go postward at 3 p. m. Daylight Time tomorrow for the 11th running of the annual Johns Hopkins Hospital "Tartle Darby."

Dr. Philip Tumulty, racing secretary of the Hopkins Turf and Turtle Club, says there will be three elimination heats before the final classic.

Approximately 2,000 spectators are expected to crowd the gate, and the race—accompanied by a three-piece band—will be broadcast over a loudspeaker system. It will be run on the hospital tennis courts. Tumulty predicted a fast track.

He said track officials are cracking down this season on the usual questionable pre-derby activities.

Already two entries have been disqualified—one a wharf rat in a mocked-up turtle shell and an entry from the surgical staff which had its tortoise shell replaced with a lighter, aluminum one.

Turtle doping will be strictly dealt with, Tumulty said.

All entries were bred and trained on Frisby Farms at the rear of the Old Clubhouse, which the hospital rents during the off season.

The winner has its name inscribed on the famous Colostomy Cup and takes all the cup's contents—1,000 nickels shelled out by the hospital staff.

Hopkins University has scratched its entry—Terrapin by Station Wagon out of College Park. Too slow, Tumulty said.

Prominent stable colors to be seen at the race will include entries by Screen Stars Jimmy Stewart and Zazu Pitts.

Coal Talks Fail; Action On Labor Bill Is Awaited

Chance Of Strike Is Miners' Ace In Hole

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Contract negotiations between John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators were washed out indefinitely today. Both sides settled down to wait for President Truman's action on the Taft-Hartley labor bill and the approach of a July strike deadline.

Both Lewis and the operators seemed content to mark time while pressures build up for a settlement.

The miners' ace in the hole is the chance of a strike July 1, or July 7 at the latest. The opeartors have an eye on the restrictions on a mine walkout which the labor bill will impose if the President signs it or Congress overrides a veto.

Action Likely By June 15

Action on the legislation seems likely by June 15. The government's contract with Lewis and his 400,000 soft coal miners expires June 30 with the lapsing of wartime authority to retain government possession of the mines.

The miners don't work without a contract, so a strike is considered likely if a new pact is not reached. The mines were seized in last spring's strike.

The miners have a 10-day vacation coming to them beginning June 27, and union officials have indicated the miners will consider themselves idle for that reason until July 7.

The United Mine Workers negotiators refused to attend a scheduled meeting with the southern coal operators this morning after the producers broke their silence at a news conference and disclosed details of their wage offer to Lewis.

Would Wipe Out Portal Pay

This offer for an 85-cent daily wage increase—to $12.70—involved wiping out portal-to-portal pay for one hour each day. The southern operators wanted to hike the daily wage, but to pay only for eight hours of productive time. Miners would walk or ride from the mine entrance to their place of work, sometimes several miles, on their own time.

The disagreement over wages brought about suspension of the southern negotiations. Last Saturday the talks with operators of the North and West, representing about 75 per cent of the industry, collapsed similarly in disagreement.

Lewis is asking a 35-cent hourly wage boost or $13.05 a day for eight hours in the mines, in place of $8.85 for a nine-hour day. The present contract with the government calls for one hour at time and one half to allow for portal-to-portal travel and eating time.

Film Actor George Raft Settles Battery Suit

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (AP)—Screen Actor George Raft settled out of court today a $300,000 battery suit brought against him by Attorney Edward Raiden who alleged the film player had beaten him.

The announcement was made jointly by Raiden and Attorney Jerry Giesler, representing Raft. No mention was made of the amount involved.

In his suit, Raiden alleged the actor beat him in December, 1945, in the apartment of Betty Doss, identified as a friend of Raft. Raiden said he had been representing Miss Doss in an effort to recover $6,000 worth of gifts he claimed Raft had given her and then taken back.

War Hero Is Divorced, Married Again In Hour

WHEATLAND, Wyo., June 4. (AP)—Arthur W. Wermuth, once famed as the "one-man army of Bataan," for his heroism there, was divorced and married again in less than an hour here today.

The former Army major, now a Hill City, S. D., service station operator, was granted a divorce at 11 a. m., from Jean Wilkins Wermuth, Traverse City, Mich., on grounds of intolerable indignities after the action was contested by his former wife.

Half an hour after Wermuth left the courthouse, he was married to Patricia Steele, 23, a former Denver parachutist.

ST. MARY'S GRAND JURY DEADLOCK OVER SLOT MACHINE ISSUE ENDS

LEONARDSTOWN, Md., June 4 (AP)—The St. Mary's County Grand Jury deadlock over illegal slot machine operations ended today when the panel returned 24 indictments charging violation of gaming laws and "requested" the sheriff to seize and impound all machines, illegal game devices and like contrivances remaining in the county.

Nineteen cases were ignored by the panel because of insufficent evidence.

Th action came after 31 witnesses had been examined in more than 48 hours of questioning and followed a lecture by Chief Judge William W. Loker, of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, for the jury's "amazing and preposterous" refusal to act.

Judge Loker set bond at $1,000 in each case and ordered a roundup of machine operators "without ties" in the county, or those not legal residents.

The cases are scheduled for trial at the September term of court.

Gov. Lane Sets Execution Date For Negro Rapist

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 4 (AP)—Gov. Lane today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of one Maryland Penitentiary prisoner and set the execution date for another.

The Governor signed the death warrant for William E. Copper, Talbot County negro convicted of rape on March 10 in Cecil County Court. The crime occurred January 30 in Talbot County. Cooper will be hanged June 27.

The Chief Executive commuted the death sentence of Vernon F. Weinecke, of Baltimore, convicted by the Baltimore County Circuit Court of attempted rape October 11, 1946. The Court of Appeals had sustained Weinecke's conviction.

Six Weeks Before Result Of Recount Is Determined

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a Senate subcommittee investigating the contested 1946 Maryland senatorial election, said today "final results" of a recount "probably will not be determined for at least six weeks."

Jenner said his committee "will not concern itself at this time with allegation of fraud" in the election in which Sen. O'Conor, a Democrat, defeated D. John Markey, Republican, by an official state margin of 2,232 votes.

Markey in his petition for a recount alleged errors and irregularities.

Trio To Be Given Hearings Today On Rape Charges

ESSEX, Md., June 4 (AP) — Two Atlanta, Ga., youths and an older man will be given hearings tomorrow in Essex police court on charges of raping a 27-year-old East Baltimore woman.

They were identified as J. B. Laguardia, 27, of Youngstown, O., D. E. Foster, 19, and a 15-year-old boy, both of Atlanta.

State police said they held warrants charging the trio, along with a man who identified himself as D. L. Stevens, Jr., 26, of Kingston, N. Y., with assaulting and robbing Frank Hogan, 19-year-old University of Florida student, who told police he was attacked and robbed by four men while hitch-hiking.

Halethorpe, Md., police notified the Essex station they held a warrant against Foster charging him with passing a bad check.

Stevens was booked as a material witness in the rape case.

The four were picked up by Halethorpe police shortly after they had attempted to purchase gasoline at a Washington Boulevard filling station with what Police Lt. Carroll Simmons said was a traveler's check reported to have been taken from the hitch-hiking student in the holdup.

Patrolmen William Boyd and William Weinkamp, of the Essex police, reported the woman told them she was walking in Southeast Baltimore late last night when an automobile drew up beside her at the curb.

She said two of the four men in the car jumped out and forced her into the machine, threatening her with death if she cried out.

The men drove her to Baltimore County, where three of them raped her on a lonely road, police quoted her as saying.

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall will speak at exercises at Harvard University tomorrow, delivering what aides regard as an important, though brief address.

Normal Temperatures, Rain Aid State Crops

BALTIMORE, June 4—(AP)—A combination of the half inch of rain during the week ended Monday and generally normal temperatures were beneficial to Maryland crops, the Weather Bureau's weekly crop summary showed today.

The report said grain crop conditions in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties were generally good to excellent and that tomatoes, potatoes, beans and sweet corn were growing rapidly, strawberries were ripening and apples, peaches and pears were forming small fruit in the upland counties.

Corn was up to a height of four inches in Frederick county, where truck crops were about two weeks late but mostly good.

The highest temperature recorded in Maryland during the week was at Westernport, where the mercury hit 93 degrees last Wednesday, and the lowest was 31 degrees, recorded at Frostburg Saturday morning.

Vets Urged To Keep Their G.I. Insurance

Veterans of World War II yesterday were urged by Harold W. Smith, Chamber of Commerce secretary, to study the advantages of their G.I. insurance and reinstate it, after he expressed alarm at the number who let it lapse after discharge.

"I strongly urge local veterans to get the facts about G.I. insurance from the nearest Veteran's Administration office," Smith declared. "If the veterans who have lost their G.I. insurance knew the facts, I feel sure they would waste little time in getting it back," he asserted.

Smith estimated that of the 8,000 veterans of World War II from Allegany County, at least 6,000 have permitted their insurance to lapse. The National Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a drive to interest veterans in reinstating their insurance, he said.

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP) — Former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, resigned today as special counsel for the Senate War Investigating Committee.

'Murder-By-Post' Plot Is Disclosed By Scotland Yard

LONDON, June 4. (AP)—Scotland Yard disclosed today that several prominent Britons had received through the mail envelopes containing a watch-like mechanism and a bag of explosive powder—a plot that London papers immediately dubbed "Murder-by-Post."

The carefully made booby traps were mailed from Italy. The British Press Association said the missives apparently were "another attempt by Jewish terrorists to intimidate responsible people in Britain."

None of the envelopes exploded, because the recipients all became suspicious when they found a bulky cream-colored packet enclosed within the outer cover.

Scotland Yard declined to name the persons who received the explosives. However, Maj. Gen. Edward Spears, foe of Zionism and prominent advocate of the Arab cause in the Middle East, voluntarily disclosed that he was one of the recipients.

Spears said he could "jolly well guess" that the envelopes came from a Jewish underground organization in Italy, where the Stern Gang recently claimed responsibility for an explosion in the British Embassy.

The British Press Association reported that one of the packets was addressed to Sir Stafford Cripps, head of the Board of Trade, and the Evening Standard said another was sent to Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

The British Press Association report said the envelopes were still arriving and "it is expected that most of the Cabinet as well as leading figures in high administrative positions will be receiving these missives."

Coal Talks Fail; Action On Labor Bill Is Awaited

Chance Of Strike Is Miners' Ace In Hole

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Contract negotiations between John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators were washed out indefinitely today. Both sides settled down to wait for President Truman's action on the Taft-Hartley labor bill and the approach of a July strike deadline.

Both Lewis and the operators seemed content to mark time while pressures build up for a settlement.

The miners' ace in the hole is the chance of a strike July 1, or July 7 at the latest. The opeartors have an eye on the restrictions on a mine walkout which the labor bill will impose if the President signs it or Congress overrides a veto.

Action Likely By June 15

Action on the legislation seems likely by June 15. The government's contract with Lewis and his 400,000 soft coal miners expires June 30 with the lapsing of wartime authority to retain government possession of the mines.

The miners don't work without a contract, so a strike is considered likely if a new pact is not reached. The mines were seized in last spring's strike.

The miners have a 10-day vacation coming to them beginning June 27, and union officials have indicated the miners will consider themselves idle for that reason until July 7.

The United Mine Workers negotiators refused to attend a scheduled meeting with the southern coal operators this morning after the producers broke their silence at a news conference and disclosed details of their wage offer to Lewis.

Would Wipe Out Portal Pay

This offer for an 85-cent daily wage increase—to $12.70—involved wiping out portal-to-portal pay for one hour each day. The southern operators wanted to hike the daily wage, but to pay only for eight hours of productive time. Miners would walk or ride from the mine entrance to their place of work, sometimes several miles, on their own time.

The disagreement over wages brought about suspension of the southern negotiations. Last Saturday the talks with operators of the North and West, representing about 75 per cent of the industry, collapsed similarly in disagreement.

Lewis is asking a 35-cent hourly wage boost or $13.05 a day for eight hours in the mines, in place of $81.85 for a nine-hour day. The present contract with the government calls for one hour at time and one half to allow for portal-to-portal travel and eating time.

Film Actor George Raft Settles Battery Suit

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (AP)—Screen Actor George Raft settled out of court today a $300,000 battery suit brought against him by Attorney Edward Raiden who alleged the film player had beaten him.

The announcement was made jointly by Raiden and Attorney Jerry Giesler, representing Raft. No mention was made of the amount involved.

In his suit, Raiden alleged the actor beat him in December, 1945, in the apartment of Betty Doss, identified as a friend of Raft. Raiden said he had been representing Miss Doss in an effort to recover $6,000 worth of gifts he claimed Raft had given her and then taken back.

War Hero Is Divorced, Married Again In Hour

WHEATLAND, Wyo., June 4. (AP)—Arthur W. Wermuth, once famed as the "one-man army of Bataan," for his heroism there, was divorced and married again in less than an hour here today.

The former Army major, now a Hill City, S. D., service station operator, was granted a divorce at 11 a. m., from Jean Wilkins Wermuth, Traverse City, Mich., on grounds of intolerable indignities after the action was contested by his former wife.

Half an hour after Wermuth left the courthouse, he was married to Patricia Steele, 23, a former Denver parachutist.

ST. MARY'S GRAND JURY DEADLOCK OVER SLOT MACHINE ISSUE ENDS

LEONARDSTOWN, Md., June 4 (AP)—The St. Mary's County Grand Jury deadlock over illegal slot machine operations ended today when the panel returned 24 indictments charging violation of gaming laws and "requested" the sheriff to seize and impound all machines, illegal game devices and like contrivances remaining in the county.

Nineteen cases were ignored by the panel because of insufficent evidence.

Th action came after 31 witnesses had been examined in more than 48 hours of questioning and followed a lecture by Chief Judge William W. Loker, of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, for the jury's "amazing and preposterous' refusal to act.

Judge Loker set bond at $1,000 in each case and ordered a roundup of machine operators "without ties" in the county, or those not legal residents.

The cases are scheduled for trial at the September term of court.

Gov. Lane Sets Execution Date For Negro Rapist

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 4 (AP) — Gov. Lane today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of one Maryland Penitentiary prisoner and set the execution date for another.

The Governor signed the death warrant for William E. Copper, Talbot County negro convicted of rape on March 10 in Cecil County Court. The crime occurred January 30 in Talbot County. Cooper will be hanged June 27.

The Chief Executive commuted the death sentence of Vernon F. Weinecke, of Baltimore, convicted by the Baltimore County Circuit Court of attempted rape October 11, 1946. The Court of Appeals had sustained Weinecke's conviction.

Six Weeks Before Result Of Recount Is Determined

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a Senate subcommittee investigating the contested 1946 Maryland senatorial election, said today "final results" of a recount "probably will not be determined for at least six weeks."

Jenner said his committee "will not concern itself at this time with allegation of fraud" in the election in which Sen. O'Conor, a Democrat, defeated D. John Markey, Republican, by an official state margin of 2,232 votes.

Markey in his petition for a recount alleged errors and irregularities.

Trio To Be Given Hearings Today On Rape Charges

ESSEX, Md., June 4 (AP) — Two Atlanta, Ga., youths and an older man will be given hearings tomorrow in Essex police court on charges of raping a 27-year-old East Baltimore woman.

They were identified as J. B. Laguardia, 27, of Youngstown, O., D. E. Foster, 19, and a 15-year-old boy, both of Atlanta.

State police said they held warrants charging the trio, along with a man who identified himself as D. L. Stevens, Jr., 26, of Kingston, N. Y., with assaulting and robbing Frank Hogan, 19-year-old University of Florida student, who told police he was attacked and robbed by four men while hitch-hiking.

Halethorpe, Md., police notified the Essex station they held a warrant against Foster charging him with passing a bad check.

Stevens was booked as a material witness in the rape case.

The four were picked up by Halethorpe police shortly after they had attempted to purchase gasoline at a Washington Boulevard filling station with what Police Lt. Carroll Simmons said was a traveler's check reported to have been taken from the hitch-hiking student in the holdup.

Patrolmen William Boyd and William Weinkamp, of the Essex police, reported the woman told them she was walking in Southeast Baltimore late last night when an automobile drew up beside her at the curb.

She said two of the four men in the car jumped out and forced her into the machine, threatening her with death if she cried out.

The men drove her to Baltimore County, where three of them raped her on a lonely road, police quoted her as saying.

Here's One Week We Certainly Will Favor

We tip our editorial hat today to the gentleman from Oklahoma, Mr. Andy Anderson, of Ada, Okla., who had the audacity or courage—or perhaps both—to exercise his rights as a private citizen by proclaiming the week of June 8, "NATIONAL TAXPAYERS WEEK."

Even though the proclamation does not carry the seal of officialdom, we hope the celebration will be none the less enthusiastic. During the past several years we have been dedicating portions of our calendar to less worthy causes.

Meantime, we have watched the cost of government soar until it now exceeds by many billions the cost of food. During the past eight years, while the cost of food was increasing 93 percent—and goodness knows that's a large enough increase—the cost of Federal government increased 371 percent. It's certainly time to call a halt—and to call it now.

And if it takes a National Taxpayers week, proclaimed by a private American citizen, to get the job done, we are all for it. It is hoped that every American will take advantage of the occasion to place himself on record with Congress as to just how he stands on the question of Economy vs Spending.

We've been moaning about extravagant Federal government long enough. Now is the time for ACTION. And National Taxpayers week is the opportunity.

Mr. Anderson really tossed a full blown atomic bomb at Federal bureaucracy in issuing the proclamation. We believe the readers of this paper should read his proclamation and for goodness sake after you read it act. The only way to get anything worthwhile done toward cutting governmental expenses is to quit talking and get busy. So write your representatives in Congress TODAY and let them know you think it is time that economy is being practiced in our Federal government. Here's Mr. Anderson's proclamation:

"Our public officials, from the mayor on up to the President, have by proclamation been dedicating our calendar to almost every cause.

"They have even set aside one week as 'Be Kind to Dog Week.' And under the authority vested in me as a private American citizen by Amendment One to the Constitution of the United States of America, I now proclaim such a week in behalf of the taxpayer."

"Whereas, it now costs the average American more to be governed than it does to eat; and

"Whereas, every effort by our Congress to reduce this tremendous cost is being sabotaged by Federal bureaucrats;

"I, by the authority vested in me as a private American citizen under Amendment One of the Constitution of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week of June 8 to June 14, inclusive, NATIONAL TAXPAYER WEEK; and

"FURTHER, I am asking every American citizen who desires to keep America solvent and free to invest with me 15 minutes of his time and nine cents in postage to write his Congressman and two Senators demanding a halt to wartime spending on the part of the Federal government."

What we need now is a new-type pedestrian with a built-in brake which will prevent him from starting to cross the street before the light changes.

Why Presidents Fish

To the question of why Presidents go fishing the nation now has an answer from a man who should know. Indeed, it has the definitive answer, for no one will dispute former President Hoover's explanation as he gave it over the radio.

Mr. Hoover, apologizing for "a show of ego," said that he, Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt had been fishermen from boyhood. But other Presidents became fishermen after entering the White House and, in examining this phenomenon, he concluded that they had turned to the angler's art in search of privacy. "There are only two occasions when Americans respect privacy, particularly in Presidents," he said. "These are prayer and fishing, so that some have taken to fishing."

The inference is not, it may be confidently stated, that some Presidents have not prayed but that they have needed the privacy given by fishing, too. Certainly it is true that the "pneumatic hammering of demands on the President's mind" has increased in recent years, as economic and international problems have grown more complex, and they have "just had to get away somehow, somewhere, and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

In any case, what Mr. Hoover said in praise of fishing will be echoed by all who have tried to be followers of Izaak Walton, whose "The Compleat Angler" was the subject of the radio program. It is a spring tonic, an aid to health, a doorway to the joys of the out-of-doors. It "brings meekness and inspiration, reduces our egotism, soothes our troubles and shames our wickedness." It is also "discipline in the equality of men—for all men are equal before fish."

Stock Buyers Wary

Consumer resistance to high prices has caught up with Wall Street, too, it seems. Public apathy for stocks that has kept brokers on slim trading rations for months and which is given as the reason for the current decline of market values may reflect healthy prudence on the part of small investors.

Indeed, one explanation is that refusal of the public to buy stocks is found in the theory that hundreds of small investors believe it desirable to maintain their financial affairs in as liquid condition as possible. In the face of economic storm warnings, it has been suggested, people are keeping their cash, using their credit and ignoring the market.

The concern that the consumer is feeling toward high prices, and the concern that business is feeling toward this public resistance both are reflected in the Wall Street downturn.

It is a situation which operates to forestall a market boom—quite the opposite of that in 1929—before it becomes a boom. The suckers are not flocking in. It may represent the American public's individual policing of its financial stability. The people have been warned so many times about "boom and bust" that they may have resolved collectively to see that there is no boom that can bust.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE cause of pityriasis simplex capitis, commonly known as "dandruff," is obscure altho many skin specialists are of the opinion that infection is responsible. Various organisms have been implicated including the staphylococcus and a pityrosporum that has been nicknamed the "bottle bacillus." Whether these organisms are actually the culprits is questionable inasmuch as they are found frequently on the scalps of individuals who are not bothered with dandruff.

Every one is familiar with the symptoms. Scales collect in the hair, causing it to look badly groomed. Now and then the particles are so numerous that they fall on the face and clothing. There is no discomfort associated with the condition but it is a source of annoyance to sensitive persons. Sometimes itching develops, especially when new patches are beginning to form.

The tresses may be left dull and lifeless but in this stage of the disorder, baldness rarely occurs. Should it progress to seborrheic dermatitis, however, hairfall may be expected.

Those who have made a thoro study of the nuisance are able to distinguish several varieties. The oldtimers blamed the "scurf" on excessive oiliness and believed that the greasy particles had undergone chemical changes. We now realize that the flakes are bits of skin which are being shed constantly as a result of an underlying irritation. The oils are important, as apparently when they are altered or increased in amount, certain organisms flourish abundantly. This seems to be encouraged when the health is not up to par and by an excessive intake of carbohydrates, fat and alcohol.

Some people suffer from false dandruff due mainly to trauma, such as vigorous combing or brushing or the use of strong solutions. Were the skin of any other part of the body to be treated in the same manner, scaliness would ensue from the irritation alone. Occasionally a person is too enthusiastic in trying to cure dandruff and literally scalps himself. The damaged epidermis then falls off in greater proportions than in the original disturbance.

Dandruff is difficult to eliminate permanently altho it is less marked in women after the menopause. But in men, it may last thruout life. Many remedies are available which will give temporary relief but return engagements are the rule. Whatever plan is followed, persistence is essential. Salves, ointments, or lotions containing sulfur, tar, mercury, carbolic, or salicylic acid are most popular. Ultraviolet light and massage are helpful also.

Much can be done by cleanliness and maintaining good health thru proper hygiene and a diet low in fatty, rich foods. Young people should indulge in as much out of door exercise as possible; older victims should avoid excessive eating and drinking and arrange their schedules so that they will obtain some fresh air daily.

LIMELESS BONES

C. B. writes: What is demineralization of the bone?

REPLY

The bones are a storehouse for our minerals, especially calcium and phosphorus. In certain metabolic and glandular disturbances, the amount is depleted. Occasionally the bones become so soft [osteoporosis] that deformities develop. This may result from disuse, age, or deficiency diseases. A study of the blood or X-rays will sometimes demonstrate the condition.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, June is here and the agencies are getting summer replacement shows ready. A summer replacement show . . . that's the same thing you've been hearing all winter . . . only cheaper.

Most of the comedians on the air are getting ready to take vacations while their programs are replaced by mystery shows. It's a little embarrassing sometimes. Last summer the mystery show that replaced me got more laughs than I did.

One comic wanted to get away to the beach for three months, but his sponsor wouldn't hire a replacement. So he's going to do the same show, but in a beach robe and sandals while the sound man keeps squeezing the damp sponge over him.

But everyone in radio needs a rest. Radio really ages people. Last month Margaret O'Brien did a guest spot. Two weeks later she was testing for a lead opposite C. Aubrey Smith.

And all the shows are getting cheaper replacements. The sponsor cut down on budgets during the summer hiatus. (Hiatus . . . that's a word "Variety" uses all the time. I hope the vice-president of this newspaper doesn't see it.)

Bride and Groom, the marriage program, is being replaced by Mr. Anthony.

And the sponsors of the Whistler are replacing him with a midget who can hum.

And they aren't giving so much money away on these quiz programs any more. During the summer "Take It Or Leave It" is going to be known as "Drop It, Jack," and they just fired the Crime Doctor. He's being replaced by two internes with a hacksaw.

I've been getting ready for my summer vacation. My show is being replaced by "The Adventures of Philip Marlowe," a detective show. The sponsor thought it would be a good idea to get a detective. Maybe he can find out what I did all fall.

Truman Shows Increasing Concern Over Housing; Expediters Put Midget Cars, Theaters Ahead Of Veterans; Jap Surrender Saves Life Of Prisoner

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — White House friends say that President Truman is getting more and more concerned over the housing shortage and the failure of either private industry or the Government to do much about it.

Whether Truman now realizes his mistake in letting his own administration officials cut the ground out from under ex-housing czar Wilson Wyatt remains to be seen. However, it is a fact that not only Congress, but also Truman's own housing expediters have bogged down on housing.

Here is an example of how they have bogged right in Truman's home bailiwick—Kansas City:

The other day Dutch Miller, promoter of the midget-car races at Olympic Stadium, Kansas City, wanted to enlarge the seating space for his spectators. In hot weather, he said, they had to sit too close together. So he proposed $8,500 worth of new construction.

However, the Kansas City Citizens Committee, appointed to protect the veterans' housing program, said no. They ruled first that midget-car races weren't necessary to the life of Kansas City, and second, that it wouldn't hurt the spectators to sit a little closer together, anyway.

Whereupon Dutch Miller went over the heads of the Kansas City Veterans' Housing Committee and took his case direct to the Office of Housing Expediter in Washington. And, much to the surprise of the local people, he won. William E. O'Brien, deputy housing expediter, wired his official permission to build bigger and better seating arrangements for those who wanted to view the midget-car races in Kansas City.

Theatres vs. Veterans

Questioned by this column as to why he overruled the Kansas City committee, deputy housing expediter O'Brien explained that only a small amount of building was involved. However, what he forgot was the sock-on-the-jaw he gave to the morale of the folks in Kansas City. The starch was taken right out of them regarding veterans' housing.

However, when Harry Truman appointed O'Brien and Frank Creedon to run the Office of Housing Expediter, he should have known what he was doing. For Creedon's previous record in yielding to private interests as against veterans' interests was readily available to the White House. Time after time, as a member of the Civilian Production Administration, Creedon had overruled Wilson Wyatt when it came to veterans' housing.

Here are some of the cases where Creedon ruled in favor of reconditioning or remodeling amusement places and against veterans' housing:

Knickerbocker Burlesque Theatre, Columbus, O.; Griffith Theatres, Carlsbad, N. Mex.; A. Afalu and Sons Theatre, Leland, Miss.; Paul Neale outdoor theatre, Lexington, Ky.; Constantine Vasela Theatre, Nogales, Ariz.; Edward S. Nolan Theatre, Eclectic, Ala.; N. H. Sparks Theatre, Tompkinsville, Ky.; Robin Adair Theatre, Atlanta, Ga.; Chas. R. Jones' restaurant, bar and liquor store, San Diego, Calif.; Frank Nunzi and Tony Mangier night club, Galesburg, Ill.; Princeton, Ind., Theatre.

Many of these involved only small amounts of money. But taken in the aggregate they have a definite impact on veterans' housing. Most important impact, however, is on the morale of local citizens committees, such as in Kansas City, when they are overruled by the Office of Housing Expediter in Washington.

Narrow Escape In Jap Camp

The Navy has received a new and revealing affidavit regarding Lt. Com. Edward N. Little, who now faces secret court-martial for his treatment of American prisoners at Camp 17, Fukioka, Japan. The affidavit indicates that another American might have been tortured or killed by the Japs had the war lasted one more day.

On the day the war ended, Paul J. Shaughnessy, former coast artillery private, of Brighton, Mass., was caught stealing a pair of pants at Camp 17. And, according to Shaughnessy's affidavit, Little was about to turn him over to the Japs when the American commander of the camp intervened, ordering Little to think over this severe punishment for at least 12 hours, before turning Shaughnessy over to the Japs. (Two other Americans turned over to the Japs by Little had been tortured and starved to death.)

A few hours later—and while Little was still thinking it over—the war ended. Here is Private Shaughnessy's story of what happened:

"I was a prisoner of war 3½ years. I was under the command of Lieutenant Little, Camp 17 in Japan. As a mess officer he had caught me for stealing a pair of pants. He had threatened me in front of at least 40 or 50 direct witnesses and he said 'Shaughnessy!!! I'm going to turn you over to the Japanese and they are going to shoot you.' I gave him an answer back which was very unsuitable and he struck me and I fell to the ground. He came over and raised me from the ground and said, 'We are going to the Japanese.'

"On the way to the Japanese we ran into our then camp commander who asked Mr. Little where he was going and Mr. Little answered. 'I am bringing Shaughnessy to the guard house.'

"Our camp commander commanded Mr. Little to weigh the evidence at least 12 hours before making any hasty decision knowing that when he turned me over to the Japanese I would be shot as I was already a three time loser.

"Mr. Little reluctantly gave in after a direct order. He told me that I could go to work on the noon shift but my chances of coming out of this were just next to nothing. I returned to my barracks, wrote two notes back to my folks at home. I also gave the notes and a picture that I had saved from the start of the war to a very close friend, Thomas is his name, from Pennsylvania.

The War Ended

"I went to work and that was August 15, 1945. I worked two hours and all men were brought back to camp. Not knowing what had happened, we were in a more or less stagnated state for 3 or 4 days not knowing whether the war was over.

"When a Red Cross car came into camp the fifth day and told our camp commander that the war was over, an MP section was set up out of our own men with Mr. Little in charge. The first act that he did was to have myself and 4 other men thrown into the guard house. The American planes came over while we were in the guard house and dropped food to be distributed amongst prisoners. Mr. Little, through his own orders, had the men in the guard house cut off from the extra food dropped by the planes. He was supposedly going to save us for the Americans to be brought to trial.

"I escaped from the guard house on August 29 at 9:30 P. M., went out through a hole in the fence, and on the 12th of September I ran into Americans down in Kenyoa in the southernmost part of Kyushu. I was also a witness to the Pavlockus and Knight incidents in which Mr. Little was responsible for their deaths. The Pavlockus and Knight deaths were due to food incidents, but mine was due to clothing. If Mr. Little uses the defense that he was protecting the rest of the camp's food supply, how is he going to explain my incident as it has nothing to do with food?"

NOTE—A lot of things went on during the stress and strain of war which can be forgotten and forgiven. However, it is also important to remember that Congress is now being asked to pass universal military conscription, under which regular Army and Navy officers would be given even greater powers over the youth of the nation. This makes it incumbent on the Army and Navy to improve their officer standards.

House Committee Will Study Displaced Persons Problem

By MARK SULLIVAN

The "Displaced Persons" problem comes concretely to the front this week, with the start of hearings before a House Committee. The hearings are on a bill which, if enacted would permit some 400,000 "D.P's" to enter the United States during the next four years. The bill is earnestly advocated, earnestly opposed, the hearings will develop controversy.

The D.P's are persons displaced by the war. Most of the millions whom the war made refugees have returned to their home countries. But the D.P's are a special class, some 800,000 who can not return. The principal groups, and the main reason they cannot return to their countries, are:

Poles, these are the largest group. They are non-Communists. Since their country has been dominated by Russian Communism they fear, with good reason, that if they went back they would suffer persecution, perhaps death.

Lithuanians, Esthonians and Latvians. These are D.P's for much the same reason as the Poles—they left their countries when Russia took them over. In somewhat the same situation are Yugoslavs who left their country when it went under a Communist dictatorship. A few of the D.P's are natives of Russia who at various times fled from that country.

Afraid to Go Home

Practically all the D.P's have the same reason for not returning to their countries, fear of Communism and Russia. Among the Poles are some Jews who have an additional reason, Poland historically has had a record of persecution of Jews. Of the total number of D.P's in all Europe, official figures list some 20 per cent as Jews, some 65 per cent as Catholics, the remainder as Protestants.

The D.P's are now in camps located mainly in Germany and Austria, supported there by the Americans and British. This cannot go on indefinitely. In international discussions of the problem, Russia takes the position, compounded of logic and irony(that all the D.P's should be restored to their respective countries, meaning that a vast majority of them would be turned over to Russia or countries dominated by Russia. Only at the point of a gun could the D.P's be pushed over boundary lines into those countries.

Out of discussions of the problem has developed a proposal that the United States take leadership in disposing of the D.P's among countries willing to receive them. England would take many, she is taking at this time 15,000 a month, mainly Poles. It is expected that Australia, Brazil, France, Belgium and some other countries would take some. The proposal contemplates that some 400,000 should be received by the United States, and this is the purpose of the bill sponsored by Republican Representative Stratton, of Illinois.

State Department Approves

The bill is approved by the State Department. It has support from many Congressmen in both parties, including Senator Taft who has said he will speak in behalf of it at the Republican caucus. It is supported by organizations representing practically every religious group in the United States—the National Catholic Welfare Conference, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Jewish Synagogue Council of America, the American Friends Service Committee; organizations representing the Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, Unitarians, Lutherans and others.

At the coming hearings opposition to the bill will be expressed by several organizations, of which typical and large ones include the American Legion, the Junnor Order United American Mechanics and other patriotic societies. The arguments of most of the opposing organizations overlap the traditional arguments made against immigrations during many years past.

One argument often made against immigration, competition with American labor, is offset in this case by the fact that the bill is supported by both AFL and CIO. Fear of subversive activities is offset by the fact that the D. P's. before being permitted to enter, will be subjected to the rigid scrutiny imposed by our immigration laws. Apprehension that the D.P's may be come public charges is offset by the fact that the immigration laws require guarantees for support of any immigrant who becomes indigent—in the present case several religious and humanitarian organizations have volunteered to give corporate bonds covering D. P's as groups.

Action On Labor And Tax Bills May Settle Truman's Future

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 4.—President Truman will lose his 1948 battle for re-election or give himself a better-than-even chance to win — depending on what he does with the Labor and Tax bills in the next fortnight.

If the Truman veto takes its place alongside the Russian veto as an unpopular exercise of power against the will of the majority, the President will find himself compelled to use the veto power much more in the session of Congress beginning next January.

For a veto of the tax bill means a much more drastic revision of taxes next time and a much more difficult bill for Mr. Truman to sign in 1948. The veto game is one that can be played by both sides and it would be most unfortunate if the President made the veto power a major issue.

To veto a bill that is desired by virtually two-thirds of the membership of both Houses but on which a veto cannot be overridden because a handful of members over and above a one-third minority of one House sustains the veto means that a President is more powerful than two-thirds of one house of Congress and more powerful than a group that is two or three votes less than two-thirds of the other house. This is considerable power for one man to use capriciously.

Only in an extreme case is the use of the veto power justified when sentiment is so preponderantly in favor of a particular measure.

President Is On Spot

The President is being urged by some members of his cabinet to veto both the Labor and the Tax bills. While there is a two-thirds vote to override a veto of the Labor bill, there is not such a vote for the Tax bill. Mr. Truman will be in the position of saying he is willing to have a tax bill passed that takes effect January 1, 1948, but he is unwilling to approve one that takes effect only six months earlier. It is improbable that Mr. Truman can write a veto message which can persuasively argue that tax reduction would ruin the country now but would not hurt six months later. Mr. Truman could argue, of course, against any and all tax reduction either now or in 1948, but that would be even more difficult to justify from a political angle.

The Republicans have a program of applying about half the surplus to debt reduction and about half to tax reduction. The President is on the spot, because nearly all the Democrats have gone on record in favor of some kind of tax reduction. While the bill proposed in the Senate recently by Senator Lucas, Democrat, did not favor the Republican formula, it was nevertheless a bill to reduce taxes. Mr. Truman cannot ignore the record made by his own party in favor of the principle of tax reduction.

To deny 48,000,000 taxpayers a reduction in taxes which would amount to $4,000,000,000 a year is a very arbitrary step for a president to take unless he can make a clear case of fiscal danger to the nation. Certainly the reduction of the $260,000,000,000 debt by $2,000,000,000 under the Republican plan, instead of $4,000,000,000 for debt reduction with no relief in taxes, is not enough of a difference to justify an argument of peril to the country's financial structure. The Republicans would have all the better of that argument, especially since the Truman doctrine favors the idea of spending billions for relief of peoples in foreign countries.

May Sign Tax Bill

If Mr. Truman signs the Tax bill, he will avoid antagonism among conservative and liberal voters alike, for they will all benefit. If Mr. Truman vetoes the Tax bill, however, there will be no tax-reduction law this year and maybe not next year, because the Republicans will present Mr. Truman with a much stiffer bill next time and really put him on the spot. They will do so because they will feel he began playing politics this year with the tax problem — assuming that he vetoes the present bill.

To veto the Labor bill, on the other hand, will not cause Mr. Truman much political injury. For when the measure becomes law over the veto, as seems certain, the record of friendship with the unions will have been maintained by the President and after the bill has been law for a few months, most people will forget that there ever was a veto if the legislation works. If it doesn't work, they will certainly not blame Mr. Truman.

The logic of the situation politically—that is, from Mr. Truman's own angle—is to sign the Tax bill and veto the Labor bill. To veto them both is to pile up trouble and commit political suicide, giving the Republicans a veto issue. Signing both would send Mr. Truman's popularity curve up 10 points and mean that the conservative vote in both parties would, in large part, swing to Mr. Truman and probably would be enough to reelect him.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Mark Clark Exiled

It is characteristic of the Army that time comes when men are exiled to posts of insignificance, perhaps to make sure that they do not forget the routine of futilities, the pettiness of army post life, the smallness of being king of a few acres.

General Mark Clark is beyond doubt one of the most competent statesmen in the service of the American people. His heroisms were in the line of duty but his administration in Austria, his grasp of the essential problems of Middle Europe, his genius for handling the Russians, his foresight in bringing to bear upon Middle European affairs the principles now called the Truman Doctrine were marks of ability not expected in any army officer and his execution was far beyond the line of duty.

So just at the moment when the Greco-Turkish enterprise is being put into effect, and when the Russians have seized Hungary, Mark Clark is brought back to the United States to be stationed at the Presidio where he can twiddle his thumbs in the pursuit of paper routine that any colonel can do just as well.

San Franciscans are fortunate that General Clark will be in their midst and I am sure that he will add lustre to the Bohemian Grove this Summer. But it seems to me that he should be stationed in Germany, Austria, or Greece where he could continue to do the job for which his natural gifts and his vast experience have fitted him.

Precisely the same mistake was made with General Wedemeyer, an equally gifted army officer who has been trained as an expert in Far Eastern affairs. It was planned to make General Wedemeyer the American Ambassador to China but for reasons never given the public, he was, at the very last moment, bypassed, and the aging, not particularly suited missionary educator, Dr. Leighton Stuart, was appointed to that post with General Marshall actually in charge of our affairs there. Between them they made quite a mess of our policy in China, pursuing a course there precisely and completely opposite to the Truman Policy. The result has been a major disaster not only for China and Korea but for the United States.

I have been told by those who ought to be familiar with what went on at Moscow that General Clark, the expert on Austria, was at loggerheads with other advisers of George Marshall, particularly with Ben Cohen and Charles P. Kindleberger, neither of whom are as competent in this particular field as he is. The policy-making group in the State Department whom these two represented at Moscow, would have preferred, I am told, some treaty over Austria rather than none at all. Kindleberger is a former Treasury man shifted over to the State Department and put in charge of the Economic Desk of the German section where his function is to adhere to the Morgenthau Plan as implemented by JCS 1067—an unworkable and harmful doctrine that Herbert Hoover so ably exposed.

These State Department policy-makers are desirous of having the Italian Treaty confirmed by the Senate, in spite of the obvious fact that it is a direct violation of the Truman Doctrine and in spite of the fact that that treaty makes a gift of Italy to international Communism. They still hope to arrange an Austrian Treaty. Anything to get something on paper—duly signed with seals and ribbons, even if that anything is in conflict with a foreign policy voted by Congress and proclaimed by the President!

So they prefer to have such a man as Mark Clark out of the picture. He can play bridge at the Officer's Club at the Presidio; he can play Russian Bank at the Bohemian Club; he can eat shashlik at George Mardikian's. But a great talent ought not to be wasted in this manner. It is a little difficult to understand why the Republican Congress, which was going to begin its sessions each day with a prayer and end them with a probe, has thus far done not one thing to rescue the government of the United States from the little men who run the State Department.

Here's One Week We Certainly Will Favor

We tip our editorial hat today to the gentleman from Oklahoma, Mr. Andy Anderson, of Ada, Okla., who had the audacity or courage—or perhaps both—to exercise his rights as a private citizen by proclaiming the week of June 8, "NATIONAL TAXPAYERS WEEK."

Even though the proclamation does not carry the seal of officialdom, we hope the celebration will be none the less enthusiastic. During the past several years we have been dedicating portions of our calendar to less worthy causes.

Meantime, we have watched the cost of government soar until it now exceeds by many billions the cost of food. During the past eight years, while the cost of food was increasing 93 percent—and goodness knows that's a large enough increase—the cost of Federal government increased 371 percent. It's certainly time to call a halt—and to call it now.

And if it takes a National Taxpayers week, proclaimed by a private American citizen, to get the job done, we are all for it. It is hoped that every American will take advantage of the occasion to place himself on record with Congress as to just how he stands on the question of Economy vs Spending.

We've been moaning about extravagant Federal government long enough. Now is the time for ACTION. And National Taxpayers week is the opportunity.

Mr. Anderson really tossed a full blown atomic bomb at Federal bureaucracy in issuing the proclamation. We believe the readers of this paper should read his proclamation and for goodness sake after you read it act. The only way to get anything worthwhile done toward cutting governmental expenses is to quit talking and get busy. So write your representatives in Congress TODAY and let them know you think it is time that economy is being practiced in our Federal government. Here's Mr. Anderson's proclamation:

"Our public officials, from the mayor on up to the President, have by proclamation been dedicating our calendar to almost every cause.

"They have even set aside one week as 'Be Kind to Dog Week.' And under the authority vested in me as a private American citizen by Amendment One to the Constitution of the United States of America, I now proclaim such a week in behalf of the taxpayer."

"Whereas, it now costs the average American more to be governed than it does to eat; and

"Whereas, every effort by our Congress to reduce this tremendous cost is being sabotaged by Federal bureaucrats;

"I, by the authority vested in me as a private American citizen under Amendment One of the Constitution of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week of June 8 to June 14, inclusive, NATIONAL TAXPAYER WEEK; and

"FURTHER, I am asking every American citizen who desires to keep America solvent and free to invest with me 15 minutes of his time and nine cents in postage to write his Congressman and two Senators demanding a halt to wartime spending on the part of the Federal government."

What we need now is a new-type pedestrian with a built-in brake which will prevent him from starting to cross the street before the light changes.

Why Presidents Fish

To the question of why Presidents go fishing the nation now has an answer from a man who should know. Indeed, it has the definitive answer, for no one will dispute former President Hoover's explanation as he gave it over the radio.

Mr. Hoover, apologizing for "a show of ego," said that he, Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt had been fishermen from boyhood. But other Presidents became fishermen after entering the White House and, in examining this phenomenon, he concluded that they had turned to the angler's art in search of privacy. "There are only two occasions when Americans respect privacy, particularly in Presidents," he said. "These are prayer and fishing, so that some have taken to fishing."

The inference is not, it may be confidently stated, that some Presidents have not prayed but that they have needed the privacy given by fishing, too. Certainly it is true that the "pneumatic hammering of demands on the President's mind" has increased in recent years, as economic and international problems have grown more complex, and they have "just had to get away somehow, somewhere, and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

In any case, what Mr. Hoover said in praise of fishing will be echoed by all who have tried to be followers of Izaak Walton, whose "The Compleat Angler" was the subject of the radio program. It is a spring tonic, an aid to health, a doorway to the joys of the out-of-doors. It "brings meekness and inspiration, reduces our egotism, soothes our troubles and shames our wickedness." It is also "discipline in the equality of men—for all men are equal before fish."

Stock Buyers Wary

Consumer resistance to high prices has caught up with Wall Street, too, it seems. Public apathy for stocks that has kept brokers on slim trading rations for months and which is given as the reason for the current decline of market values may reflect healthy prudence on the part of small investors.

Indeed, one explanation is that refusal of the public to buy stocks is found in the theory that hundreds of small investors believe it desirable to maintain their financial affairs in as liquid condition as possible. In the face of economic storm warnings, it has been suggested, people are keeping their cash, using their credit and ignoring the market.

The concern that the consumer is feeling toward high prices, and the concern that business is feeling toward this public resistance both are reflected in the Wall Street downturn.

It is a situation which operates to forestall a market boom—quite the opposite of that in 1929—before it becomes a boom. The suckers are not flocking in. It may represent the American public's individual policing of its financial stability. The people have been warned so many times about "boom and bust" that they may have resolved collectively to see that there is no boom that can bust.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE cause of pityriasis simplex capitis, commonly known as "dandruff," is obscure altho many skin specialists are of the opinion that infection is responsible. Various organisms have been implicated including the staphylococcus and a pityrosporum that has been nicknamed the "bottle bacillus." Whether these organisms are actually the culprits is questionable inasmuch as they are found frequently on the scalps of individuals who are not bothered with dandruff.

Every one is familiar with the symptoms. Scales collect in the hair, causing it to look badly groomed. Now and then the particles are so numerous that they fall on the face and clothing. There is no discomfort associated with the condition but it is a source of annoyance to sensitive persons. Sometimes itching develops, especially when new patches are beginning to form.

The tresses may be left dull and lifeless but in this stage of the disorder, baldness rarely occurs. Should it progress to seborrheic dermatitis, however, hairfall may be expected.

Those who have made a thoro study of the nuisance are able to distinguish several varieties. The oldtimers blamed the "scurf" on excessive oiliness and believed that the greasy particles had undergone chemical changes. We now realize that the flakes are bits of skin which are being shed constantly as a result of an underlying irritation. The oils are important, as apparently when they are altered or increased in amount, certain organisms flourish abundantly. This seems to be encouraged when the health is not up to par and by an excessive intake of carbohydrates, fat and alcohol.

Some people suffer from false dandruff due mainly to trauma, such as vigorous combing or brushing or the use of strong solutions. Were the skin of any other part of the body to be treated in the same manner, scaliness would ensue from the irritation alone. Occasionally a person is too enthusiastic in trying to cure dandruff and literally scalps himself. The damaged epidermis then falls off in greater proportions than in the original disturbance.

Dandruff is difficult to eliminate permanently altho it is less marked in women after the menopause. But in men, it may last thruout life. Many remedies are available which will give temporary relief but return engagements are the rule. Whatever plan is followed, persistence is essential. Salves, ointments, or lotions containing sulfur, tar, mercury, carbolic, or salicylic acid are most popular. Ultraviolet light and massage are helpful also.

Much can be done by cleanliness and maintaining good health thru proper hygiene and a diet low in fatty, rich foods. Young people should indulge in as much out of door exercise as possible; older victims should avoid excessive eating and drinking and arrange their schedules so that they will obtain some fresh air daily.

LIMELESS BONES

C. B. writes: What is demineralization of the bone?

REPLY

The bones are a storehouse for our minerals, especially calcium and phosphorus. In certain metabolic and glandular disturbances, the amount is depleted. Occasionally the bones become so soft [osteoporosis] that deformities develop. This may result from disuse, age, or deficiency diseases. A study of the blood or X-rays will sometimes demonstrate the condition.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, June is here and the agencies are getting summer replacement shows ready. A summer replacement show . . . that's the same thing you've been hearing all winter . . . only cheaper.

Most of the comedians on the air are getting ready to take vacations while their programs are replaced by mystery shows. It's a little embarrassing sometimes. Last summer the mystery show that replaced me got more laughs than I did.

One comic wanted to get away to the beach for three months, but his sponsor wouldn't hire a replacement. So he's going to do the same show, but in a beach robe and sandals while the sound man keeps squeezing the damp sponge over him.

But everyone in radio needs a rest. Radio really ages people. Last month Margaret O'Brien did a guest spot. Two weeks later she was testing for a lead opposite C. Aubrey Smith.

And all the shows are getting cheaper replacements. The sponsor cut down on budgets during the summer hiatus. (Hiatus . . . that's a word "Variety" uses all the time. I hope the vice-president of this newspaper doesn't see it.)

Bride and Groom, the marriage program, is being replaced by Mr. Anthony.

And the sponsors of the Whistler are replacing him with a midget who can hum.

And they aren't giving so much money away on these quiz programs any more. During the summer "Take It Or Leave It" is going to be known as "Drop It, Jack," and they just fired the Crime Doctor. He's being replaced by two internes with a hacksaw.

I've been getting ready for my summer vacation. My show is being replaced by "The Adventures of Philip Marlowe," a detective show. The sponsor thought it would be a good idea to get a detective. Maybe he can find out what I did all fall.

Truman Shows Increasing Concern Over Housing; Expediters Put Midget Cars, Theaters Ahead Of Veterans; Jap Surrender Saves Life Of Prisoner

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — White House friends say that President Truman is getting more and more concerned over the housing shortage and the failure of either private industry or the Government to do much about it.

Whether Truman now realizes his mistake in letting his own administration officials cut the ground out from under ex-housing czar Wilson Wyatt remains to be seen. However, it is a fact that not only Congress, but also Truman's own housing expediters have bogged down on housing.

Here is an example of how they have bogged right in Truman's home bailiwick—Kansas City:

The other day Dutch Miller, promoter of the midget-car races at Olympic Stadium, Kansas City, wanted to enlarge the seating space for his spectators. In hot weather, he said, they had to sit too close together. So he proposed $8,500 worth of new construction.

However, the Kansas City Citizens Committee, appointed to protect the veterans' housing program, said no. They ruled first that midget-car races weren't necessary to the life of Kansas City, and second, that it wouldn't hurt the spectators to sit a little closer together, anyway.

Whereupon Dutch Miller went over the heads of the Kansas City Veterans' Housing Committee and took his case direct to the Office of Housing Expediter in Washington. And, much to the surprise of the local people, he won. William E. O'Brien, deputy housing expediter, wired his official permission to build bigger and better seating arrangements for those who wanted to view the midget-car races in Kansas City.

Theatres vs. Veterans

Questioned by this column as to why he overruled the Kansas City committee, deputy housing expediter O'Brien explained that only a small amount of building was involved. However, what he forgot was the sock-on-the-jaw he gave to the morale of the folks in Kansas City. The starch was taken right out of them regarding veterans' housing.

However, when Harry Truman appointed O'Brien and Frank Creedon to run the Office of Housing Expediter, he should have known what he was doing. For Creedon's previous record in yielding to private interests as against veterans' interests was readily available to the White House. Time after time, as a member of the Civilian Production Administration, Creedon had overruled Wilson Wyatt when it came to veterans' housing.

Here are some of the cases where Creedon ruled in favor of reconditioning or remodeling amusement places and against veterans' housing:

Knickerbocker Burlesque Theatre, Columbus, O.; Griffith Theatres, Carlsbad, N. Mex.; A. Afalu and Sons Theatre, Leland, Miss.; Paul Neale outdoor theatre, Lexington, Ky.; Constantine Vasela Theatre, Nogales, Ariz.; Edward S. Nolan Theatre, Eclectic, Ala.; N. H. Sparks Theatre, Tompkinsville, Ky.; Robin Adair Theatre, Atlanta, Ga.; Chas. R. Jones' restaurant, bar and liquor store, San Diego, Calif.; Frank Nunzi and Tony Mangier night club, Galesburg, Ill.; Princeton, Ind., Theatre.

Many of these involved only small amounts of money. But taken in the aggregate they have a definite impact on veterans' housing. Most important impact, however, is on the morale of local citizens committees, such as in Kansas City, when they are overruled by the Office of Housing Expediter in Washington.

Narrow Escape In Jap Camp

The Navy has received a new and revealing affidavit regarding Lt. Com. Edward N. Little, who now faces secret court-martial for his treatment of American prisoners at Camp 17, Fukioka, Japan. The affidavit indicates that another American might have been tortured or killed by the Japs had the war lasted one more day.

On the day the war ended, Paul J. Shaughnessy, former coast artillery private, of Brighton, Mass., was caught stealing a pair of pants at Camp 17. And, according to Shaughnessy's affidavit, Little was about to turn him over to the Japs when the American commander of the camp intervened, ordering Little to think over this severe punishment for at least 12 hours, before turning Shaughnessy over to the Japs. (Two other Americans turned over to the Japs by Little had been tortured and starved to death.)

A few hours later—and while Little was still thinking it over—the war ended. Here is Private Shaughnessy's story of what happened:

"I was a prisoner of war 3½ years. I was under the command of Lieutenant Little, Camp 17 in Japan. As a mess officer he had caught me for stealing a pair of pants. He had threatened me in front of at least 40 or 50 direct witnesses and he said 'Shaughnessy!!! I'm going to turn you over to the Japanese and they are going to shoot you.' I gave him an answer back which was very unsuitable and he struck me and I fell to the ground. He came over and raised me from the ground and said, 'We are going to the Japanese.'

"On the way to the Japanese we ran into our then camp commander who asked Mr. Little where he was going and Mr. Little answered. 'I am bringing Shaughnessy to the guard house.'

"Our camp commander commanded Mr. Little to weigh the evidence at least 12 hours before making any hasty decision knowing that when he turned me over to the Japanese I would be shot as I was already a three time loser.

"Mr. Little reluctantly gave in after a direct order. He told me that I could go to work on the noon shift but my chances of coming out of this were just next to nothing. I returned to my barracks, wrote two notes back to my folks at home. I also gave the notes and a picture that I had saved from the start of the war to a very close friend, Thomas is his name, from Pennsylvania.

The War Ended

"I went to work and that was August 15, 1945. I worked two hours and all men were brought back to camp. Not knowing what had happened, we were in a more or less stagnated state for 3 or 4 days not knowing whether the war was over.

"When a Red Cross car came into camp the fifth day and told our camp commander that the war was over, an MP section was set up out of our own men with Mr. Little in charge. The first act that he did was to have myself and 4 other men thrown into the guard house. The American planes came over while we were in the guard house and dropped food to be distributed amongst prisoners. Mr. Little, through his own orders, had the men in the guard house cut off from the extra food dropped by the planes. He was supposedly going to save us for the Americans to be brought to trial.

"I escaped from the guard house on August 29 at 9:30 P. M., went out through a hole in the fence, and on the 12th of September I ran into Americans down in Kenyoa in the southernmost part of Kyushu. I was also a witness to the Pavlockus and Knight incidents in which Mr. Little was responsible for their deaths. The Pavlockus and Knight deaths were due to food incidents, but mine was due to clothing. If Mr. Little uses the defense that he was protecting the rest of the camp's food supply, how is he going to explain my incident as it has nothing to do with food?"

NOTE—A lot of things went on during the stress and strain of war which can be forgotten and forgiven. However, it is also important to remember that Congress is now being asked to pass universal military conscription, under which regular Army and Navy officers would be given even greater powers over the youth of the nation. This makes it incumbent on the Army and Navy to improve their officer standards.

House Committee Will Study Displaced Persons Problem

By MARK SULLIVAN

The "Displaced Persons" problem comes concretely to the front this week, with the start of hearings before a House Committee. The hearings are on a bill which, if enacted would permit some 400,000 "D.P's" to enter the United States during the next four years. The bill is earnestly advocated, earnestly opposed, the hearings will develop controversy.

The D.P's are persons displaced by the war. Most of the millions whom the war made refugees have returned to their home countries. But the D.P's are a special class, some 800,000 who can not return. The principal groups, and the main reason they cannot return to their countries, are:

Poles, these are the largest group. They are non-Communists. Since their country has been dominated by Russian Communism they fear, with good reason, that if they went back they would suffer persecution, perhaps death.

Lithuanians, Esthonians and Latvians. These are D.P's for much the same reason as the Poles—they left their countries when Russia took them over. In somewhat the same situation are Yugoslavs who left their country when it went under a Communist dictatorship. A few of the D.P's are natives of Russia who at various times fled from that country.

Afraid to Go Home

Practically all the D.P's have the same reason for not returning to their countries, fear of Communism and Russia. Among the Poles are some Jews who have an additional reason, Poland historically has had a record of persecution of Jews. Of the total number of D.P's in all Europe, official figures list some 20 per cent as Jews, some 65 per cent as Catholics, the remainder as Protestants.

The D.P's are now in camps located mainly in Germany and Austria, supported there by the Americans and British. This cannot go on indefinitely. In international discussions of the problem, Russia takes the position, compounded of logic and irony(that all the D.P's should be restored to their respective countries, meaning that a vast majority, of them would be turned over to Russia or countries dominated by Russia. Only at the point of a gun could the D.P's be pushed over boundary lines into those countries.

Out of discussions of the problem has developed a proposal that the United States take leadership in disposing of the D.P's among countries willing to receive them. England would take many, she is taking at this time 15,000 a month, mainly Poles. It is expected that Australia, Brazil, France, Belgium and some other countries would take some. The proposal contemplates that some 400,000 should be received by the United States, and this is the purpose of the bill sponsored by Republican Representative Stratton, of Illinois.

State Department Approves

The bill is approved by the State Department. It has support from many Congressmen in both parties, including Senator Taft who has said he will speak in behalf of it at the Republican caucus. It is supported by organizations representing practically every religious group in the United States—the National Catholic Welfare Conference, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Jewish Synagogue Council of America, the American Friends Service Committee; organizations representing the Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, Unitarians, Lutherans and others.

At the coming hearings opposition to the bill will be expressed by several organizations, of which typical and large ones include the American Legion, the Junnor Order United American Mechanics and other patriotic societies. The arguments of most of the opposing organizations overlap the traditional arguments made against immigrations during many years past.

One argument often made against immigration, competition with American labor, is offset in this case by the fact that the bill is supported by both AFL and CIO. Fear of subversive activities is offset by the fact that the D. P's, before being permitted to enter, will be subjected to the rigid scrutiny imposed by our immigration laws. Apprehension that the D.P's may become public charges is offset by the fact that the immigration laws require guarantees for support of any immigrant who becomes indigent—in the present case several religious and humanitarian organizations have volunteered to give corporate bonds covering D. P's as groups.

Action On Labor And Tax Bills May Settle Truman's Future

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 4.—President Truman will lose his 1948 battle for re-election or give himself a better-than-even chance to win — depending on what he does with the Labor and Tax bills in the next fortnight.

If the Truman veto takes its place alongside the Russian veto as an unpopular exercise of power against the will of the majority, the President will find himself compelled to use the veto power much more in the session of Congress beginning next January.

For a veto of the tax bill means a much more drastic revision of taxes next time and a much more difficult bill for Mr. Truman to sign in 1948. The veto game is one that can be played by both sides and it would be most unfortunate if the President made the veto power a major issue.

To veto a bill that is desired by virtually two-thirds of the membership of both Houses but on which a veto cannot be overridden because a handful of members over and above a one-third minority of one House sustains the veto means that a President is more powerful than two-thirds of one house of Congress and more powerful than a group that is two or three votes less than two-thirds of the other house. This is considerable power for one man to use capriciously.

Only in an extreme case is the use of the veto power justified when sentiment is so preponderantly in favor of a particular measure.

President Is On Spot

The President is being urged by some members of his cabinet to veto both the Labor and the Tax bills. While there is a two-thirds vote to override a veto of the Labor bill, there is not such a vote for the Tax bill. Mr. Truman will be in the position of saying he is willing to have a tax bill passed that takes effect January 1, 1948, but he is unwilling to approve one that takes effect only six months earlier. It is improbable that Mr. Truman can write a veto message which can persuasively argue that tax reduction would ruin the country now but would not hurt six months later. Mr. Truman could argue, of course, against any and all tax reduction either now or in 1948, but that would be even more difficult to justify from a political angle.

The Republicans have a program of applying about half the surplus to debt reduction and about half to tax reduction. The President is on the spot, because nearly all the Democrats have gone on record in favor of some kind of tax reduction. While the bill proposed in the Senate recently by Senator Lucas, Democrat, did not favor the Republican formula, it was nevertheless a bill to reduce taxes. Mr. Truman cannot ignore the record made by his own party in favor of the principle of tax reduction.

To deny 48,000,000 taxpayers a reduction in taxes which would amount to $4,000,000,000 a year is a very arbitrary step for a president to take unless he can make a clear case of fiscal danger to the nation. Certainly the reduction of the $260,000,000,000 debt by $2,000,000,000 under the Republican plan, instead of $4,000,000,000 for debt reduction with no relief in taxes, is not enough of a difference to justify an argument of peril to the country's financial structure. The Republicans would have all the better of that argument, especially since the Truman doctrine favors the idea of spending billions for relief of peoples in foreign countries.

May Sign Tax Bill

If Mr. Truman signs the Tax bill, he will avoid antagonism among conservative and liberal voters alike, for they will all benefit. If Mr. Truman vetoes the Tax bill, however, there will be no tax-reduction law this year and maybe not next year, because the Republicans will present Mr. Truman with a much stiffer bill next time and really put him on the spot. They will do so because they will feel he began playing politics this year with the tax problem — assuming that he vetoes the present bill.

To veto the Labor bill, on the other hand, will not cause Mr. Truman much political injury. For when the measure becomes law over the veto, as seems certain, the record of friendship with the unions will have been maintained by the President and after the bill has been law for a few months, most people will forget that there ever was a veto if the legislation works. If it doesn't work, they will certainly not blame Mr. Truman.

The logic of the situation politically—that is, from Mr. Truman's own angle—is to sign the Tax bill and veto the Labor bill. To veto them both is to pile up trouble and commit political suicide, giving the Republicans a veto issue. Signing both would send Mr. Truman's popularity curve up 10 points and mean that the conservative vote in both parties would, in large part, swing to Mr. Truman and probably would be enough to reelect him.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Mark Clark Exiled

It is characteristic of the Army that time comes when men are exiled to posts of insignificance, perhaps to make sure that they do not forget the routine of futilities, the pettiness of army post life, the smallness of being king of a few acres.

General Mark Clark is beyond doubt one of the most competent statesmen in the service of the American people. His heroisms were in the line of duty but his administration in Austria, his grasp of the essential problems of Middle Europe, his genius for handling the Russians, his foresight in bringing to bear upon Middle European affairs the principles now called the Truman Doctrine were marks of ability not expected in any army officer and his execution was far beyond the line of duty.

So just at the moment when the Greco-Turkish enterprise is being put into effect, and when the Russians have seized Hungary, Mark Clark is brought back to the United States to be stationed at the Presidio where he can twiddle his thumbs in the pursuit of paper routine that any colonel can do just as well.

San Franciscans are fortunate that General Clark will be in their midst and I am sure that he will add lustre to the Bohemian Grove this Summer. But it seems to me that he should be stationed in Germany, Austria, or Greece where he could continue to do the job for which his natural gifts and his vast experience have fitted him.

Precisely the same mistake was made with General Wedemeyer, an equally gifted army officer who has been trained as an expert in Far Eastern affairs. It was planned to make General Wedemeyer the American Ambassador to China but for reasons never given the public, he was, at the very last moment, bypassed, and the aging, not particularly suited missionary educator, Dr. Leighton Stuart, was appointed to that post with General Marshall actually in charge of our affairs there. Between them they made quite a mess of our policy in China, pursuing a course there precisely and completely opposite to the Truman Policy. The result has been a major disaster not only for China and Korea but for the United States.

I have been told by those who ought to be familiar with what went on at Moscow that General Clark, the expert on Austria, was at loggerheads with other advisers of George Marshall, particularly with Ben Cohen and Charles P. Kindleberger, neither of whom are as competent in this particular field as he is. The policy-making group in the State Department whom these two represented at Moscow, would have preferred, I am told, some treaty over Austria rather than none at all. Kindleberger is a former Treasury man shifted over to the State Department and put in charge of the Economic Desk of the German section where his function is to adhere to the Morgenthau Plan as implemented by JCS 1067—an unworkable and harmful doctrine that Herbert Hoover so ably exposed.

These State Department policymakers are desirous of having the Italian Treaty confirmed by the Senate, in spite of the obvious fact that it is a direct violation of the Truman Doctrine and in spite of the fact that that treaty makes a gift of Italy to international Communism. They still hope to arrange an Austrian Treaty. Anything to get something on paper—duly signed with seals and ribbons, even if that anything is in conflict with a foreign policy voted by Congress and proclaimed by the President!

So they prefer to have such a man as Mark Clark out of the picture. He can play bridge at the Officer's Club at the Presidio; he can play Russian Bank at the Bohemian Club; he can eat shashlik at George Mardikian's. But a great talent ought not to be wasted in this manner. It is a little difficult to understand why the Republican Congress, which was going to begin its sessions each day with a prayer and end them with a probe, has thus far done not one thing to rescue the government of the United States from the little men who run the State Department.

WE'VE GONE GADGET CRAZY

We've become a gadget crazy nation. We aren't suffering as much from the highest cost of living as we are from the high cost of hysteria.

Our lives are so cluttered with things that we have no time or space for the real joys of living and loving and thinking for which we were created. I'm not a dodderer over the dear old days which were never as dear or clean or honest or kind as many of our leading fossils would have us believe. I can welcome a pressure cooker or vacuum cleaner into my heart and home with the greatest of ease. I can even get chummy with a colored tile bathroom although my plastic years knew no such delicate refinements. But I think we've gone completely screwball in our wild slavery to things.

At this point, Brother Bill, let me advise you that you can stow that grin which you're preparing for the wife and her new permanent. You're just as badly bitten by the tyranny of things as she ever thought of being. If you're off for a week's fishing, you go prepared with enough equipment and sport haberdashery to stock a battleship. You're the perfect fall guy for every new-fangled golf club, tennis racket or corkscrew which our frantic inventors can create.

As for the Mrs., we have long known that life is just one frenzied shopping tour after another. Which would be perfectly scrumptious if it created the peace and comfort we are seeking. But it doesn't. It simply creates clutter.

And it's all because our advertising geniuses have inoculated the whole nation with the idea that our happiness depends on having things.

At this point some peeved merchandising mastodon is going to demand that I be drawn and quartered as committing a crime in restraint of free trade. Save your breath, big boy, you've had your say for a long time and should be able to stand one feeble, female kick on your elegant shin. Business as business is all very well. No one objects to honest trade and healthy barter. But when trade promotes and encourages a cockeyed public phobia it becomes as dangerous as any gangland racket. Which is exactly what has happened to America since the turn of this century.

Now I love homes and the making of homes and have made them in many places and out of strange materials. But the most beautiful and restful room I ever saw held only a couch, a rag rug, a few chairs, a fireplace, some shelves of books, a jug of flowers and one inexpensive print. Otherwise it was open to the wind and sun and the glorious pageant of the clouds. Peace lay upon you like a gentle hand the moment you entered that room. Ragged little boys could scuff their way through that room joyfully. A puppy could bounce and a tired man could rest and the wife could feel the joy of creation in the theme which she had made out of so little. Yet I doubt if the whole contents of that simple room cost more than $50.

There is no end to the beauty and magnificence which man has created but the fit place to study and collect that magnificence is in a museum, not in a 10-by-12 apartment. Let us study those works of art as the Romans and Greeks studied their national treasures. Let us treasure the finest craftsmanship and encourage the making of it in our schools. Let us by all means cultivate beauty in every form that is functional and sensible and seeming. But let us also have the good sense to remember that simplicity is the highest form of all beauty and dod drat this hysterical collecting of mass assembly junk.

SKIP styling for a moment—it's pretty well admitted by now that Buick has called the turn on the shape of cars to come.

And for the present, slide over performance — with that big bonnetful of Fireball power, nobody's going to challenge you much on the open road.

What else has the trim Buick got that others can't quite come up to?

You find one big answer where the cobbles are plentiful, the car tracks tangled, the bumps big.

This brawny traveler has a ride — a smooth, level, easy stride that makes you think of a canoe drifting in quiet waters.

One reason: It was Buick that first introduced the American public to soft, gentle coil springing on all four wheels.

It was Buick that first made it possible for each wheel to step over bumps as they came along, leaving the frame and body to pursue their level way undisturbed.

THESE DO IT
— four big-but-gentle coil springs permit each wheel to "step over" bumps as it reaches them. It is this independent action of each wheel that gives Buick its matchless buoyancy on any and all roads.

Buick's coil springs keep their gentle softness always. They need no greasing or attention. They are unaffected by dirt, wear or the weather, and breakage is practically unheard of.

Clothing and canned food were the chief contributions shipped from Cumberland by truck. They will be packed and sent overseas to needy countries. The Churc of the Brethren is the depot for contributions of relief goods in this area.

The Christian Bible was first written in Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek.

People ask if it is still possible to buy "War Bonds". The answer is yes. The U. S. Government sells, through banks and post offices, "U. S. Savings Bonds" which are the same as "War Bonds".

Put yourself on EASY Street

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, will be supplied at extra cost as soon as available.

SKIP styling for a moment — it's pretty well admitted by now that Buick has called the turn on the shape of cars to come.

And for the present, slide over performance — with that big bonnetful of Fireball power, nobody's going to challenge you much on the open road.

What else has the trim Buick got that others can't quite come up to?

You find one big answer where the cobbles are plentiful, the car tracks tangled, the bumps big.

This brawny traveler has a ride — a smooth, level, easy stride that makes you think of a canoe drifting in quiet waters.

One reason: It was Buick that first introduced the American public to soft, gentle coil springing on all four wheels.

It was Buick that first made it possible for each wheel to step over bumps as they came along, leaving the frame and body to pursue their level way undisturbed.

THESE DO IT — four big-but-gentle coil springs permit each wheel to "step over" bumps as it reaches them. It is this independent action of each wheel that gives Buick its matchless buoyancy on any and all roads.

Buick's coil springs keep their gentle softness always. They need no greasing or attention. They are unaffected by dirt, wear or the weather, and breakage is practically unheard of.

The net of it all is that you put yourself on Easy Street when you seat yourself in a Buick. You make every road a better road — every ride an adventure in smooth and buoyant comfort.

Why not drop in and learn more? Whether you have a car to trade or want to talk on a "clean deal" basis, you'll always find a warm welcome here.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

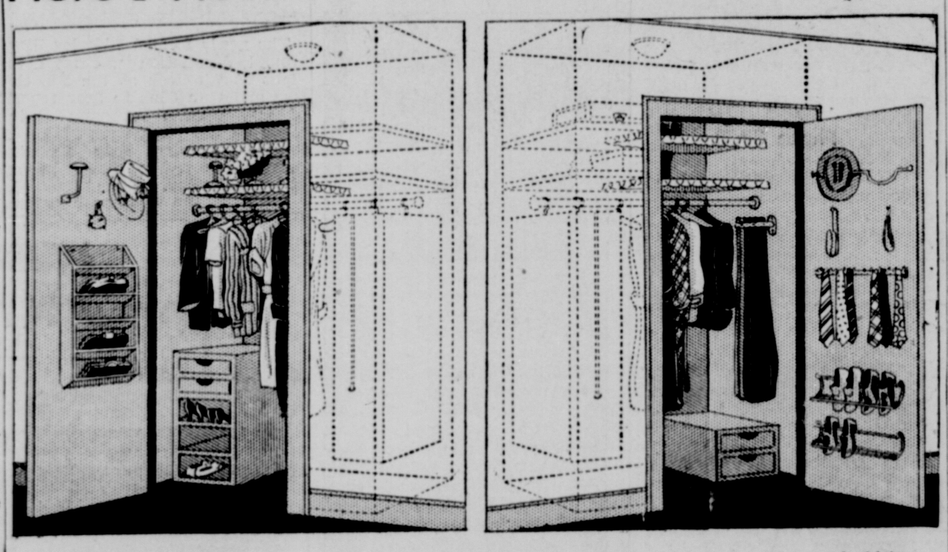
Here's How To Cut Some Closet Capers



By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Pop's personal closet looks like a junk bin. He may be in the best of humor in the morning when he is brushing his teeth but when he starts to look for his brown suit and his favorite tie things begin to happen.

When he opens the closet door he is lucky if a lamp doesn't fall down and hit him on the head, or the vacuum cleaner handle doesn't injure his eye. Then there is always a toy train or cart of junior's that his bare feet will encounter before he realizes the score.

Now, why can't pop have a closet that isn't topsy-turvy? All it takes is a little planning and a dusting out of the family closet skeletons.

If you've got two closets to start wuth plus an additional hall closet, everyhing should be simple. The National Safety Council suggests that in planning closets the closet doors should be utilized. On them a tie rack, shoe holder, hat rack, clothes brush and shoe horn can be hung. Inside dad's closet, have a rack installed on the wall to hold trousers.

Mom should have her own closet where she can hang spotless white blouses without fearing little Mary chocolate when looking for her kiddy car.

On the door she can have a good-size pocketbook rack, hat racks and perhaps a shoe bag. She should have ample space for long housecoats and evening gowns, for street-length dresses, and a shorter space for blouses, jackets and skirts.

Don't forget junior. If you don't have a closet for him, build him one out of a three-way screen. Attach hooks and gadgets to the screen upon which junior can hang his denims and his Sunday best. Get a chest of drawers that he can use for underwear, and a bookshelf that he can use to keep his toys from under dad's footsteps.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
How to Go [illegible]
We were sitting around Bill Webster's parlor Friday evening and the talk turned to the best way of overcoming sleeplessness...like breathing real slow and deep, imagining that you weigh a ton, or simply throwing away the pillow.
The consensus favored counting sheep. But right away was the question: what kind of sheep? There were some votes for countin' Merinos, Shropshires, Oxfords and Dorsets. Ed Mapes said he had best luck counting crossbreeds.
Finally, Bert Childers spoke up with his formula: A light snack and a mellow glass of beer at bedtime. Sort of puts you in the mood for quiet thoughts and peace of mind. Lets you relax . . . and "ho hum," off to pleasant dreams!
From where I sit, there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer to smooth away the creases of the day, relax a body, and pave the way for a good night's sleep. Try it, and see if I'm not right.

Some of the equipment ordered months ago and promised for delivery May 1 has not arrived, but sponsors of the program are going ahead, and getting work, especially on the new tract in the south end of town, completed. Jesse Riggleman, athletic coach at Ridgeley High School, is director of activities.

The playground work is being sponsored by the Rod and Gun Club, Lions Club, American Legion and Volunteer Firemen, all of Ridgeley.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Misunderstanding May Be Trivial And Yet Be Important

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have had a little misunderstanding with a boy concerning a trivial matter, and he has been acting very sullen since. Recently, he came up to our house in his car late at night and blew his horn up and down the street. I was out of town that night, but our exasperated neighbors complained to me about it, thinking that I was with him in the car. They told me that the next time it happened, they would call the police. I might say that this was not the first time he had done this.

I would be very grateful if you could give me some hints on how to settle the score, because our neighbors are getting the wrong idea. I do want to be friends with him. SUZIE P.

Dear Suzie:

What is to prevent you from simply telling this boy that you want to be friends with him, but that he is embarrassing you by this sort of behavior, and if he keeps it up you will not be able to continue your friendship? It seems to me it is as simple as that.

As for the neihgbors, if you have always, in the past, conducted yourself as a well-brought up young girl should, they should accept your word for it that you have never been involved in this ill-bred and inconsiderate practice and that you do not intend to stand for it any more than they will.

Of course, if you have not always conducted yourself in this way, it may be harder to convince them. But you can always apologize if you have been wrong, in any way, and assure people who have spoken to you about the matter that you will definitely see that it doesn't happen again.

This Girl Piled Up Mistakes

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I may be writing a very difficult question, but hope you can answer it.

I had two children before I was married. Recently, I did marry their father. But when I answered the questions for the license, I said I had been married. They asked me my given name and I gave a false one, That is, I gave my own name and added "Mrs." to it. I did not expect so many questions.

Am I legally married and, if not, would I have to go through another ceremony?

"VERY ANXIOUS."

Dear "Very Anxious":

You certainly got yourself all tangled up, didn't you? Of course, it would have been better if you had just been brave enough to face the situation as it was and put down the actual facts on the record. I doubt very much if the information would ever have become public, and then you would have been all square with the world.

If you and the man you have married are sufficiently devoted to each other so that you intend to make your marriage permanent, I can't see that there would ever be any occasion for trouble arising over your false statements at the license bureau, regrettable though it was that you were foolish enough to make them. In which case, you could probably let things stand as they are. However, if there is any chance that your husband might wish, later on, to get out of his marriage to you, he could probably do so on the basis of your having falsified the facts at the time you were married to him. Even though he knew the circumstances and had been a party to them, he could if he were unscrupulous, use the legal technicality to make a case for himself.

You should think this over and if you do feel your mistake might give rise to future trouble, then you had better consult a lawyer and ask him what you should do.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Teamsters Win Wage Boosts In Contracts

Wage increases were provided in two contracts negotiated by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, with two local firms, C. E. Stutzman, business manager, said.

The Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company signed a pact calling for a ten cents an hour increase for inside workers and three-fourths of a cent per case for route men. The latter increase will average between $7 and $10 weekly, according to Stutzman.

The contract also provides for six paid holidays, and runs until May 1, 1948.

Stutzman also reported a $5 wage increase for six drivers and helpers employed by the Wolf Furniture Company. This brings the rate of drivers to $45 and helpers to $40 weekly.

The contract provides for time and a half pay after eight hours daily and time and a half pay for all hours worked after 1 p. m. on Saturdays. One week's vacation with pay will be given those with one year of service and two weeks after three years. Six paid holidays are also included.

Brooklyn Man Praises City

After hearing many complaints from visitors to the city concerning the river in the summer, the smoke situation, the maze of confusing streets and various other conditions, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce was gratified to receive a letter of praise from a Brooklyn man who recently visited the city.

Harold W. Smith, chamber secretary, said the following communication was received from Eugene Gagliard, Brooklyn:

"I have recently returned from your little town of Cumberland after spending only one week there

"I like Cumberland very much and I do want to spend my summer vacation there.

"I would appreciate it very much if you would kindly send me some information on any resorts and hotels that are in the mountains. I will appreciate this very much indeed."

Number Of Jobless Veterans Declines

A decrease in the number of unemployed persons registered with the Maryland State Employment Service was noted in May as compared with April, according to Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local office.

The active file of unemployed totals 2,392 persons with 1,793 being male non-veterans and 595 women.

Power Sprayer Work Continues

A power sprayer being used on dairy farm barns and herds has completed work in the Potomac Valley section, including Rawlings and the Frankfort Road area as far south as Romney, according to County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

Work started in the Georges Creek area yesterday and the entire project is expected to be finished within a month. Results of the springer, using DDT, have been better than anticipated, McHenry said.

Teamsters Win Wage Boosts In Contracts

Wage increases were provided in two contracts negotiated by Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, AFL, with two local firms, C. E. Stutzman, business manager, said.

The Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company signed a pact calling for a ten cents an hour increase for inside workers and three-fourths of a cent per case for route men. The latter increase will average between $7 and $10 weekly, according to Stutzman.

The contract also provides for six paid holidays, and runs until May 1, 1948.

Stutzman also reported a $5 wage increase for six drivers and helpers employed by the Wolf Furniture Company. This brings the rate of drivers to $45 and helpers to $40 weekly.

The contract provides for time and a half pay after eight hours daily and time and a half pay for all hours worked after 1 p. m. on Saturdays. One week's vacation with pay will be given those with one year of service and two weeks after three years. Six paid holidays are also included.

Brooklyn Man Praises City

After hearing many complaints from visitors to the city concerning the river in the summer, the smoke situation, the maze of confusing streets and various other conditions, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce was gratified to receive a letter of praise from a Brooklyn man who recently visited the city.

Harold W. Smith, chamber secretary, said the following communication was received from Eugene Gagliard, Brooklyn:

"I have recently returned from your little town of Cumberland after spending only one week there.

"I like Cumberland very much and I do want to spend my summer vacation there.

"I would appreciate it very much if you would kindly send me some information on any resorts and hotels that are in the mountains. I will appreciate this very much indeed."

Power Sprayer Work Continues

A power sprayer being used on dairy farm barns and herds has completed work in the Potomac Valley section, including Rawlings and the Frankfort Road area as far south as Romney, according to County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

Work started in the Georges Creek area yesterday and the entire project is expected to be finished within a month. Results of the springer, using DDT, have been better than anticipated, McHenry said.

Runaway Boy Hops Train To Grafton

LUKE, June 4—A 10-year-old Luke school boy who became dissatisfied with school and his teacher is safely home after a 100-mile ride by boxcar to Grafton, W. Va., where his runaway attempt was cut short.

Hungry and penniless after arriving in Grafton, the youngster revealed to a man he had run away from home and was promptly taken to the State Police office where he was questioned by Trooper W. D. Sergent and City Patrolman Ila Morgan.

The boy told officers he had been picked up by two men in an automobile and knocked in the head, but Trooper Sergent, noting cinders in the lad's ears, asked:

"You've been riding on a train, haven't you?"

The boy readily admitted he had and told of his decision to take a train and ride as far as it would take him.

The officers furnished the boy a dinner and a train ticket home, meanwhile contacting the Keyser detachment of the State Police who in turn contacted the child's parents.

Runaway Boy Hops Train To Grafton

LUKE, June 4—A 10-year-old Luke school boy who became dissatisfied with school and his teacher is safely home after a 100-mile ride by boxcar to Grafton, W. Va., where his runaway attempt was cut short.

Hungry and penniless after arriving in Grafton, the youngster revealed to a man he had run away from home and was promptly taken to the State Police office where he was questioned by Trooper W. D. Sergent and City Patrolman Ila Morgan.

The boy told officers he had been picked up by two men in an automobile and knocked in the head, but Trooper Sergent, noting cinders in the lad's ears, asked:

"You've been riding on a train, haven't you?"

The boy readily admitted he had and told of his decision to take a train and ride as far as it would take him.

The officers furnished the boy a dinner and a train ticket home, meanwhile contacting the Keyser detachment of the State Police who in turn contacted the child's parents.

and diligently. It was then his father decided to build the telescope.

Interested In Birds

With all Jimmy's star-gazing, it would seem he would continue the study and make it his life's work. But when asked what his plans for the future are he said, "I'm interested in ornithology." We weren't quite sure whether this had anything to do with astronomy, but Jimmy explained that it is the "study of birds."

Then he said that as soon as school closes, he plans to go to Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, near Reading, Pa., this summer. Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, we were informed is a place where the hawks seem to congregate, and it has been made into a private refuge or sanctuary for hawks.

Jimmy plans to work there until August, and then will attend the convention of Amateur Astronomers and Telescope Makers, at Springfield, Vt.

So between astronomy and ornithology, Jimmy expects to have quite an interesting and profitable summer vacation.

Incidently, if you are interested in star-gazing, Jimmy will welcome a visit any clear night, and he will show his telescope, built entirely by his Dad, most proudly. And rightly so. It's really worth seeing anytime.

and diligently. It was then his father decided to build the telescope.

Interested In Birds

With all Jimmy's star-gazing, it would seem he would continue the study and make it his life's work. But when asked what his plans for the future are he said, "I'm interested in ornithology." We weren't quite sure whether this had anything to do with astronomy, but Jimmy explained that it is the "study of birds."

Then he said that as soon as school closes, he plans to go to Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, near Reading, Pa., this summer. Hawk Mountain Sanctuary, we were informed is a place where the hawks seem to congregate, and it has been made into a private refuge or sanctuary for hawks.

Jimmy plans to work there until August, and then will attend the convention of Amateur Astronomers and Telescope Makers, at Springfield, Vt.

So between astronomy and ornithology, Jimmy expects to have quite an interesting and profitable summer vacation.

Incidently, if you are interested in star-gazing, Jimmy will welcome a visit any clear night, and he will show his telescope, built entirely by his Dad, most proudly. And rightly so. It's really worth seeing anytime.

Frostburg's VFW tossers defeated the Lonaconing Republican Club in Lonaconing by the score of 6 to 5 in 13 innings to move into fourth place and the Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen increased their first place lead to 1½ games over Westvaco by defeating Mt. Savage on the latter's diamond by the score of 13-0 in a pair of Bi-State League twilight games played yesterday.

In the contest at Mt. Savage, Glenn Evans missed a no-run, no-hit game in the eighth inning when Bob Cassidy beat out a slow roller to Third Baseman Bobby Shaffer and reached second on the latter's bad throw to first base. Cassidy, incidentally, was the only Mt. Savage player to reach base during the entire nine inning game.

Evans Strikes Out Nine

Evans threw the third strike past nine batsmen and failed to issue a walk or hit a batsmen.

The league leaders nicked Crump, Dickie and Delaney for 13 hits, Cloyd Miller, Pete Cook and Bobby Shaffer heading the offensive with three blows each. Bob Cook's double was the game's only extra base hit.

An error paved the way for Frostburg's overtime victory over Lonaconing. In the 4th extra frame Hunter got a life on an error, raced to third on Johnson's single and came home with the winning marker on a fielder's choice.

Lonaconing knotted the count at 4-4 with a three-run rally in the 8th. Cameron and Johnson singled and scored on Charley Cook's triple. The latter came home on a single by Broadwater.

Kolish Swats Home Run

Frostburg took a 5-4 lead in the 12th when Pfaff hit safely, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Langan's two base wallop. Albert Kolish, Coney first sacker, belted a home run to tie up the game at 5-5 in the home half of the 12th.

Herb Johnson, Pekin lad, went the route for Frostburg. He yielded ten hits and fanned seven. Nicols and Steele yielded 13 bingles. Cook was the batting star with a double, triple and home run. Leatherman and Broadwater also collected three hits each. Box scores:

Frostburg's VFW tossers defeated the Lonaconing Republican Club in Lonaconing by the score of 6 to 5 in 13 innings to move into fourth place and the Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen increased their first place lead to 1½ games over Westvaco by defeating Mt. Savage on the latter's diamond by the score of 13-0 in a pair of Bi-State League twilight games played yesterday.

In the contest at Mt. Savage, Glenn Evans missed a no-run, no-hit game in the eighth inning when Bob Cassidy beat out a slow roller to Third Baseman Bobby Shaffer and reached second on the latter's bad throw to first base. Cassidy, incidentally, was the only Mt. Savage player to reach base during the entire nine inning game.

Evans Strikes Out Nine

Evans threw the third strike past nine batsmen and failed to issue a walk or hit a batsmen.

The league leaders nicked Crump, Dickle and Delaney for 13 hits, Cloyd Miller, Pete Cook and Bobby Shaffer heading the offensive with three blows each. Bob Cook's double was the game's only extra base hit.

An error paved the way for Frostburg's overtime victory over Lonaconing. In the 4th extra frame Hunter got a life on an error, raced to third on Johnson's single and came home with the winning marker on a fielder's choice.

Lonaconing knotted the count at 4-4 with a three-run rally in the 8th. Cameron and Johnson singled and scored on Charley Cook's triple. The latter came home on a single by Broadwater.

Kolish Swats Home Run

Frostburg took a 5-4 lead in the 12th when Pfaff hit safely, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Langan's two base wallop. Albert Kolish, Coney first sacker, belted a home run to tie up the game at 5-5 in the home half of the 12th.

Herb Johnson, Pekin lad, went the route for Frostburg. He yielded ten hits and fanned seven. Nicols and Steele yielded 13 bingles. Cook was the batting star with a double, triple and home run. Leatherman and Broadwater also collected three hits each. Box scores:

Borowy Of Cubs Scores Shutout Over New York

Only 31 Batters Face Hank In 6-0 Contest

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP) — Curve ball specialist Hank Borowy pitched the Chicago Cubs back into a tie for the National League lead with the New York Giants today by shutting out Manager Mel Ott's crew, 6-0 on four hits.

Borowy, in his best game of the season so far, faced only 31 batters and was working on a no-hitter until Willard Marshall broke the spell by singling with one down in the fifth.

Pinch-hitter Sid Gordon doubled in the sixth for the second Giant hit, Bob Thomson singled in the seventh for the third and Pinch-Hitter Bob Young banged a two-bagger for the New Yorkers' final safety in the eighth. Ott made one of his rare plate appearances in the eighth as a pinch-hitter but Borowy induced him to ground out. Box:

New Fish And Game Laws Go Into Effect

Smoking Game From Dens Is Illegal In Maryland

Change In Fishing Season Dates Made

It's unlawful to smoke, burn or otherwise molest game in any den or to damage or destroy the den of any protected game species or to injure, kill or take any game which has taken refuge in a den, according to one of the new laws passed by the 1947 session of the Maryland legislature which became effective on Sunday, June 1.

Copies of the new fish and game measures now in effect were received yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden for Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties.

Oriole Is Adopted

Another law declares the Baltimore Oriole the official bird of the State of Maryland. The orioles emblem will shortly adorn the sleeves of the uniforms of all game wardens throughout the state, Minke said.

An amendment to Sections 21 and 23, Article 99, provides that deer may be possessed for 30 days after the close of the season and upland game or deer may be kept for a period not to exceed 180 days from date killed by the "deep freeze" method if licensed hunter obtains a permit to do so from the Director, either during the open season or within five days after the close.

Under the new laws provision is made for a change in the name of the State Game Warden to "Director" and provides that the word "Director" shall be substituted for "State Game Warden" whenever it appears in Article 99.

Permit To Buy Game

The director is authorized to issue a permit to purchase and possess live game, but not to sell, at a cost of $1 and renewal fee at 50 cents. This applies to sportsman's organizations purchasing live game for stocking purposes.

It is now unlawful for any person to allow any dog, domestic stock or poultry to enter upon or trespass in any manner upon any state owned game or fish refuge.

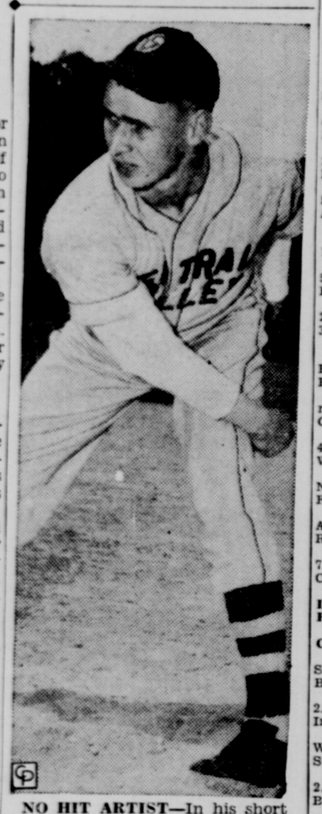
Provision is made for special dog training areas of 100 to 250 acres. A permit costing $10 can be issued by the direction upon application of 20 or more citizens; and no more than five such areas in any one country. No hunting and trapping will be allowed on area except for predators.

Raccoons and opossums have been added to the list of game animals and omits "eagles" from the list of unprotected birds.

Of Interest To Anglers

Under the new setup the seasons of suckers, cat fish, eels, gudgeon, all species of sun fish, including blue gill, rock bass commonly known as red-eye, and fall fish, from February 15 to November 30. The season on these species is now open. Prior to the passage of this law the season did not get under way until July 1.

The limit on suckers is 15 per day and on perch 15, either white or yellow. It is illegal for any person, who is not a bona-fide resident of the State of Maryland, to fish in the non-tidal waters of the state with nets of any description. It's unlawful to use bush bobs or bank poles in any streams stocked with trout and it's also against the law to bait bush bobs or bank poles with scale bait or live bait to catch suckers, cat fish, eels, gudgeons and all species of sun fish, including blue gill, rock bass commonly known as red-eye. No person shall use a bush bob or bank pole except between the hours of sunset and sunrise. A penalty of $1 for every fish found in possession illegally will be imposed.



NO HIT ARTIST—In his short scholastic career, Bob Hansen,17, of Central Valley High School, Newburgh, N. Y., has pitched five no-hit games. Big league scouts are watching him for future play.

Longest major league inning on record was the seventh of a Chicago-Detroit game played in 1883. Chicago had 23 men at bat and scored 18 runs.

DETROIT PLAYERS SUFFER INJURIES

DETROIT, June 4 (AP) — Three Detroit Tiger regulars were injured today in the first game of a crucial double header with the New York Yankees.

They were George Kell, hard-hitting third baseman, Dick Wakefield, left fielder, and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, one of Detroit's first string pitchers.

At Henry Ford Hospital, Trainer Jack Homel said Kell probably would be out for three or four days.

Wakefield twisted his left knee sliding into second on a forceout in the Tiger seventh and was helped from the field. He was expected to return for the second game, however. Rookie Vic Wertz took his place.

Trout, leading 6-2 in the last of the seventh, gave way to Freddie Hutchinson after a reoccurrence of an old groin injury.

Meanwhile, an unidentified spectator about 50 dropped dead at a crucial point in the game.

Smoking Game From Dens Is Illegal In Maryland

Change In Fishing Season Dates Made

It's unlawful to smoke, burn or otherwise molest game in any den or to damage or destroy the den of any protected game species or to injure, kill or take any game which has taken refuge in a den, according to one of the new laws passed by the 1947 session of the Maryland legislature which became effective on Sunday, June 1.

Copies of the new fish and game measures now in effect were received yesterday by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden for Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties.

Oriole Is Adopted

Another law declares the Baltimore Oriole the official bird of the State of Maryland. The orioles emblem will shortly adorn the sleeves of the uniforms of all game wardens throughout the state, Minke said.

An amendment to Sections 21 and 23, Article 99, provides that deer may be possessed for 30 days after the close of the season and upland game or deer may be kept for a period not to exceed 180 days from date killed by the "deep freeze" method if licensed hunter obtains a permit to do so from the Director, either during the open season or within five days after the close.

Under the new laws provision is made for a change in the name of the State Game Warden to "Director" and provides that the word "Director" shall be substituted for "State Game Warden" whenever it appears in Article 99.

Permit To Buy Game

The director is authorized to issue a permit to purchase and possess live game, but not to sell, at a cost of $1 and renewal fee at 50 cents. This applies to sportsman's organizations purchasing live game for stocking purposes.

It is now unlawful for any person to allow any dog, domestic stock or poultry to enter upon or trespass in any manner upon any state owned game or fish refuge.

Provision is made for special dog training areas of 100 to 250 acres. A permit costing $10 can be issued by the direction upon application of 20 or more citizens; and no more than five such areas in any one country. No hunting and trapping will be allowed on area except for predators.

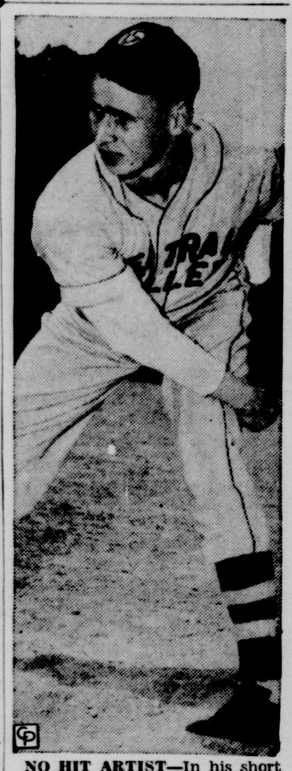
Raccoons and opossums have been added to the list of game animals and omits "eagles" from the list of unprotected birds.

Of Interest To Anglers

Under the new setup the seasons of suckers, cat fish, eels, gudgeon, all species of sun fish, including blue gill, rock bass commonly known as red-eye, and fall fish, from February 15 to November 30. The season on these species is now open. Prior to the passage of this law the season did not get under way until July 1.

The limit on suckers is 15 per day and on perch 15, either white or yellow. It is illegal for any person, who is not a bona-fide resident of the State of Maryland, to fish in the non-tidal waters of the state with nets of any description. It's unlawful to use bush bobs or bank poles in any streams stocked with trout and it's also against the law to bait bush bobs or bank poles with scale bait or live bait to catch suckers, cat fish, eels, gudgeons and all species of sun fish, including blue gill, rock bass commonly known as red-eye. No person shall use a bush bob or bank pole except between the hours of sunset and sunrise. A penalty of $1 for every fish found in possession illegally will be imposed.

Longest major league inning on record was the seventh of a Chicago-Detroit game played in 1883. Chicago had 23 men at bat and scored 18 runs.



NO HIT ARTIST—In his short scholastic career, Bob Hansen,17, of Central Valley High School, Newburgh, N. Y., has pitched five no-hit games. Big league scouts are watching him for future play.

DETROIT PLAYERS SUFFER INJURIES

DETROIT, June 4 (AP) — Three Detroit Tiger regulars were injured today in the first game of a crucial double header with the New York Yankees.

They were George Kell, hard-hitting third baseman, Dick Wakefield, left fielder, and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, one of Detroit's first string pitchers.

At Henry Ford Hospital, Trainer Jack Homel said Kell probably would be out for three or four days.

Wakefield twisted his left knee sliding into second on a forceout in the Tiger seventh and was helped from the field. He was expected to return for the second game, however. Rookie Vic Wertz took his place.

Trout, leading 6-2 in the last of the seventh, gave way to Freddie Hutchinson after a reoccurrence of an old groin injury.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 4.—I hope that Norma Shearer decides to star in "Christopher Blake" for Jack Warner. She is reading the script at Jack Warner's suggestion and since she has always had a warm spot in her heart for Warners, where she made one of her first Hollywood movies, well it looks very good for her to star in Moss Hart's play with Irving Rapper directing. Certainly, Joan Crawford did herself plenty of good at Warner's with "Mildred Pierce" and now "Possessed."

Bogart

Norma, her husband, Marty Arrouge, and the two children, Irving Jr. and Katherine Thalberg, sail on the Mauretania August 22 for Switzerland. The children will go to school, Norma and Marty will go on to St. Moritz and also attend the Olympic Games. "Marty, who was a ski teacher is very excited," Norma said, "at the prospect of skiing in Switzerland, and it's his first trip to Europe."

That Humphrey Bogart—I love him! He's always good for a laugh. He and Lauren Bacall just got back from Mexico.

"Is Baby on Suspension?" I asked him.

"Oh, yes, oh, yes," he said, "but it's a friendly suspension. She ain't mad at Jack Warner, and he ain't mad at her. She just didn't want to sing seven songs in a picture. Her voice isn't that good. But when he has another picture, despite all rumors, she'll make it, providing it's the right one."

Bogey's going to do "Disbarred", the story of a lawyer who gets himself into lots of trouble, for Mark Hellinger.

The Bogarts had a lot to say about Mexico, and all of it good.

Erich Pommer, who is the head of the film center for American Information in Germany, is in America briefly, to see his wife and to consult with some of the Washington military heads.

Erich, who, when I visited Germany, was king-pin of the UFA Studio, is making his pictures for Uncle Sam at the Templehof Studio, in Germany, which is much smaller than UFA, now located in the Russian zone.

An American citizen, Erich tells me that they are using no German players who ever appeared in propaganda films. German entertainers who were not Nazi sympathizers are permissable, but the big thing, Pommer says, is the discovery of new faces.

I don't know why we don't keep Pommer here. He's a fine producer and certainly very able. He said he went to Germany because he felt it was his duty.

There's no truth in the story that Ingrid Bergman expects a baby. She has heavily invested in "Joan of Lorraine" which starts July 14 at the Hal Roach studio, and Ingrid is much too smart a business woman to let all the work go on if she knew she couldn't play the part.

She conferred with Victor Fleming, her director, and Walter Wanger her producer, and surprised them by handing them a script on the life of Joan of Arc, which she had written seven years ago when she was just learning English. Maxwell Anderson is, of course, preparing the actual screenplay.

Chit-chat: David Niven was telling me about his four-year-old son David, who is now in England with his little brother waiting for his father to arrive.

Young David has learned to write and in one of his letters he wrote, "Dear Daddy, I am going to be a doctor because I want to listen to ladies heartbeats."

"What do you think of that!" said David, "He's starting young, isn't he?"

David said he's very eager to get to England to see the boys. His father-in-law, with whom the boys live, had to make a trip to New York. "I was sorry I couldn't see him," said David, "but I talked to him on the telephone and he tells me the boys are fine."

June Havoc hurries to Bridgeport, Conn., to play in the tryout of "The Girl of the Golden West" a revival of the old Belasco play which the Theater Guild is producing. However, even if the play opens in New York, June will not be free to accept the top role until after she plays the secretary in "Gentleman's Agreement."

Her selection for the Darryl Zanuck picture is very interesting. She once was in "Dunnigan's Daughter," directed by Ella Kazan, who is directing "Gentleman's Agreement," and he asked her to come and make a test. He was called to New York, so Moss Hart carried on for him and made such a good test that June now joins Gregory Peck and Dorothy McGuire.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Kyrle Bellew tells me that it was Ivan Foxwell who was out with Betty Hensel and not Richard Ney. The two men look very much alike. Betty, it seems, is quite taken with Foxwell.

Jimmy Durante has a new girl and a very pretty one named Emily Jones. They were at a table for two at the Santa Monica Mayfair the other eve, and that's not the first time they have been out together.

Dick Haymes' brother, Bob Stanton, and Frances Rafferty will marry as soon as she is free. Dick and his wife expect their baby very soon.

Edna Cantor, Eddie's daughter, and Cy Howard are becoming warmer than the weather. He is the divorced husband of Nan Wynn, and Edna was once married to Jimmy McHugh Jr. Mrs. Cantor, who is crazy about young Jimmy, sends him gifts to England where he's now living.

Last Day Today at the STRAND — "HOMESTRETCH" in Technicolor

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

The Champagne and Caviar Prize for Paul Gallico!

A couple of months back I allowed as how I would send the vintage bubbly and black tapioca to anyone who came up with something specially special in the creative fields. Since then, only John Ringling North's gee-whiz circus has copped this personal award. But this afternoon my brownies are wrapping another consignment of champagne from contented grapes and Romanoff caviar from pedigreed fish. Here's why:

Billy Rose

This morning I was riffling through the July copy of "Esquire," studying anatomy and wondering how I'd look in heliotrope tweed. On page 164, I came across a short piece by Paul Gallico titled "Summer Dream." I started reading:

"There is a vacant lot right next to where I live, and the other morning looking down from my window I saw two kids engaged in a game of pitch and catch with glove and ball. They were alone in the world, a big skinny kid in a striped jersey, and a little chunky kid. They had two fielder's gloves and a catcher's mitt and a baseball, and two of them made for themselves a summer's dream that touched my heart."

There's No Plot

What follows this paragraph is pure writing, orchestration on a typewriter. In about 1,200 easy words, Paul spins out what happens in the minds of two kids who imagine 50,000 spectators are watching them strike out Ted Williams, in the ninth inning with the bases full.

There's no plot. The Baron doesn't steal the crown jewels at the Grand Hotel in Ruritania. But in black and white, Gallico has captured the Technicolor daydreams of two boys. His literary lacework is as nostalgic as penny candy. If you lay his piece down without a little mist in the eyes, I suggest a trip to the Mayo Clinic for a checkup.

Of course to bust out in print with the news that Paul Gallico can write is like saying Joe Lewis has a good left hand. Paul has been knocking them over the center fielder's head for better than twenty years now. As sports writer, magazine by-liner, war correspondent, movie scripter and novelist, he has made this typewriter do everything but sing "Mammy."

Remember a movie called "Pride of the Yankees?" Remember a story called "The Snow Goose?" Remember a book called "Farewell to Sport?" These and a slew of other fine things featured Mr. G.'s jet-propelled prose.

Around the cheesecake dispensaries they're saying Paul will shortly start writing a newspaper column. As if things weren't tough enough already! I got a good mind to picket him as Unfair to Organized Illiterates. It'll be on his head if I have to melt down my typewriter for metal shoe-lace tips.

Welcome To Lodge

But let's be big about it. Paul, welcome to the lodge.

As a column-writer you're going to meet a lot of new people. Folks who never talked to you before will walk all the way across a room just to insult you. Don't let it rattle you. Smile sweetly—and keep a roll of forty nickels in your fist.

The first time your typewriter sticks and the opening sentence refuses to come out, you might try my method: Close eyes. Select book at random. Press tightly against forehead. Open eyes and read book. This trick is especially effective if the volume selected happens to be the collected columns of Ring Lardner, George Ade, Mr. Dooley or Heywood Broun.

By the way, dear reader, don't get me wrong. When I toss a posy at a piece of writing, I'm not trying to muscle in on Clifton Fadiman or Edmund Wilson. I'm aware my background for lit'ry criticism is bounded on the north by Nick Carter and on the south by Captain Billy's Whiz-Bang. But I'm willing to bet an old library card that several of tomorrow's anthologies will incslude the swatch of Gallico calico called "Summer Dream" in today's "Esquire."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The impact of Amercian culture abroad was manifest, not necessarily benevolently, twice within a week.

John Crosby

In Tokyo, the Armed Forces Radio Service invented a sea serpent which succeeded in causing a small panic. In Moscow, the Russian radio dipped one toe tentatively into commercial radio.

The Tokyo foolishness was in the classic American tradition of practical jokes, which are inclined to be ponderous. It was a hotfoot on a massive scale, a demonstration of minimal imagination and a total lack of common sense. The A. F. R. S. station WVTR broadcast a series of bulletins announcing that a twenty foot high monster was advancing into the center of town, small arms fire just bouncing off its thick hide.

The most curious fact about the resultant uproar, it seems to me, is that panic appears to have stricken the American and British occupation authorities more severely than it did the Japanese. Reporters dashed around the city trying to get eyewitness stories. American wives were in tears as their husbands went off to fight the serpent. American M. P.'s rode off in all directions, armed to the teeth. Most Japanese apparently just telephoned to find out if it were true.

This is a reflection, I think, not so much on the credulity of occidentals as the reliability of their own broadcasters.

The networks, it must be admitted, fell flat on their faces several times during the war with false news flashes; nevertheless, in general, anything billed as news on the American air is pretty well grounded in fact. The Japanese on the other hand, heard some very strange utterances over their own radio during the war and presumably adopted a more cynical attitude toward radio news. The sea serpent hoax won't increase their respect either for radio or for the occupation authorities.

According to press reports, the director of A. F. R. S. programs, a Dr. Wilton Cook, chuckled: "It just goes to show the power of radio." The next day the chuckling director and two others were detached from their jobs by higher authority which didn't think it was so funny. Besides showing "the power of radio," the hoax made a fool of General Douglas MacArthur, who is not only credited by the Japanese with the occupation reforms but also is held responsible for almost everything that goes on in Japan these days.

Any comparison between Orson Welles' Martian invasion over CBS in 1938 and the Tokyo hoax is fairly remote and a little unfair to Welles. After all, Mr. Welles was only trying to interject some excitement into the dramatization of a well known novel, "The War of the Worlds," by that other Wells—H. G. Twice during the broadcast—in the beginning and in the middle—it was announced that the broadcast was fiction and Mr. Welles was as surprised as anyone when he discovered that he had scared the pants off a good part of the country. It may have been foolish but it wasn't deliberate.

As for the Moscow commercials, the most startling aspect of that capitalist innovation was the fact that the listeners appeared to like them and asked for more. The Russians employed what might be described as the Mary Margaret McBride technique. Mary Margaret usually gets so wrapped up in her guests and her own monologue that she forgets all about the commercials until the last three minutes of play. Then everything pours out at once—the furniture polish, the delicious muffin flour, the Bohack vegetable of the week.

The Russians did the same thing. It was eight straight minutes of solid commercial, consisting chiefly of factual announcements of goods and services and where they could be obtained. The only resemblance to American commercials was one firm which repeated its address and telephone number. That shows which way the wind is blowing, comrade. Next thing you know they'll be repeating the firm name fifteen times in half a minute. As Fred Allen commented the other night: "Wait till they start spelling those Russian names backwards."

Frances Langford Show To Replace Burns And Allen

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 4—More signs of summer are making themselves apparent on the network kilocycles Thursday. For one thing Burns and Allen of NBC are now on vacation, and their 7:30 time is being turned over to a Frances Langford show, as a variety concert of American tunes. Garmen Dragon directs the orchestra.

Season goodbyes are due from Dick Haymes on CBS at 8 and the story of Music on NBC at 10:30. Dick will have as guest Parker Fennelly, veteran radio actor who is to have the lead role in the summer replacement skit, Lawyer Tucker.

For its farewell, Story of Music will have Dr. Howard Hanson directing the Eastman string orchestra in a half-hour of chamber music.

Ozzie and Harriet of CBS Sundays are to step over to MBS at 9 so that they can play in the Family Theater. The story picked for them is about a disc jockey and his wife who have separated and how they are brought together again.

America's Town Meeting, starting out on a tour to last all summer, will stop at Des Moines, Ia., for the 8:30 ABC broadcast. Topic question is "Are Communism and Christianity Incompatible?" There will be a panel of four speakers, including Dorothy Thompson.

Instead of a half-hour, the AFL variety show on ABC at 9:30 will run a full 60 minutes and include Edward G. Robinson, Francis X. Bushman, the Merry Macs and numerous others.

Both Vivian della Chiesa and Jan Peerce again are billed as soloists for the Alfredo Antonini concert on MBS at 8:30.

BROADWAY

Manhattan Memoranda

Henry Wallace will attempt to crack Washington's segregation code by holding a rally June 16 at the capital's only legitimate theatre before a mixed invitational audience. . . . This week's local $64 question is, how will the recent city pier and Department of Welfare scandals affect Mayor O'Dwyer's private ambition to be New York's next Governor or the next U. S. Senator to be elected? Hizzoner will make his first appearance before an upstate political machine June 10 when he addresses the Jefferson Day dinner of the Sullivan County Democrats at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. . . . Ex-State Senator John J. McNaboe, now a lawyer and a committee man for the American Legion's Air Service Post 501, is readying a series of eight lectures on the subject of Communism, to be delivered before Legion groups. . . . The United Nations' chief legal counsel, A. H. Feller, to conduct classes in international organization at Stanford University, California.

William O'Dwyer

The Federal Reserve System, the Export-Import Bank and the Commodity Credit Corporation to be questioned by the House Banking Committee in a probe of all U. S. lending agencies. . . . Returned correspondents from France point out that the Communists cannot assume top offices there even if elected to them because they'd be obligated to liquidate the French Empire under their code of ethics, and without the colonies France would starve. . . . Ed Lasker and Byron Price mentioned as successors to Bill Benton when he quits the State Department next month. . . . The "Bedside Network" for hospitalized vets gets under way this Friday with a Jimmy Durante-Gary Moore show emanating from McCormack General Hospital, Pasadena, Calif.

The Cincinnati Reds were offered $75,000 cash and three players by another ball club, in exchange for their star pitcher, Ewell Blackwell, but the offer was turned down. . . . Small station disk jockeys planning to organize on a large scale to offset any possible squeeze out resulting from the featuring of big names such as Paul Whiteman, Kate Smith and Tommy Dorsey. Latest glamor name for the disk trade is Rudy Vallee. . . . Eric Johnston working with writers, directors and actors on 50 short subjects titled "This Is Hollywood," to show the public the "real Hollywood," whatever that it. . . . It wasn't LaGuardia's ballyhoo that did it, but Hollywood is gradually shifting more and more of its production to Gotham. Coasters are betting that within five years New York will have 30% of all screen activity.

For the Now I've Heard Everything Department: Freddie McEvoy, with no heiresses on his string at the moment, is planning to produce a movie of a safari into the African jungle. . . . Margie Hart, the ex-stripeuse, has rejected all Hollywood offers of sexy roles; wants to play Maria Ouspenskaya and Beulah Bondi parts. . . . As might have been expected, Carmen Miranda is firing her manager of many years and giving the job to her new husband. . . . James M. Cain's next novel will be a fantasy, a history of this country based on the premise that the Civil War never happened. . . . Martha Stewart Lewis and Joe E. Lewis held a large party to collect bets from friends who predicted their marriage wouldn't last a year. . . . A Havana politician is having quite a time explaining his lacerated face. The damage, it seems, was caused by a broken bottle, hurled at him by his gal friend's brother, aged 12.

New York's hotel situation, which was supposed to be easing up, hasn't. Even so illustrious a visitor as John Gielgud still can't get into the Pierre, after months of trying. . . . The manager of one swank hotel blames the situation on European visitors, especially those from England, who come over here and stay until the 75 pounds that are allowed them are spent, mostly on food that they can't get at home. . . . The Jan Kiepuras (Marta Eggerth) and their 3-year-old son, Jan Thaddeus, who are vacationing at the Versailles in Miami Beach, reveal that the Polish singers plan a trip to Rome, where Marta will make "La Boheme" in English for Columbia International Pictures. . . . Perry Como fans are apprised that their idol will start a five-weeks' personal appearance tour June 11 at the Paramount, where his salary will be six times what it was two years ago. Credit the juke boxes for that.

Seven beautiful Italian lakes lie between the spurs of the Alps, among them Como, Lugano. Maggiore and Garda are especially noteworthy. Maggiore and Garda are the largest, each being more than 30 miles long.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—On a rainy June night (are there any other kind in Manhattan?) I was brooding over a coolish slice of roast beef on the Astor roof, whilst Carmen Cavallero, the "poet of the piano"—and inspiration for night club comic Morey Amsterdam's famous character, Carmen Moscowitz—gave out with his tinkling of syrupy chords. And anon, as Samuel Pepys used to put it, I fell to thinking on what a great part hotels play in a New Yorker's life.

Mel Heimer

He gets married in them. He dances in them. He swims in them. He romances in them. He gets shaved in them and he meets people in them and he curses at them when he is trying to get a cab, because the cab breezes right by him and over to the hotel entrance.

He holds banquets in them and he clinches business deals in them, and if the laws of nature were different, he would give birth in them. As it is, his wife does.

The Astor, I guess, is the one with the most character. It is strictly Broadway and the characters who prowl it are always dark-shirted, sideburned and carrying copies of the Racing Forum.

Margie Hart used to live in the Astor, and Jimmy Durante has a suite permanently reserved for him. I remember interviewing Durante in the Astor one afternoon, and you never have seen a happier man than The Nose, as he flung open the window and looked and listened to the sights and sounds of Broadway and Times Square below. Noisy, crowded, glittering—once seen, never fogotten, the Astor.

My own favorite is Hampshire House, up on Central Park south. I like it even though it is very liftedpinky. Dorothy Draper did the decor, full of stripes and flowers and studied elegance, and made it the kind of place where even low and vulgar ones like myself can relax and pretend we are gentlemen.

On the other hand, my second favorite is the Mills, down on Bleecker Street, in the Village. There are several Mills; this is the one known as "Mills Hotel No. 1", and it is full of strange, seedy, ships that pass in the night.

I saw a very fine fist fight in front of it the other evening, two guys belting the ears off each other—and ending up with their arms around each other, headed for a nearby gin mill. The Mills, too, has character.

The Waldorf-Astoria—the new one, son—is some 15 years old, but still doesn't seem to have made up its mind whether to be social or commercial. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor always stay there when in town, and there are other celebrities by the carload, all the way from Bing Crosby up or down to Frank Sinatra.

However, there are other, more raffish characters, whose only claim to fame seems to be a big bankroll. I aim to take this up with the Waldorf's management, to see what can be done about steering the joint's course one way or another.

The best men's bar is the Biltmore, a quiet, warm place that is haven from gabbling females. The best swimming pool is the salt water one in the St. George over in Brooklyn Heights.

The nicest dining room is the Gotham's, a hotel of infinite charm which, alas, is more noted as the place where a suicidal guest with a flair for drama jumped to his death through the marquee.

The biggest Tom Collinses are served at the St. Regis' King Cole Bar. The nicest dining-dancing spot is the Persian Room of the Plaza. The most austere is the Cotillion Room at the Pierre. The most movie stars stop at the Sherry-Netherlands.

The best room service is in the Ambassador. The most pleasantly old-fashioned is the Vanderbilt. The most unusual is the Holley, in MacDougal Street in the Village, underneath which flows the turbulent waters of Minetta brook.

However, these are, mostly, the big inns. There are thousands of small ones, like the Little Hotel in 51st Street hard by Toots Shor's, where the clientele never changes and the manager is father confessor to all.

I once ghost-wrote a book for a gal who lived there, and I must admit I spent more of my time listening to the manager advise his guests on who to date, marry or repel than I did working. They were pretty nice people, all in all.

The Champagne and Caviar Prize for Paul Gallico!

A couple of months back I allowed as how I would send the vintage bubbly and black tapioca to anyone who came up with something specially special in the creative fields. Since then, only John Ringling North's gee-whiz circus has copped this personal award. But this afternoon my brownies are wrapping another consignment of champagne from contented grapes and Romanoff caviar from pedigreed fish. Here's why:

Billy Rose

This morning I was riffling through the July copy of "Esquire," studying anatomy and wondering how I'd look in heliotrope tweed. On page 164, I came across a short piece by Paul Gallico titled "Summer Dream." I started reading:

"There is a vacant lot right next to where I live, and the other morning looking down from my window I saw two kids engaged in a game of pitch and catch with glove and ball. They were alone in the world, a big skinny kid in a striped jersey, and a little chunky kid. They had two fielder's gloves and a catcher's mitt and a baseball, and two of them made for themselves a summer's dream that touched my heart."

There's No Plot

What follows this paragraph is pure writing, orchestration on a typewriter. In about 1,200 easy words, Paul spins out what happens in the minds of two kids who imagine 50,000 spectators are watching them strike out Ted Williams, in the ninth inning with the bases full.

There's no plot. The Baron doesn't steal the crown jewels at the Grand Hotel in Ruritania. But in black and white, Gallico has captured the Technicolor daydreams of two boys. His literary lacework is as nostalgic as penny candy. If you lay his piece down without a little mist in the eyes, I suggest a trip to the Mayo Clinic for a checkup.

Of course to bust out in print with the news that Paul Gallico can write is like saying Joe Lewis has a good left hand. Paul has been knocking them over the center fielder's head for better than twenty years now. As sports writer, magazine by-liner, war correspondent, movie scripter and novelist, he has made this typewriter do everything but sing "Mammy."

Remember a movie called "Pride of the Yankees?" Remember a story called "The Snow Goose?" Remember a book called "Farewell to Sport?" These and a slew of other fine things featured Mr. G.'s jet-propelled prose.

Around the cheesecake dispensaries they're saying Paul will shortly start writing a newspaper column. As if things weren't tough enough already! I got a good mind to picket him as Unfair to Organized Illiterates. It'll be on his head if I have to melt down my typewriter for metal shoe-lace tips.

Welcome To Lodge

But let's be big about it. Paul, welcome to the lodge.

Credit the juke boxes for that.

Seven beautiful Italian lakes lie between the spurs of the Alps, among them Como, Lugano. Maggiore and Garda are especially noteworthy. Maggiore and Garda are the largest, each being more than 30 miles long.

Frances Langford Show To Replace Burns And Allen

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 4—More signs of summer are making themselves apparent on the network kilocycles Thursday. For one thing Burns and Allen of NBC are now on vacation, and their 7:30 time is being turned over to a Frances Langford show, as a variety concert of American tunes. Garmen Dragon directs the orchestra.

Season goodbyes are due from Dick Haymes on CBS at 8 and the story of Music on NBC at 10:30. Dick will have as guest Parker Fennelly, veteran radio actor who is to have the lead role in the summer replacement skit, Lawyer Tucker.

For its farewell, Story of Music will have Dr. Howard Hanson directing the Eastman string orchestra in a half-hour of chamber music.

Ozzie and Harriet of CBS Sundays are to step over to MBS at 9 so that they can play in the Family Theater. The story picked for them is about a disc jockey and his wife who have separated and how they are brought together again.

America's Town Meeting, starting out on a tour to last all summer, will stop at Des Moines, Ia., for the 8:30 ABC broadcast. Topic question is "Are Communism and Christianity Incompatible?" There will be a panel of four speakers, including Dorothy Thompson.

Instead of a half-hour, the AFL variety show on ABC at 9:30 will run a full 60 minutes and include Edward G. Robinson, Francis X. Bushman, the Merry Macs and numerous others.

Both Vivian della Chiesa and Jan Peerce again are billed as soloists for the Alfredo Antonini concert on MBS at 8:30.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—On a rainy June night (are there any other kind in Manhattan?) I was brooding over a coolish slice of roast beef on the Astor roof, whilst Carmen Cavallero, the "poet of the piano"—and inspiration for night club comic Morey Amsterdam's famous character, Carmen Moscowitz—gave out with his tinkling of syrupy chords. And anon, as Samuel Pepys used to put it, I fell to thinking on what a great part hotels play in a New Yorker's life.

Mel Heimer

He gets married in them. He dances in them. He swims in them. He romances in them. He gets shaved in them and he meets people in them and he curses at them when he is trying to get a cab, because the cab breezes right by him and over to the hotel entrance.

He holds banquets in them and he clinches business deals in them, and if the laws of nature were different, he would give birth in them. As it is, his wife does.

The Astor, I guess, is the one with the most character. It is strictly Broadway and the characters who prowl it are always dark-shirted, sideburned and carrying copies of the Racing Forum.

Margie Hart used to live in the Astor, and Jimmy Durante has a suite permanently reserved for him. I remember interviewing Durante in the Astor one afternoon, and you never have seen a happier man than The Nose, as he flung open the window and looked and listened to the sights and sounds of Broadway and Times Square below. Noisy, crowded, glittering—once seen, never fogotten, the Astor.

My own favorite is Hampshire House, up on Central Park south. I like it even though it is very lifted-pinky. Dorothy Draper did the decor, full of stripes and flowers and studied elegance, and made it the kind of place where even low and vulgar ones like myself can relax and pretend we are gentlemen.

On the other hand, my second favorite is the Mills, down on Bleecker Street, in the Village. There are several Mills; this is the one known as "Mills Hotel No. 1", and it is full of strange, seedy, ships that pass in the night.

I saw a very fine fist fight in front of it the other evening, two guys belting the ears off each other—and ending up with their arms around each other, headed for a nearby gin mill. The Mills, too, has character.

The Waldorf-Astoria—the new one, son—is some 15 years old, but still doesn't seem to have made up its mind whether to be social or commercial. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor always stay there when in town, and there are other celebrities by the carload, all the way from Bing Crosby up or down to Frank Sinatra.

However, there are other, more raffish characters, whose only claim to fame seems to be a big bankroll. I aim to take this up with the Waldorf's management, to see what can be done about steering the joint's course one way or another.

The best men's bar is the Biltmore, a quiet, warm place that is haven from gabbling females. The best swimming pool is the salt water one in the St. George over in Brooklyn Heights.

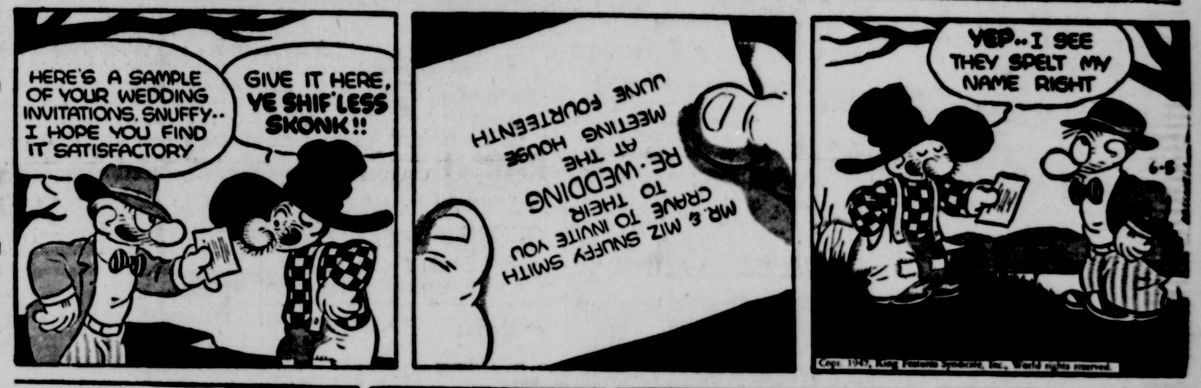
The nicest dining room is the Gotham's, a hotel of infinite charm which, alas, is more noted as the place where a suicidal guest with a flair for drama jumped to his death through the marquee.

The biggest Tom Collinses are served at the St. Regis' King Cole Bar. The nicest dining-dancing spot is the Persian Room of the Plaza. The most austere is the Cotillion Room at the Pierre. The most movie stars stop at the Sherry-Netherlands.

The best room service is in the Ambassador. The most pleasantly old-fashioned is the Vanderbilt. The most unusual is the Holley, in MacDougal Street in the Village, underneath which flows the turbulent waters of Minetta brook.

However, these are, mostly, the big inns. There are thousands of small ones, like the Little Hotel in 51st Street hard by Toots Shor's, where the clientele never changes and the manager is father confessor to all.

I once ghost-wrote a book for a gal who lived there, and I must admit I spent more of my time listening to the manager advise his guests on who to date, marry or repel than I did working. They were pretty nice people, all in all.



IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved Mother, Annie J. Moses, who passed away four years ago, June 5th, 1943.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all,
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with Mother dear.

We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died
We know you could not say good-bye
Before you closed your eyes.

Sadly missed by
HER DAUGHTERS and SONS.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved Mother, Annie J. Moses, who passed away four years ago, June 5th, 1943.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all,
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
It was to part with Mother dear.

We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died
We know you could not say good-bye
Before you closed your eyes.

Sadly missed by

Market Leaders Thrown For Losses After Fairly Active Midday Flurry

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—The stock market struggled to keep the recovery going today but the question of whether the President would sign the tax cut legislation touched off late offerings and threw many early gainers for losses.

Leading steels, motors, rails and special issues pushed up fractions to two or more points on a fairly active midday flurry. Dealings then slowed and prices wavered. Transfers expanded to 820,000 shares against 690,000 Tuesday. It was the largest total since last Thursday.

Issues off a point or so included Zonite at 6, Bethlehem 78 3-4, Anaconda 33 3-4, and Great Northern Railway 38. On the downside were United States Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Macy, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, General Electric, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Texas Company, Standard Oil of California, Pepsi-Cola and American Woolen.

Standard Oil (NJ), reached a 1947 peak and finished up 3-4 at 72 3-4. Union Pacific was up 2 1-2 at 128 1-2, Norfolk and Western one at 227 1-2, Allied Chemical 1 1-2 at 171 and United States Gypsum 1 1-2 at 95.

Others ahead included Woolworth, J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, International Telephone, du Pont and Houston Light.

In the curb, Holophane moved up a point on a pleasing dividend. Improved were Aluminum of American, American Gas, Cities Service, Standard Cap and International Petroleum. Turnover here was 220,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

A moderate rally in the bond market failed to carry through, and closing quotations were mixed. Several railroad obligations, principal gainers most of the day, saw their advances trimmed or turned into declines as demand slackened in the final hour.

Total sales were the largest of the week at $3,180,000 compared with $2,880,000 Tuesday.

Narrow changes ruled United States governments in over - the-counter dealings with the Victory 2 1-2s of December 1967-72 off 1-32 at 103 7-32 bid.

Market Leaders Thrown For Losses After Fairly Active Midday Flurry

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—The stock market struggled to keep the recovery going today but the question of whether the President would sign the tax cut legislation touched off late offerings and threw many early gainers for losses.

Leading steels, motors, rails and special issues pushed up fractions to two or more points on a fairly active midday flurry. Dealings then slowed and prices wavered. Transfers expanded to 820,000 shares against 690,000 Tuesday. It was the largest total since last Thursday.

Issues off a point or so included Zonite at 6, Bethlehem 78 3-4, Anaconda 33 3-4, and Great Northern Railway 38. On the downside were United States Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Macy, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, Kennecott, General Electric, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Texas Company, Standard Oil of California, Pepsi-Cola and American Woolen.

Standard Oil (NJ), reached a 1947 peak and finished up 3-4 at 72 3-4. Union Pacific was up 2 1-2 at 128 1-2, Norfolk and Western one at 227 1-2, Allied Chemical 1 1-2 at 171 and United States Gypsum 1 1-2 at 95.

Others ahead included Woolworth, J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, International Telephone, du Pont and Houston Light.

In the curb, Holophane moved up a point on a pleasing dividend. Improved were Aluminum of American, American Gas, Cities Service, Standard Cap and International Petroleum. Turnover here was 220,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

A moderate rally in the bond market failed to carry through, and closing quotations were mixed. Several railroad obligations, principal gainers most of the day, saw their advances trimmed or turned into declines as demand slackened in the final hour.

Total sales were the largest of the week at $3,180,000 compared with $2,880,000 Tuesday.

Narrow changes ruled United States governments in over - the-counter dealings with the Victory 2 1-2s of December 1967-72 off 1-32 at 103 7-32 bid.

Federal District Court Will Be Closed June 30

No Appropriation; Bar Association Objects

Federal District Court located in the Post Office building here will be closed June 30 unless Congress grants a request of the Allegany County Bar Association and includes in its courts appropriations funds for maintenance of an office for the deputy clerk of the local Court.

Charles W. Zimmerman, Baltimore, clerk of the U. S. District Court for the District of Maryland, informed C. Edgar Keller, deputy clerk here, that he had been advised the Appropriations Act for the Courts of 1948, already passed by the House of Representatives, prohibits application of any part of the funds appropriated to pay costs to maintain an office of clerk of the district court in Cumberland.

If the bill is enacted, as seems probable, Zimmerman said, the office will be closed June 30.

Created In 1892

The district court here was created in 1892 while the late Col. George A. Pearre was a member of the United States Senate. Keller has been deputy clerk since March 5, 1924.

The Bar Association, meeting Tuesday morning at the Court House, went on record opposing closing of the deputy clerk's office, and sent letters stating their objections to Senators Millard E. Tydings and Herbert R. O'Conor and to Rep. J. Glenn Beall.

Rep. Beall said last night he has entered a protest to the Apppropriations Committee trying to protect the local court, but added that it will be necessary to show that the court is justified in order to have the necessary funds provided by Congress.

He explained that the Appropriations Committee conducted a survey of courts throughout the country and failed to grant appropriations to 54 courts in addition to the one located here.

Courts eliminated were those not having a minimum of 50 cases a year on the basis of the survey conducted in 1945 and 1946, Rep. Beall said, and Cumberland fell into that category.

Maintenance of the deputy clerk's office here costs less than $2,000 a year, according to Keller. It is the only federal court in Maryland outside of Baltimore and has handled about 2,300 cases, including criminal, civil and bankruptcy proceedings, since its creation.

"Strenuously" Opposed

A motion passed unanimously by the bar association in a move to keep the court open, authorized the president, W. Earle Cobey, to prepare a resolution "strenuously opposing" the Appropriation Act for the Courts of 1948.

In letters mailed by the bar association to Senators Tydings and O'Conor and Rep. Beall, it was pointed out that the court was established here in 1892 to permit suits to be filed in the District Court of Maryland in Cumberland rather than requiring local counsel to file them in Baltimore.

"While there is not a great deal of work in this office," the letter stated, "nevertheless the office has been a great convenience to the bar and contains the local bankruptcy records and an excellent library."

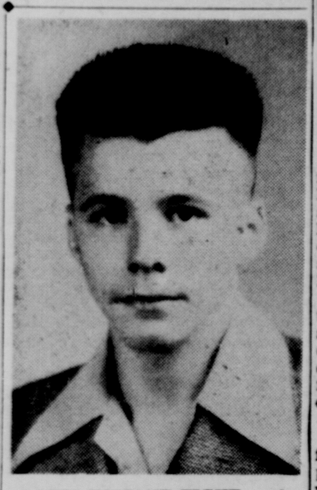
Unless a case involves a large number of local witnesses, federal court does not sit in Cumberland, according to the letter, but it adds that the aggregate of fines and costs in cases originating in this area in one year is in excess of the "small amount" necessary to maintain the local deputy clerk's office.

The bar requested that the Appropriations Bill for 1948 be amended in the Senate to include funds as may be necessary to maintain the local office.

Library May Be Moved

Attorneys yesterday pointed out that while the local court is the only federal district court in Maryland outside of Baltimore, no cases have been disposed of here for about 10 years.

It was considered likely that all court records filed here will be sent to Baltimore and that the library, termed the best federal library in this part of the state, likewise will be moved.



LOSES VALIANT FIGHT — A funeral service for Floyd Ernest "Sammy" Kunes, 15-year-old Fort Hill High School freshman, 104 Gleason Street, who died here Tuesday afternoon as a result of a rare blood malady, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church. Burial will be in Cook's Mill Cemetery.

Three Men, Child Injured In Two Auto Accidents

Five-Year-Old Girl Is Seriously Hurt

Three men, one a federal postal inspector from Washington assigned to a case here, were injured yesterday when a jeep crashed against the rear of a sedan in the 800-block Greene Street at 4 p. m., and a 5-year old girl suffered serious injuries when she was struck by a truck.

Detective Edwin R. Lilya, City Police Department, said the two men in the jeep, Joseph Monnett, 28, 894 Henderson Avenue, the driver, and Melvin Shipe, 36, Keyser, W. Va., were admitted to Allegany Hospital but the postal inspector, Floyd J. Curtis, 38, was treated and discharged.

Shipe, police said, suffered a fractured skull and multiple lacerations of the right leg, while Monnett was treated for a deep laceration over the right eye and cuts on his forehead. Both men were kept in the hospital for observation. Curtis, according to attaches, suffered minor cuts above the left eye.

Stopped For Directions

Curtis, according to Detective Lilya, was headed west on Greene Street, when he stopped his machine to ask directions of a passing pedestrian. He then started the car again, the detective stated, and Monnett's jeep crashed against the rear causing considerable damage.

Police estimated damage to the jeep at $100 and said Curtis' vehicle was damaged to the extent of $200. Both vehicles were taken to garages for repair.

Lilya said the investigation of the crash is incomplete pending outcome of the men's injuries but added charges will probably be preferred against Monnett.

Hospital attaches described the conditions of both men as "good" last night.

Police identified the child as Donna Jean May, daughter of Mrs. Hilda May, 322 Bond Street, and said she suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and possible fracture of the pelvic bone when she was struck by a vehicle at Milton Place near Henderson Avenue.

Driver Identified

Detective Lilya identified the driver of the truck as Curtis Breedlove, Cresaptown, and said he and a passing motorist took the child to Allegany Hospital.

Breedlover, police said he told them, had just made a turn from Henderson Avenue up Milton Place to get to Columbia Avenue, when the child, playing on the pavement, ran between two parked behicles against the side of the truck.

Police described Milton Place as a very narrow passage and said there was no chance for a motorist to swerve his vehicle in an attempt to avoid the accident.

Lilya said no charges will be placed against Breedlove.

Only "Superior" Teachers To Be Hired, Kopp Says

Application List Largest In Years

With 186 applications already submitted to the Allegany County Board of Education for teaching positions in high schools, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, said yesterday only "superior qualified persons" will be considered for the 1947-1948 term.

"We want instuctors with superior training and ability and not persons with average ratings," Kopp explained indicating that the exceptionally large list of applications for positions will permit selections of choice instructors.

Tentative Appointments Made

Of the 186 applications now on file, Kopp said a "few tentative appointments" have already been made, but declared that the task of checking references and character of applicants makes each appointment a long painstaking job.

Certain changes will be made in the present teaching personnel, Kopp explained, and where changes are made the replacement will be made with teachers of "superior training and ability."

The standards of the Allegany County Board of Education have for many years demanded persons of high qualities, Kopp asserted, but because of the low salaries and decidedly low number of persons interested in the teaching profession, it has been impossible to adhere to such standards. Now, he said, with the salaries increased and a group of select persons applying for positions the board will insist on the standards being met.

The exceedingly large number of applications already filed at the office, indicates that the board can be selective, Kopp stated, adding that it has been many years since teachers could be employed on a selective basis for the county.

Many of the applications already received are from persons with high qualifications, Kopp said, adding "of course good wages also attract persons who are not so well qualified."

Appointments Delayed

Because of the work required in checking each applicant and indications that others will still be received, there appeared little likelihood that the faculties for the county schools will be ready for announcement soon.

Great pain to secure all information possible concerning the applicants is being taken, Kopp explained to insure that the judgment in selections will be based on sound information.

While the applications for elementary school positions have not been as great in number, the four-year college training will still be required, Kopp explained.

STAR GAZERS—John H. Deetz, left and his son James Deetz, 17, 503 Baltimore Avenue, are shown here standing beside an eight-inch reflector-type telescope constructed for Jimmy by his father, to aid in the study of astronomy. Jimmy has been interested in the science for several years, and aroused the interest of his father who ground the lens and constructed the telescope. It is located in the back yard of their home and is solidly imbedded in a large concrete slab for stability. Perfectly balanced, the 'scope is extremely powerful and is considered an excellent piece of craftsmanship.

Damages Of $5,000 Sought As Result Of Two Accidents

B. And O. Sued In Crossing Crash

Declarations in two $5,000 damage suits, one concerning an automobile-train accident and the other a collision of two automobiles, were filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

Donald W. Barger, Oldtown Road, charged Norman Roy Collins, Cumberland, with negligent operation of his automobile and said Collins, by exercising reasonable care, could have avoided an accident on Route 40 east of Cumberland on November 28, 1946.

Barger was a passenger in the car operated by Riley D. Heavner, near Flintstone, who was killed in the crash, and said he suffered a brain concussion, his left arm was broken in three places, that his knees were injured and that he was otherwise shocked and disabled.

Driving Toward Flintstone

Edward J. Ryan, Barger's attorney, said Heavner was driving toward Flintstone when the accident happened near Minke's Tavern on Route 40.

He added that Collins, headed west, saw, or by exercise of reasonable care could have seen, the collision was inevitable in time to have avoided it.

Barger asserted that he was required to undergo hospital, medical and surgical treatment, has been permanently disabled and for a long time has been deprived of his ability to earn his usual wages.

Edward Miller, Frostburg, filed suit against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company charging that it was the railroad's negligence that resulted in an accident on the Keystone Crossing near Meyersdale, Pa., December 5, 1946, in which he was injured.

Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., attorneys for Miller, said he was riding in the car operated by Ralph A. Lewis, Frostburg, and that the two men were returning to Frostburg when the car was struck by a westbound passenger train.

The automobile was demolished, according to the attorneys, and Miller suffered severe injuries to his back, shoulder and legs, was required to undergo medical treatment and was unable to work for several weeks.

High Rate Of Speed

The train approached the crossing at a "high and dangerous rate of "speed" of 50 or 60 miles an hour, without ringing a bell or blowing a whistle and no watchman was on duty, according to Miller.

The declaration charged that it is the duty of the railroad to exercise reasonable care to avoid injury to persons crossing the tracks at the crossing, that speed of the train should have been reduced to 40 miles per hour as provided by regulations of the company and that a watchman should have been on duty because a wide curve obstructs the view.

In listing contributions for May, $34 were inadvertently overlooked in making the tabulations. Those contributions are as follows:

Father And Son Find Common Interest In Study Of Stars

Construct Eight Inch Telescope

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

James Deetz, 17-year-old Fort Hill High School junior, and his father, John H. Deetz, plasterer, 503 Baltimore Avenue, are real pals. As you talk with Jimmy about his interests, he keeps referring to things his "Dad does" or "Dad says." And when you talk with the father, he would rather talk of Jimmy than most anybody else.

It's all because they have a mutual interest, and Jimmy seems to have led the way.

For a good many years, Jimmy has been fascinated by the stars, not movie stars, or football stars or baseball star like most high school boys and their Dads, but the celestial stars . . .the moon. . .the sun. . . the planets . . . and all the bodies that move about the sky.

As he studied, and star-gazed and learned much about this oldest of the sciences, his father also became interested and decided Jimmy should have a telescope. Not the kind of telescope you can buy for a $10 bill, but a big one. The kind of telescope real astronomers use. The kind that magnifies the stars so many times you seem to reach out and touch them.

But this kind of telescope is quite costly and usually found only in observatories, universities, naval stations, etc., and much out of the reach of the average individual.

Heard About Big-Inch

Jimmy and hi Dad read about the big 200-inch telescope used by Russell Porter, and inquired about how it was made. They learned that Porter interested a number of amateur and would-be-astronomers in helping grind the lens. They also discovered that it is possible to make a first class telescope at very reasonable cost, provided one had the skill and patience.

So Jimmy's father, who is also an amateur radio operator, as a hobby, bought the necessary glass and began to grind the lens. It took three months of long polishing and grinding. It was delicate and tiring work, and there wasn't any time for radio "hamming". But finally the glass was finished, and it turned out to be perfectly ground and beautifully polished. Then it was sent away, Jimmy explains to be silvered. Actually it is coated with chrome-aluminum.

Intricate Task

The lens is made of two pieces of pyrex-type glass, about an inch or more in thickness and eight inches in diameter. One piece, the bottom is called the "tool", while the top becomes the mirror. Seven different grades of carborundum are used for the grinding and then the final polishing is done with jewelers rouge, Deetz explained. By rubbing the "tool" with the "blank" or mirror piece, around and around, making each stroke the same, and grinding slowly but truly, one piece of glass gradually becomes concave, and the other convex.

And this is the secret. They must be perfectly ground and finished, so they fit together as one single unit. This causes the rays of light to concentrate at one central point, which Jimmy explains, is the secret of magnification.

After this laborous task was finished, Deetz constructed a prefectly balanced pedestal and mounted a "stove-pipe" like tube or barrel about five feet long on the pedestal. The lens was placed in one end, a small mirror, carefully balanced and centered is in the other.

Perfect Appearance

When the telescope is sighted at a star, the star is reflected from the lens into a small mirror. By looking into a small telescope on the outside of the tube, the star image reflected into the small mirror can be seen clearly and without distortion or unnatural color.

To make the operation a little easier, a small "finder" much like a small telescopic sight is also attached alongside, for locating a particular star or planet, before focusing the larger apparatus.

Jimmy can name planets and stars and formations just about as long as you can listen to him. He has an astounding knowledge of the subject and also an excellent mechanical knowledge of the operation and construction of reflecting telescopes. So does his father, who usually lets Jimmy tell about the stars, etc.

Jimmy first became interested in astronomy several years ago as a Boy Scout. He is still a member of Troop 19, and began studying about the moon and its phases several years ago. One thing led to another, he explained, and soon he was studying astronomy quite seriously

Consolidated Fuel Company Appeals Miners' Pay Case

Takes Exception To Referee's Decision

An appeal from a decision of a state appeal referee of the Unemployment Compensation Board allowing unemployment compensation benefits after April 6 to 131 employes of Hoffman Mine No. 3 and Eckhart Mine No. 10 of the Consolidated Fuel Company, Inc., has been filed by the company, Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the UCB, said yesterday.

The company filed the appeal with Miss Irene Zaccaro, referee who conducted the firm's appeal from a decision of the local office in the same case, and requested a review of the proceedings by the three-man Unemployment Compensation Board.

Because the firm has taken exception to the referee's decision, no benefits will be paid to employes for the period between April 7 and May 23 until the appeal is disposed of, Kenney explained.

He added, however, that after May 23, all employes of Mine No. 3 are eligible for benefits on the basis of information contained in a letter from the employer to the individual employes stating that work is no longer available to them.

The final appeal, if either party is dissatisfied with the decision of the Unemployment Compensation Board, is to the Allegany County Circuit Court.

The company opposed payment of unemployment benefits to the miners, contending that the mines were authorized to open and the men could have worked, but Miss Zaccaro ruled that the failure or refusal of the men to return to work in the Hoffman and Eckhart mines on April 7 was for good cause.

The miners had observed the coal miners' 'holiday April 1 and then remained away from work for the remainder of the week until April 6 in memoriam of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster. Then they continued unemployed as a result of a national mine close down to permit inspection of all coal mines for safety conditions.

Contending that the mines were unsafe in which to work, because of conditions found by federal inspectors, the miners filed claims for compensation after April 6.

Held For Investigation

A man identified as James Basil Wills, Altoona, Pa., was being held in City Jail last night for investigation after being arrested on Baltimore Street by Cpl. Thomas Veditz and Trooper Harry Bosley, Maryland State Police. Several places are being checked to see if the man is wanted, police explained.

NLRB Plans Election In American Stores

The National Labor Relations Board will conduct an election here July 16 to determine the bargaining agent for some 100 employes of the American Stores, Inc., in Cumberland and the George Creek Area, William Krapf, president of Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, reported yesterday.

The Meat Cutters union and Local 886, Retail Food Clerks, he said, have been conducting an organization drive in the stores for several months. The unions lost a similar election last year when stores from nearby communities were included.

Three Suits Filed In Crash Settled Out Of Court

Accident Occurred Near Flintstone

Three dmaage suits totaling $10,000, filed against Marshall Beachy, Grantsville, by Ralph Wharton, this county, Mrs. Alma Wharton, Boston, Mass., and their minor son, Paul, as a result of an accident on Route 40 near Flintstone July 25, 1946, have been settled out of court.

All three of the Whartons were injured and their car demolished when it and Beachy's coal truck collided, attorneys said, and sued to recover damages.

A judgment for $400 was entered in behalf of the boy, Paul, whose suit was entered by Ralph Wharton, his father and next friend, against Beachy, but attorneys did not disclose the terms of settlement in the cases of Ralph Wharton against Beachy and Mrs. Alma Wharton against Beachy. The boy sought $3,000, Wharton $2,000 and Mrs. Wharton $5,000.

The Whartons were represented by Edward J. Ryan while Beachy was represented by W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

Two Suits Removed

Two other suits filed in Circuit Court here have been removed to Washington County for trial. They were filed by William E. Lewis, Long, and Harvey E. Funk, LaVale, against James R. Smith, Oldtown Road.

The plaintiffs charge they were riding a motorcycle when Smith turned his machine across the right of way causing a collision. The accident occurred last fall at the intersection of Oldtown Road and Brookfield Avenue. Paul M. Fletcher represents the plaintiffs and William A. Gunter the defendants.

A petition has been filed in Circuit Court by David S. Boal, administrator of the estate of the late Janet H. Fazenbaker, Westernport, asking the court to pass a decree for the sales of two lots and a dwelling in Hammond Addition, Westernport. Boal says sale of the property is necessary to pay debts against the estate.

Two Divorces Sought

Defendants named in the petition are Bessie and John Beier, Albert and Irene Fazenbaker, Annie and Claude McIntyre and Margaret and Arthur Curling.

Suits for divorce were filed yesterday by Irvin A. Robinette against Mary D. Robinette, 4 Roberts Street, and by Helen Mae Carder Hefner against Rudolph Montgomery Hefner.

Zoning Board Grants Three Permit Appeals

Three appeals for occupancy permits were granted last night by the Board of Zoning Appeals at a regular meeting in City Hall.

John B. McFarland, Jr., was granted a permit to use a one-story concrete block building to be constructed at 503 Pine Avenue as a paint shop and auto repair shop.

Although the site is in a Residential B Zoning district, Joseph R. Manthely, board secretary, who presided, explained that the application was granted because of a special exception in the zoning ordinance which permits the establishment of a business in a residential district between two lots already used for business purposes.

Other permits were granted to Joseph Robinette to use a lot at 140 Thomas Street as a used car lot with a small office building; and to Henry C. Dolan to use a proposed building at 119 Henderson Avenue as a wallpaper store, with an apartment on the second floor.

New Postmaster Named

Local postal officials reported yesterday that L. H. Grabiel will be installed as acting postmaster tomorrow at Levels, W. Va.

Grabiel will succeed Mrs. Marguerite Romine, who resigned after serving as postmistress for a number of years.

Basis Is Sought For Meeting On Celanese Strike

No Progress Reported From Two Conferences

Federal and state labor officials were still striving yesterday to find some basis for resumption of joint negotiations which might lead to settlement of the contract dispute which closed the huge Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America here last Friday.

James A. Holden, federal conciliator, reported last night that he and Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, acting commissioner of labor and industry for Maryland, held conferences yesterday morning and afternoon with union officials.

Will Continue Efforts

He did not elaborate on the report except to say that he expects to continue the efforts today to find some basis for joint negotiations.

Negotiations broke down Monday after both sides showed no indications of wavering from previous positions.

Fred T. Small, plant manager, said arrangements are being made to distribute pay checks for the week ending May 21 at the State Armory next Monday.

It was understood that police authorities suggested the change after the confusion which resulted Monday when some 7,000 of the 9,000 odd hourly rated employes of the plant reported to the Merchandise Mart to get their pay checks.

Small said yesterday no other arrangements for paying off could be made in such a short period.

Remove Tools

AFL employes who were engaged in a maintenance and modernization program at the plant were granted permission to enter the plant yesterday to collect their tools so that they might continue work elsewhere during the strike.

All was reported quiet at the plant as no attempt is being made to resume operations. Pickets are watching the gates but no incidents have been reported.

The company says union demands would add 31 cents to the hourly payroll as against their offers of 8.5 cents. The union said it had reduced its demands, listed by the company as totaling $3,910,120, by 75 per cent for a total cost of $1,229,100.

Today's union paper said an important meeting of the Strike committee will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at union headquarters. The group includes all officers, shop chairmen and committeemen.

Spinning department workers will hold a special meeting at the union hall tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Picket line activities include a party for children Sunday at 3 p. m.

Police Notified That Stolen Car Is Recovered

The third car taken in a series of thefts was recovered last night in Pittsburgh, but the thieves who were once reported armed and wanted for robbery in Uniontown, Pa., were still at large, according to police.

City Police recovered the second car, a Hudson that was stolen in Pennsylvania last Friday and then began searching for a Chevrolet, that Norman E. Fluskamp, 731 Maryland Avenue, reported stolen. They were notified that the vehicle was recovered last night.

According to Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnson, of the Cumberland Police Department, the alleged thieves drove into Cumberland Friday night in a Hudson coupe, that was reported stolen in Uniontown by Robert J. Sproul, of near there.

Sproul told police that an abandoned Dodge coupe was found near where he had parked his Hudson. Police said here that the Hudson was found near the scene where Fluskamp's Chevrolet was stolen.

Near the area where the thieves changed cars in Cumberland, and also changed license plates, placing Pennsylvanna tags on the local man's car, three other garages were broken into and attempts made to cross wires on automobiles, police said, but apparently the machines would not start.

City Police said that shortly before they received a pickup on the Hudson car, an officer working the Baltimore Street beat reported seeing two men changing a tire on a Hudson Coupe in front of the Embassy theater, Baltimore Street.

Last night, they declared that a call from an unidentified person in South Cumberland reported seeing three men loitering in the Maryland Avenue section Friday after midnight.

Sproul, in reporting the theft of his car to police, said that he was returning to Uniontown from Everett, Pa., Friday afternoon when he noticed a car coming toward Cumberland, and a passenger in the car with him remarked "there goes your car." When the arrived home, Sproul told police, his car was gone.

Local police said they received the pickup on the men Friday night and were warned that the occupants of the machine may be armed. Later they were notified that the men were also wanted in Uniontown for armed robbery.

Winner Of Beauty Pageant To Receive Gold Wrist Watch

An exclusively styled solid gold 17-jewel wrist watch, suitably engraved, will be presented to the winner of Miss Cumberland beauty pageant to be held Saturday, June 21, at the Maryland Theater, according to Norman Goldblatt, chairman of the awards committee.

Miss Cumberland will also receive a silver loving cup as a memento of the occasion, Goldblatt said, adding that "Every girl a winner" is the slogan adopted by the pageant awards committee.

During preliminary auditions, 20 Cumberland girls will be selected to compete for the title of Miss Cumberland. Each will receive an award in recognition of her appearance in the pageant, with the more valuable awards going to the winner and runners-up.

The pageant is open to single girls between the ages of 18 and 28, who are residents of Cumberland or its immediate suburbs. Entry blanks may be secured at Room 514, Liberty Trust Building, or at the box office of the Maryland Theater.

Jack Moore, pageant chairman, reported that young men as well as girls have been appearing at headquarters in the Liberty Trust Building.

One young man escorted his sweetheart to the pageant headquarters with the remark, "I think she's the prettiest girl in town and I want everybody else to see her," Moore said.

Another young man visited pageant headquarters and asked for a "handful" of entry blanks. "I don't want to enter, but I know a lot of pretty girls," he explained.

Traffic Problems Feature First C. Of C. City Improvement Meeting

Overhead Bridge Urged By Members

The local traffic and parking problem along with discussion of an overhead bridge, yesterday featured the first of a series of 15 meetings to be held by members of the Chamber of Commerce for discussion of community improvements, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary.

The meetings will be limited in number to not more than 15 members to permit free discussion, Smith said as he explained that the purpose of the series is to permit and encourage each member of the C. of C. to express his views on the community and make suggestions for improvements and developments.

Members who attended yesterday's meeting urged that the C of C push plans for an overhead bridge in the business section of the city. Smith asserted, adding that traffic and parking conditions in downtown Cumberland was the No. 1 topic of the gathering.

Criticism of dirty streets and conditions in the downtown section were also discussed, according to Smith, with one member calling attention to a recent wind storm that struck the area. The amount of refuge that was blowing about the streets created an acute traffic hazard, Smith said the member declared.

Two of the group, who are "newcomers to the city" were also critical of the manner in which they were greeted by many of the residents of the city. Remarks like "we know you will like living in Cumberland after you become accustomed to it," isn't the way to create civic spirit, the members explained.

Older residents of the city should welcome newcomers with a brighter attitude and assume that there is much in the city to like without first becoming accustomed to it, they explained. After all Cumberland, while it can stand many improvements, has facilities, stores, a fine location and is a pleasant, attractive city in which to live, the two members declared.

Smith said the meetings are planned to give the entire membership an opportunity to express primary interests in the city's development along industrial, commercial and culturial lines.

The second meeting will probably be held next week, he said.

America Needs Strong Military Force, Lt. Col. Millholland Says

Cites Possibilities Of Danger To U. S.

Possibilities against which America must defend itself with the strongest military power in the world were outlined to members of the Junior Association of Commerce last night by Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, executive officer of the 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard, and veteran of World War II.

The United States today holds the balance of power and would be the first country to be attacked should some other nation attempt to rule the world, Millholland said in his address delivered at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

He listed these three reasons why America must have a strong land force to guard against the future:

May Take Over Europe

1. Some single country may take over the whole of Europe. This, he said, is not only possible but quite possible S probable and the United States could not prevent it.

2. Some country already may have developed the atomic bomb, insurance of world power for any country that would use it. Atom bombs in strategic places in the United States, he said, would make this country vulnerable to occupation troops. The atom bomb, itself would not completely defeat any country, he said he believes, but could be followed up by occupation troops.

3. It would be useless to depend on the Navy to prevent occupation troops from landing as a follow up to atom bombs because ships, in close groups in harbors and rivers, could be easily destroyed.

Millholland said that any European nation, after taking over the whole of Europe, would have plenty of ships available, drawing on subordinate countries, and could land a substantial force.

He pointed out that foreign scientists are ahead of Americans concerning rockets and jet propulsion, that resources of the United States are equaled by resources of the European Continent, and that the planning of European military advisors is just as cunning and far more inconsiderate of human life in terms of all-out warfare.

Urging support and enlistment in the National Guard, Millholland also discussed the Universal Military Training Bill and said its passage is absolutely necessary if the

Blunks Will Attend Rotary Convention

Adolph Blunk, Buckingham Road, president of the Cumberland Rotary Club, accompanied by Mrs. Blunk, left last night by train for San Francisco, Calif., to attend the International Convention of Rotary which will be held there June 8 to 13 inclusive. Mr. Blunk is the official delegate from the Cumberland club.

Miss Barbara Blunk, a student at Dennison University, Granville, Ohio, will join her parents in San Francsco next week and attend the convention with them.

Federal District Court Will Be Closed June 30

No Appropriation; Bar Association Objects

Federal District Court located in the Post Office building here will be closed June 30 unless Congress grants a request of the Allegany County Bar Association and includes in its courts appropriations funds for maintenance of an office for the deputy clerk of the local Court.

Charles W. Zimmerman, Baltimore, clerk of the U. S. District Court for the District of Maryland, informed C. Edgar Keller, deputy clerk here, that he had been advised the Appropriations Act for the Courts of 1948, already passed by the House of Representatives, prohibits application of any part of the funds appropriated to pay costs to maintain an office of clerk of the district court in Cumberland.

If the bill is enacted, as seems probable, Zimmerman said, the office will be closed June 30.

Created In 1892

The district court here was created in 1892 while the late Col. George A. Pearre was a member of the United States Senate. Keller has been deputy clerk since March 5, 1924.

The Bar Association, meeting Tuesday morning at the Court House, went on record opposing closing of the deputy clerk's office, and sent letters stating their objections to Senators Millard E. Tydings and Herbert R. O'Conor and to Rep. J. Glenn Beall.

Rep. Beall said last night he has entered a protest to the Apppropriations Committee trying to protect the local court, but added that it will be necessary to show that the court is justified in order to have the necessary funds provided by Congress.

He explained that the Appropriations Committee conducted a survey of courts throughout the country and failed to grant appropriations to 54 courts in addition to the one located here.

Courts eliminated were those not having a minimum of 50 cases a year on the basis of the survey conducted in 1945 and 1946, Rep. Beall said, and Cumberland fell into that category.

Maintenance of the deputy clerk's office here costs less than $2,000 a year, according to Keller. It is the only federal court in Maryland outside of Baltimore and has handled about 2,300 cases, including criminal, civil and bankruptcy proceedings, since its creation.

"Strenuously" Opposed

A motion passed unanimously by the bar association in a move to keep the court open, authorized the president, W. Earle Cobey, to prepare a resolution "strenuously opposing" the Appropriation Act for the Courts of 1948.

In letters mailed by the bar association to Senators Tydings and O'Conor and Rep. Beall, it was pointed out that the court was established here in 1892 to permit suits to be filed in the District Court of Maryland in Cumberland rather than requiring local counsel to file them in Baltimore.

"While there is not a great deal of work in this office," the letter stated, "nevertheless the office has been a great convenience to the bar and contains the local bankruptcy records and an excellent library."

Unless a case involves a large number of local witnesses, federal court does not sit in Cumberland, according to the letter, but it adds that the aggregate of fines and costs in cases originating in this area in one year is in excess of the "small amount" necessary to maintain the local deputy clerk's office.

The bar requested that the Appropriations Bill for 1948 be amended in the Senate to include funds as may be necessary to maintain the local office.

Library May Be Moved

Attorneys yesterday pointed out that while the local court is the only federal district court in Maryland outside of Baltimore, no cases have been disposed of here for about 10 years.

It was considered likely that all court records filed here will be sent to Baltimore and that the library, termed the best federal library in this part of the state, likewise will be moved.

LOSES VALIANT FIGHT — A funeral service for Floyd Ernest "Sammy" Kunes, 15-year-old Fort Hill High School freshman, 104 Gleason Street, who died here Tuesday afternoon as a result of a rare blood malady, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church. Burial will be in Cook's Mill Cemetery.

Three Men, Child Injured In Two Auto Accidents

Five-Year-Old Girl Is Seriously Hurt

Three men, one a federal postal inspector from Washington assigned to a case here, were injured yesterday when a jeep crashed against the rear of a sedan in the 800-block Greene Street at 4 p. m., and a 5-year old girl suffered serious injuries when she was struck by a truck.

Detective Edwin R. Lilya, City Police Department, said the two men in the jeep, Joseph Monnett, 28, 894 Henderson Avenue, the driver, and Melvin Shipe, 36, Keyser, W. Va., were admitted to Allegany Hospital but the postal inspector, Floyd J. Curtis, 38, was treated and discharged.

Shipe, police said, suffered a fractured skull and multiple lacerations of the right leg, while Monnett was treated for a deep laceration over the right eye and cuts on his forehead. Both men were kept in the hospital for observation. Curtis, according to attaches, suffered minor cuts above the left eye.

Stopped For Directions

Curtis, according to Detective Lilya, was headed west on Greene Street, when he stopped his machine to ask directions of a passing pedestrian. He then started the car again, the detective stated, and Monnett's jeep crashed against the rear causing considerable damage.

Police estimated damage to the jeep at $100 and said Curtis' vehicle was damaged to the extent of $200. Both vehicles were taken to garages for repair.

Lilya said the investigation of the crash is incomplete pending outcome of the men's injuries but added charges will probably be preferred against Monnett.

Hospital attaches described the conditions of both men as "good" last night.

Police identified the child as Donna Jean May, daughter of Mrs. Hilda May, 322 Bond Street, and said she suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and possible fracture of the pelvic bone when she was struck by a vehicle at Milton Place near Henderson Avenue.

Driver Identified

Detective Lilya identified the driver of the truck as Curtis Breedlove, Cresaptown, and said he and a passing motorist took the child to Allegany Hospital.

Breedlover, police said he told them, had just made a turn from Henderson Avenue up Milton Place to get to Columbia Avenue, when the child, playing on the pavement, ran between two parked behicles against the side of the truck.

Police described Milton Place as a very narrow passage and said there was no chance for a motorist to swerve his vehicle in an attempt to avoid the accident.

Lilya said no charges will be placed against Breedlove.

Only "Superior" Teachers To Be Hired, Kopp Says

Application List Largest In Years

With 186 applications already submitted to the Allegany County Board of Education for teaching positions in high schools, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, said yesterday only "superior qualified persons" will be considered for the 1947-1948 term.

"We want instuctors with superior training and ability and not persons with average ratings," Kopp explained indicating that the exceptionally large list of applications for positions will permit selections of choice instructors.

Tentative Appointments Made

Of the 186 applications now on file, Kopp said a "few tentative appointments" have already been made, but declared that the task of checking references and character of applicants makes each appointment a long painstaking job.

Certain changes will be made in the present teaching personnel, Kopp explained, and where changes are made the replacement will be made with teachers of "superior training and ability."

The standards of the Allegany County Board of Education have for many years demanded persons of high qualities, Kopp asserted, but because of the low salaries and decidedly low number of persons interested in the teaching profession, it has been impossible to adhere to such standards. Now, he said, with the salaries increased and a group of select persons applying for positions the board will insist on the standards being met.

The exceedingly large number of applications already filed at the office, indicates that the board can be selective, Kopp stated, adding that it has been many years since teachers could be employed on a selective basis for the county.

Many of the applications already received are from persons with high qualifications, Kopp said, adding "of course good wages also attract persons who are not so well qualified."

Appointments Delayed

Because of the work required in checking each applicant and indications that others will still be received, there appeared little likelihood that the faculties for the county schools will be ready for announcement soon.

Great pain to secure all information possible concerning the applicants is being taken, Kopp explained to insure that the judgment in selections will be based on sound information.

While the applications for elementary school positions have not been as great in number, the four-year college training will still be required, Kopp explained.

Commencement Sermon Set At Fort Hill

Rev. C. H. Hutchinson, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, will preach the commencement sermon Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the auditorium of Fort Hill High School.

The program will open with "Pomp and Circumstance" by the school orchestra. Other numbers will include:

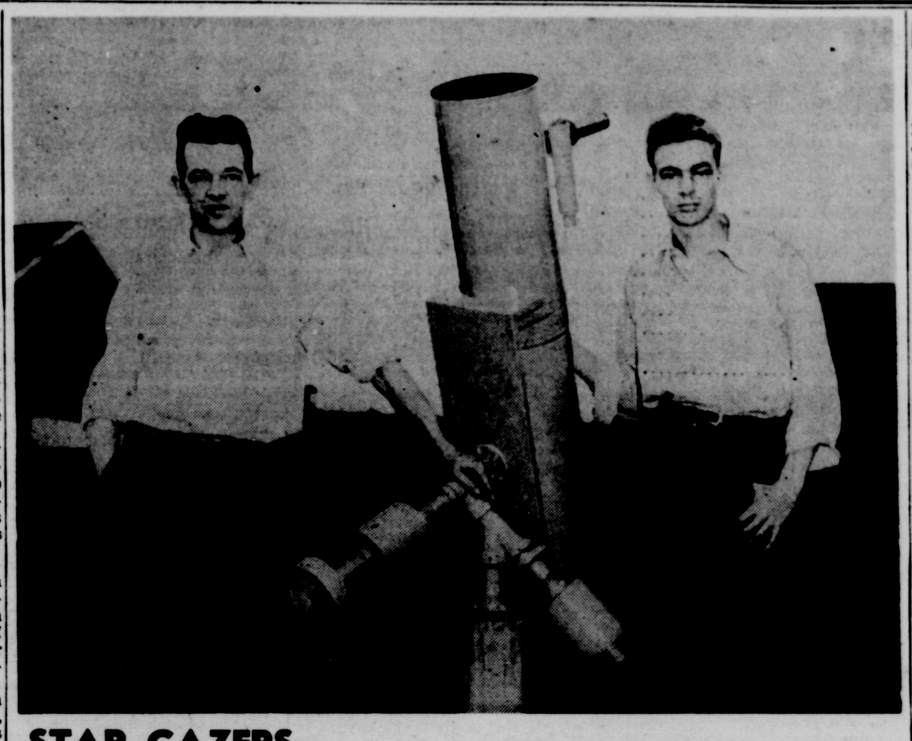
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seifers, 808 Columbia Avenue, announce the birth of a son Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamp, Route 4, Oldtown, Wednesday morning in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson F. Mackrill, 1723 Que Street, N.W., Washington, announce the birth of a son last Thursday in Providence Hospital there. Mrs. Mackrill is the former Miss Mary Phyllis Umstot, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Umstot, this city.



STAR GAZERS—John H. Deetz, left and his son James Deetz, 17, 503 Baltimore Avenue, are shown here standing beside an eight-inch reflector-type telescope constructed for Jimmy by his father, to aid in the study of astronomy. Jimmy has been interested in the science for several years, and aroused the interest of his father who ground the lens and constructed the telescope. It is located in the back yard of their home and is solidly imbedded in a large concrete slab for stability. Perfectly balanced, the 'scope is extremely powerful and is considered an excellent piece of craftsmanship.

Damages Of $5,000 Sought As Result Of Two Accidents

B. And O. Sued In Crossing Crash

Declarations in two $5,000 damage suits, one concerning an automobile-train accident and the other a collision of two automobiles, were filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

Donald W. Barger, Oldtown Road, charged Norman Roy Collins, Cumberland, with negligent operation of his automobile and said Collins, by exercising reasonable care, could have avoided an accident on Route 40 east of Cumberland on November 28, 1946.

Barger was a passenger in the car operated by Riley D. Heavner, near Flintstone, who was killed in the crash, and said he suffered a brain concussion, his left arm was broken in three places, that his knees were injured and that he was otherwise shocked and disabled.

Driving Toward Flintstone

Edward J. Ryan, Barger's attorney, said Heavner was driving toward Flintstone when the accident happened near Minke's Tavern on Route 40.

He added that Collins, headed west, saw, or by exercise of reasonable care could have seen, the collision was inevitable in time to have avoided it.

Barger asserted that he was required to undergo hospital, medical and surgical treatment, has been permanently disabled and for a long time has been deprived of his ability to earn his usual wages.

Edward Miller, Frostburg, filed suit against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company charging that it was the railroad's negligence that resulted in an accident on the Keystone Crossing near Meyersdale, Pa., December 5, 1946, in which he was injured.

Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., attorneys for Miller, said he was riding in the car operated by Ralph A. Lewis, Frostburg, and that the two men were returning to Frostburg when the car was struck by a westbound passenger train.

The automobile was demolished, according to the attorneys, and Miller suffered severe injuries to his back, shoulder and legs, was required to undergo medical treatment and was unable to work for several weeks.

High Rate Of Speed

The train approached the crossing at a "high and dangerous rate of "speed" of 50 or 60 miles an hour, without ringing a bell or blowing a whistle and no watchman was on duty, according to Miller.

The declaration charged that it is the duty of the railroad to exercise reasonable care to avoid injury to persons crossing the tracks at the crossing, that speed of the train should have been reduced to 40 miles per hour as provided by regulations of the company and that a watchman should have been on duty because a wide curve obstructs the view.

In listing contributions for May, $34 were inadvertently overlooked in making the tabulations. Those contributions are as follows:

Father And Son Find Common Interest In Study Of Stars

Construct Eight Inch Telescope

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

James Deetz, 17-year-old Fort Hill High School junior, and his father, John H. Deetz, plasterer, 503 Baltimore Avenue, are real pals. As you talk with Jimmy about his interests, he keeps referring to things his "Dad does" or "Dad says." And when you talk with the father, he would rather talk of Jimmy than most anybody else.

It's all because they have a mutual interest, and Jimmy seems to have led the way.

For a good many years, Jimmy has been fascinated by the stars, not movie stars, or football stars or baseball star like most high school boys and their Dads, but the celestial stars . . .the moon. . .the sun. . . the planets . . . and all the bodies that move about the sky.

As he studied, and star-gazed and learned much about this oldest of the sciences, his father also became interested and decided Jimmy should have a telescope. Not the kind of telescope you can buy for a $10 bill, but a big one. The kind of telescope real astronomers use. The kind that magnifies the stars so many times you seem to reach out and touch them.

But this kind of telescope is quite costly and usually found only in observatories, universities, naval stations, etc., and much out of the reach of the average individual.

Heard About Big-Inch

Jimmy and hi Dad read about the big 200-inch telescope used by Russell Porter, and inquired about how it was made. They learned that Porter interested a number of amateur and would-be-astronomers in helping grind the lens. They also discovered that it is possible to make a first class telescope at very reasonable cost, provided one had the skill and patience.

So Jimmy's father, who is also an amateur radio operator, as a hobby, bought the necessary glass and began to grind the lens. It took three months of long polishing and grinding. It was delicate and tiring work, and there wasn't any time for radio "hamming". But finally the glass was finished, and it turned out to be perfectly ground and beautifully polished. Then it was sent away, Jimmy explains to be silvered. Actually it is coated with chrome-aluminum.

Intricate Task

The lens is made of two pieces of pyrex-type glass, about an inch or more in thickness and eight inches in diameter. One piece, the bottom is called the "tool", while the top becomes the mirror. Seven different grades of carborundum are used for the grinding and then the final polishing is done with jewelers rouge, Deetz explained. By rubbing the "tool" with the "blank" or mirror piece, around and around, making each stroke the same, and grinding slowly but truly, one piece of glass gradually becomes concave, and the other convex.

And this is the secret. They must be perfectly ground and finished, so they fit together as one single unit. This causes the rays of light to concentrate at one central point, which Jimmy explains, is the secret of magnification.

After this laborous task was finished, Deetz constructed a prefectly balanced pedestal and mounted a "stove-pipe" like tube or barrel about five feet long on the pedestal. The lens was placed in one end, a small mirror, carefully balanced and centered is in the other.

Perfect Appearance

When the telescope is sighted at a star, the star is reflected from the lens into a small mirror. By looking into a small telescope on the outside of the tube, the star image reflected into the small mirror can be seen clearly and without distortion or unnatural color.

To make the operation a little easier, a small "finder" much like a small telescopic sight is also attached alongside, for locating a particular star or planet, before focusing the larger apparatus.

Jimmy can name planets and stars and formations just about as long as you can listen to him. He has an astounding knowledge of the subject and also an excellent mechanical knowledge of the operation and construction of reflecting telescopes. So does his father, who usually lets Jimmy tell about the stars, etc.

Jimmy first became interested in astronomy several years ago as a Boy Scout. He is still a member of Troop 19, and began studying about the moon and its phases several years ago. One thing led to another, he explained, and soon he was studying astronomy quite seriously

Takes Exception To Referee's Decision

An appeal from a decision of a state appeal referee of the Unemployment Compensation Board allowing unemployment compensation benefits after April 6 to 131 employes of Hoffman Mine No. 3 and Eckhart Mine No. 10 of the Consolidated Fuel Company, Inc., has been filed by the company, Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the UCB, said yesterday.

The company filed the appeal with Miss Irene Zaccaro, referee who conducted the firm's appeal from a decision of the local office in the same case, and requested a review of the proceedings by the three-man Unemployment Compensation Board.

Because the firm has taken exception to the referee's decision, no benefits will be paid to employes for the period between April 7 and May 23 until the appeal is disposed of, Kenney explained.

He added, however, that after May 23, all employes of Mine No. 3 are eligible for benefits on the basis of information contained in a letter from the employer to the individual employes stating that work is no longer available to them.

The final appeal, if either party is dissatisfied with the decision of the Unemployment Compensation Board, is to the Allegany County Circuit Court.

The company opposed payment of unemployment benefits to the miners, contending that the mines were authorized to open and the men could have worked, but Miss Zaccaro ruled that the failure or refusal of the men to return to work in the Hoffman and Eckhart mines on April 7 was for good cause.

The miners had observed the coal miners' 'holiday April 1 and then remained away from work for the remainder of the week until April 6 in memoriam of the Centralia, Ill., mine disaster. Then they continued unemployed as a result of a national mine close down to permit inspection of all coal mines for safety conditions.

Contending that the mines were unsafe in which to work, because of conditions found by federal inspectors, the miners filed claims for compensation after April 6.

Held For Investigation

A man identified as James Basil Wills, Altoona, Pa., was being held in City Jail last night for investigation after being arrested on Baltimore Street by Cpl. Thomas Veditz and Trooper Harry Bosley, Maryland State Police. Several places are being checked to see if the man is wanted, police explained.

NLRB Plans Election In American Stores

The National Labor Relations Board will conduct an election here July 16 to determine the bargaining agent for some 100 employes of the American Stores, Inc., in Cumberland and the George Creek Area, William Krapf, president of Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, reported yesterday.

The Meat Cutters union and Local 886, Retail Food Clerks, he said, have been conducting an organization drive in the stores for several months. The unions lost a similar election last year when stores from nearby communities were included.

Three Suits Filed In Crash Settled Out Of Court

Accident Occurred Near Flintstone

Three dmaage suits totaling $10,000, filed against Marshall Beachy, Grantsville, by Ralph Wharton, this county, Mrs. Alma Wharton, Boston, Mass., and their minor son, Paul, as a result of an accident on Route 40 near Flintstone July 25, 1946, have been settled out of court.

All three of the Whartons were injured and their car demolished when it and Beachy's coal truck collided, attorneys said, and sued to recover damages.

A judgment for $400 was entered in behalf of the boy, Paul, whose suit was entered by Ralph Wharton, his father and next friend, against Beachy, but attorneys did not disclose the terms of settlement in the cases of Ralph Wharton against Beachy and Mrs. Alma Wharton against Beachy. The boy sought $3,000, Wharton $2,000 and Mrs. Wharton $5,000.

The Whartons were represented by Edward J. Ryan while Beachy was represented by W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist.

Two Suits Removed

Two other suits filed in Circuit Court here have been removed to Washington County for trial. They were filed by William E. Lewis, Long, and Harvey E. Funk, LaVale, against James R. Smith, Oldtown Road.

The plaintiffs charge they were riding a motorcycle when Smith turned his machine across the right of way causing a collision. The accident occurred last fall at the intersection of Oldtown Road and Brookfield Avenue. Paul M. Fletcher represents the plaintiffs and William A. Gunter the defendants.

A petition has been filed in Circuit Court by David S. Boal, administrator of the estate of the late Janet H. Fazenbaker, Westernport, asking the court to pass a decree for the sales of two lots and a dwelling in Hammond Addition, Westernport. Boal says sale of the property is necessary to pay debts against the estate.

Two Divorces Sought

Defendants named in the petition are Bessie and John Beier, Albert and Irene Fazenbaker, Annie and Claude McIntyre and Margaret and Arthur Curling.

Suits for divorce were filed yesterday by Irvin A. Robinette against Mary D. Robinette, 4 Roberts Street, and by Helen Mae Carder Hefner against Rudolph Montgomery Hefner.

Zoning Board Grants Three Permit Appeals

Three appeals for occupancy permits were granted last night by the Board of Zoning Appeals at a regular meeting in City Hall.

John B. McFarland, Jr., was granted a permit to use a one-story concrete block building to be constructed at 503 Pine Avenue as a paint shop and auto repair shop.

Although the site is in a Residential B Zoning district, Joseph R. Mantheiy, board secretary, who presided, explained that the application was granted because of a special exception in the zoning ordinance which permits the establishment of a business in a residential district between two lots already used for business purposes.

Other permits were granted to Joseph Robinette to use a lot at 140 Thomas Street as a used car lot with a small office building; and to Henry C. Dolan to use a proposed building at 119 Henderson Avenue as a wallpaper store, with an apartment on the second floor.

New Postmaster Named

Local postal officials reported yesterday that L. H. Grabiel will be installed as acting postmaster tomorrow at Levels, W. Va.

Grabiel will succeed Mrs. Marguerite Romine, who resigned after serving as postmistress for a number of years.

Basis Is Sought For Meeting On Celanese Strike

No Progress Reported From Two Conferences

Federal and state labor officials were still striving yesterday to find some basis for resumption of joint negotiations which might lead to settlement of the contract dispute which closed the huge Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America here last Friday.

James A. Holden, federal conciliator, reported last night that he and Mrs. Margaret W. Kimble, acting commissioner of labor and industry for Maryland, held conferences yesterday morning and afternoon with union officials.

Will Continue Efforts

He did not elaborate on the report except to say that he expects to continue the efforts today to find some basis for joint negotiations.

Negotiations broke down Monday after both sides showed no indications of wavering from previous positions.

Fred T. Small, plant manager, said arrangements are being made to distribute pay checks for the week ending May 21 at the State Armory next Monday.

It was understood that police authorities suggested the change after the confusion which resulted Monday when some 7,000 of the 9,000 odd hourly rated employes of the plant reported to the Merchandise Mart to get their pay checks.

Small said yesterday no other arrangements for paying off could be made in such a short period.

Remove Tools

AFL employes who were engaged in a maintenance and modernization program at the plant were granted permission to enter the plant yesterday to collect their tools so that they might continue work elsewhere during the strike.

All was reported quiet at the plant as no attempt is being made to resume operations. Pickets are watching the gates but no incidents have been reported.

The company says union demands would add 31 cents to the hourly payroll as against their offers of 8.5 cents. The union said it had reduced its demands, listed by the company as totaling $3,910,120, by 75 per cent for a total cost of $1,229,100.

Today's union paper said an important meeting of the Strike committee will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at union headquarters. The group includes all officers, shop chairmen and committeemen.

Spinning department workers will hold a special meeting at the union hall tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Picket line activities include a party for children Sunday at 3 p. m.

Police Notified That Stolen Car Is Recovered

The third car taken in a series of thefts was recovered last night in Pittsburgh, but the thieves who were once reported armed and wanted for robbery in Uniontown, Pa., were still at large, according to police.

City Police recovered the second car, a Hudson that was stolen in Pennsylvania last Friday and then began searching for a Chevrolet, that Norman E. Fluskamp, 731 Maryland Avenue, reported stolen. They were notified that the vehicle was recovered last night.

According to Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnson, of the Cumberland Police Department, the alleged thieves drove into Cumberland Friday night in a Hudson coupe, that was reported stolen in Uniontown by Robert J. Sproul, of near there.

Sproul told police that an abandoned Dodge coupe was found near where he had parked his Hudson. Police said here that the Hudson was found near the scene where Fluskamp's Chevrolet was stolen.

Near the area where the thieves changed cars in Cumberland, and also changed license plates, placing Pennsylvanna tags on the local man's car, three other garages were broken into and attempts made to cross wires on automobiles, police said, but apparently the machines would not start.

City Police said that shortly before they received a pickup on the Hudson car, an officer working the Baltimore Street beat reported seeing two men changing a tire on a Hudson Coupe in front of the Embassy theater, Baltimore Street.

Last night, they declared that a call from an unidentified person in South Cumberland reported seeing three men loitering in the Maryland Avenue section Friday after midnight.

Sproul, in reporting the theft of his car to police, said that he was returning to Uniontown from Everett, Pa., Friday afternoon when he noticed a car coming toward Cumberland, and a passenger in the car with him remarked "there goes your car." When the arrived home, Sproul told police, his car was gone.

Local police said they received the pickup on the men Friday night and were warned that the occupants of the machine may be armed. Later they were notified that the men were also wanted in Uniontown for armed robbery.

Winner Of Beauty Pageant To Receive Gold Wrist Watch

An exclusively styled solid gold 17-jewel wrist watch, suitably engraved, will be presented to the winner of Miss Cumberland beauty pageant to be held Saturday, June 21, at the Maryland Theater, according to Norman Goldblatt, chairman of the awards committee.

Miss Cumberland will also receive a silver loving cup as a memento of the occasion, Goldblatt said, adding that "Every girl a winner" is the slogan adopted by the pageant awards committee.

During preliminary auditions, 20 Cumberland girls will be selected to compete for the title of Miss Cumberland. Each will receive an award in recognition of her appearance in the pageant, with the more valuable awards going to the winner and runners-up.

The pageant is open to single girls between the ages of 18 and 28, who are residents of Cumberland or its immediate suburbs. Entry blanks may be secured at Room 514, Liberty Trust Building, or at the box office of the Maryland Theater.

Jack Moore, pageant chairman, reported that young men as well as girls have been appearing at headquarters in the Liberty Trust Building.

One young man escorted his sweetheart to the pageant headquarters with the remark, "I think she's the prettiest girl in town and I want everybody else to see her," Moore said.

Another young man visited pageant headquarters and asked for a "handful" of entry blanks. "I don't want to enter, but I know a lot of pretty girls," he explained.

Traffic Problems Feature First C. Of C. City Improvement Meeting

Overhead Bridge Urged By Members

The local traffic and parking problem along with discussion of an overhead bridge, yesterday featured the first of a series of 15 meetings to be held by members of the Chamber of Commerce for discussion of community improvements, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary.

The meetings will be limited in number to not more than 15 members to permit free discussion, Smith said as he explained that the purpose of the series is to permit and encourage each member of the C. of C. to express his views on the community and make suggestions for improvements and developments.

Members who attended yesterday's meeting urged that the C of C push plans for an overhead bridge in the business section of the city, Smith asserted, adding that traffic and parking conditions in downtown Cumberland was the No. 1 topic of the gathering.

Criticism of dirty streets and conditions in the downtown section were also discussed, according to Smith, with one member calling attention to a recent wind storm that struck the area. The amount of refuge that was blowing about the streets created an acute traffic hazard, Smith said the member declared.

Two of the group, who are "newcomers to the city" were also critical of the manner in which they were greeted by many of the residents of the city. Remarks like "we know you will like living in Cumberland after you become accustomed to it," isn't the way to create civic spirit, the members explained.

Older residents of the city should welcome newcomers with a brighter attitude and assume that there is much in the city to like without first becoming accustomed to it, they explained. After all Cumberland, while it can stand many improvements, has facilities, stores, a fine location and is a pleasant, attractive city in which to live, the two members declared.

Smith said the meetings are planned to give the entire membership an opportunity to express primary interests in the city's development along industrial, commercial and culturial lines.

The second meeting will probably be held next week, he said.

Cites Possibilities Of Danger To U. S.

Possibilities against which America must defend itself with the strongest military power in the world were outlined to members of the Junior Association of Commerce last night by Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, executive officer of the 115th Infantry, Maryland National Guard, and veteran of World War II.

The United States today holds the balance of power and would be the first country to be attacked should some other nation attempt to rule the world, Millholland said in his address delivered at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

He listed these three reasons why America must have a strong land force to guard against the future:

May Take Over Europe

1. Some single country may take over the whole of Europe. This, he said, is not only possible but quite possible S probable and the United States could not prevent it.

2. Some country already may have developed the atomic bomb, insurance of world power for any country that would use it. Atom bombs in strategic places in the United States, he said, would make this country vulnerable to occupation troops. The atom bomb, itself would not completely defeat any country, he said he believes, but could be followed up by occupation troops.

3. It would be useless to depend on the Navy to prevent occupation troops from landing as a follow up to atom bombs because ships, in close groups in harbors and rivers, could be easily destroyed.

Millholland said that any European nation, after taking over the whole of Europe, would have plenty of ships available, drawing on subordinate countries, and could land a substantial force.

He pointed out that foreign scientists are ahead of Americans concerning rockets and jet propulsion, that resources of the United States are equaled by resources of the European Continent, and that the planning of European military advisors is just as cunning and far more inconsiderate of human life in terms of all-out warfare.

Urging support and enlistment in the National Guard, Millholland also discussed the Universal Military Training Bill and said its passage is absolutely necessary if the
